BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 16.—Reports filtering into Birmingham over badly crippled lines of communication indicate that the town of Ralph, Tuscaloosa county, was almost completely wiped out by a cyclone early today and that Sulligent, Lamar county, suffered a like fate. In these early reports which lack confirmation, the number of injured runs into the scores.

THOUGHT THAT FIRE IS UNDER CONTROL

A fire that has been burning in an out-door coal pile in the yard of the Lowell Electric Light corporation on Perry street for about two weeks is believed to be under control. It is stated that the coal became ignited as a result of spontaneous combustion. A steam shovel has been at work removing the fuel from around the point in the coal pile where the fire is burning. The corporation had a similar fire about two years ago that burned for several weeks, caused a loss of $10,000, and resulted in the sacrifice of one life.

VERY UNUSUAL LIQUOR CASE

Smell of Booze in Restaurant Gets Oliver Pinnette in Trouble

Police Didn't Seize Any Hooch But Defendant Was Sentenced

"Lost by a nose" describes the case of Oliver Pinnette, sentenced to three months in the house of correction and ordered to pay a $150 fine, today in the police court, after having been found guilty of illegally keeping liquor in a case which perhaps establishes a precedent in the annals of prohibition prosecutions. The sole evidence of the prosecution rested upon aroma—the aroma of moonshine. No liquor was seized on the premises of the defendant, nor was he shown to have sold any of the forbidden stuff. But liquor officers testified that when they entered his restaurant on Cheever street, armed with a search warrant, he hurriedly dumped the contents of a dipper into the sink. Dipper and sink, declared the raiders on the stand, were redolent of alcoholic odors. The only exhibit offered by the state was the empty receptacle which gave forth the moonshine scent at the time of Pinnette's arrest. Officer O'Sullivan, who first took the stand for the prosecution, described his entry into Pinnette's establishment, followed by the other members of the liquor squad. He declared that Pinnette, observing the invasion, hastened to the sink, poured forth with all speed the contents of a dipper, and turned on the water, which swept away any actual hooch, although it was not able to remove the telltale bouquet of booze. Officer O'Sullivan and his confreres all took turns smelling of sink and dipper, and then confiscated that latter. They arrested Pinnette on charges of unlawfully keeping liquor. Counsel for the defense asked Officer O'Sullivan if he saw any dishes in the sink, in process of washing. The officer had not seen any such articles. He could not say, however, whether there were in fact dishes there or not. Officer Winn took the stand and corroborated the foregoing testimony. "Did you see Pinnette run to the sink?" he was asked. "No," he replied. "But you just heard," continued counsel for the defense, "the testimony of Officer O'Sullivan, who says that the defendant did so run." "Well, O'Sullivan was in front of me. He entered the place first," was the reply. It was explained that the raiders went into the establishment Indian file, and that O'Sullivan discerned Pinnette while the latter was three or four feet from the sink and its fatal dipper reposing nearby. Pinnette was not slow, it seemed, to perceive the officers, for according to the testimony, the latter had hardly got "twelve inches" inside the door, when the odorous content of the receptacle had been deposited in the sink. The defense offered no testimony, appealed the sentence, and secured the release of Pinnette on bond to appear before the superior court.

INFANT MORTALITY RATE DECREASING

Intensive effort on the part of nurses of the board of health in co-operation with those of various local welfare organizations is beginning to show a substantial results in decreasing the local infant mortality rate.

During the first three months of the present year there have been only 88 deaths of children less than a year old. In the first three months of 1920 there were 113 deaths of children under one, while in 1919, when the best showing for low infant mortality in 25 years was made, there were 101 deaths of children under one in January, February and March. If the number of infant deaths continues in the same proportion for the rest of this year as in the first three months, a new record will have been established.

General mortality is also lower this year than it has been for the past two years, according to figures furnished by Agent Francis J. O'Hare, of the health department. In 1919 there were 563 deaths during the first three months, in 1920 there were 558 deaths, but the first three months of 1921 have brought about only 455 deaths.

PARIS, Oct. 16.—Occupation of more German territory by French forces should the Germans fail to meet the allied demands for the payment of 12,000,000,000 gold marks by May 1, may go beyond the Ruhr district and include at least a part of the industrial section of Westphalia, it is declared by the Echo de Paris. In discussing yesterday's meeting of the French cabinet, at which the question of eventual extension of military penalties was considered, the

CACHE LOCATED IN NEAR BEER ESTABLISHMENT

A skilfully concealed crevice in the wall of an Aiken street near-beer establishment, protected from the vulgar gaze of officers of the law by a mysterious sliding panel, failed to save the proprietor from arrest this morning, when the members of the liquor raiding squad entered his place of business armed with a search warrant, and to the accompaniment of dramatic circumstances, placed him under arrest on charges of illegally keeping liquor. Again the wiles of the local moonshiner were revealed as devious and weirdly ingenious. But also it was again revealed that the police liquor raiders are not exactly hoodwinked by even the most elaborately prepared devices for evading the arm of justice. Officer Winn told the story of the raid early this afternoon. According to the statement of the officer, the near-beer resort was entered shortly before midday today.

The proprietor, with marvelous agility, seized a shaker, presumably of the sort known in days gone by as a "cocktail shaker," and poured the contents thereof precipitately into the sink. But, alas, he overlooked a vital factor in the matter. For, according to Officer Winn, the stopper of the sink had not been taken out. Leaping over the bar, with the devil-may-care ease of an Old King Brady, one of the officers, with rare presence of mind, filled a bottle with the water which was in the sink, and carefully corked it up, for future reference in connection with the state analyst. A search warrant was then submitted to the gaze of the proprietor, states Officer Winn, and as the result of a hunt which did not cease until fruitful of results, the mysterious hiding-place with its sliding panel was discovered. Three and one-half pints of spirits were unveiled, and these were duly taken to police headquarters along with the proprietor.

LOWELL CHARTER BILL

The Lowell charter bill is still in the hands of the house committee on third reading and has been ordered reprinted. It is understood that owing to the number of changes which have been made in the document, it will have to go to the senate again for concurrence, even though that body has previously ordered the original bill passed to be engrossed. Inasmuch as the legislature does not meet again until Wednesday, it is doubtful if final action on the bill will be reached next week.

BRITISH CHIEF SHOT TO DEATH

Maj. MacKinnon, Commander of Crown Force, Murdered in Tralee, Ire.

Dozen Houses, Including Home of Priests, Burned—Civilian Shot Dead

CORK, April 16.—A dozen houses were burned today in Ballymacelligott, County Kerry, including a Presbytery in which priests resided, following the shooting to death of Major MacKinnon, commander of a company of auxiliaries, on the Tralee golf course yesterday. There have been no reprisals in Tralee where the military took charge of the town. All the shops have been closed and business suspended.

In Ballydwyer, a creamery, which previously had been burned and reconstructed, was again burned. A young civilian running on the approach of military lorries, was shot dead.

MARY FLYNN TELLS HER STORY

Jumped Because She Feared She Was Being Taken to Camp

Testimony Differs Somewhat With That of One Other State Witness

Mary Flynn, the 18-year-old girl whom Louis Laflamme and Fred Richard, local youths, are charged with having abducted Feb. 20, took the stand for the government today and testified to her recollections of the night when she leaped from a machine in which the defendants and another girl were also occupants. The Flynn girl recently was discharged from the Lowell Corporation hospital, where she lingered between life and death in consequence of a fractured skull sustained in the jump which the state's evidence would show was in defence of her honor, which she believed was threatened by the two young defendants. "I jumped because they were going to take me to the camp," she explained, when directly questioned by Judge Enright as to her motives in

TARIFF BILL PASSED

House Adopts Measure After Stormy Session — Senate Dictation Charged

WASHINGTON, April 16—With the combined emergency tariff and anti-dumping bill put through, the house was in adjournment today until Monday to permit the selection of minority committee members, particularly those on the immigration committee before the immigration restriction bill is reported out. When Representative Mondell, Wyoming, republican leader, proposed yesterday that the house meet today to receive a report from the immigration committee, Representative Garrett, Tennessee, acting democratic leader, objected because the minority members of the committee had not been selected and asked that the report be delayed. # OVER 2000 BILLS BEFORE CONGRESS —TARIFF BILL SURE TO PASS

Senator Walsh Has Big Committee and Rogers Will Press Veteran Bureau Bill ---Gen. Sherwood, 85, a Reporter in Press Gallery---Miss Robertson Wants No Privileges

(Special to The Sun)

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 16.—Now the excitement and rush over the opening of the 67th congress is out of the way, Washington has settled down to its normal condition and senators and congressmen are deep in matters of proposed federal legislation. On the first day of the session more than 2000 bills were introduced in the house and more than 200 in the senate. All previous records were broken. Many of the measures dealt with pension and the distribution of German cannon and field pieces, but to those were added hundreds of bills of great national importance, such as soldiers' bonus, a consolidation of all veteran benefits, the emergency tariff and others of world or country wide interest.

An unusual feature of the president's address was that it seemed to please, in a general way, the majority of men of both great political parties. Take for instance the view-point of Senators Walsh and Lodge. Nothing could be farther apart than those two gentlemen on many of the great issues of the day, yet both spoke in hearty endorsement of the president's message. It was very noticeable, as one looked down on that great crowd from the press gallery—for there wasn't an inch of vacant space in the whole chamber—that the applause given President Harding was spontaneous and that it came from both sides of the chamber, practically every democrat rising in his seat and joining in the tremendous demonstration that marked the entrance of President Harding and his escort of senators and members. I noticed one member of congress from Georgia, who very ostentatiously folded his arms, as he surveyed the scene with evident displeasure and took no chance of being mistaken for a man showing any respect or approval of the republican president. But with that single exception, the greeting was cordial, respectful and enthusiastic, regardless of political party.

The Coolidges

Vice President Coolidge sat on the raised platform beside Speaker Gillett, behind the president and Mrs. Coolidge was one of the presidential party with Mrs. Harding occupying the gallery especially set aside for the president—known always as the president's gallery. Both ladies were quietly dressed in simple tailor made suits, Mrs. Harding wearing grey and Mrs. Coolidge black. But some of their women guests blossomed out like a garden in June in picture hats of flowers of brilliant hue so the president's gallery "was a riot of color," as society writers sometimes say. I hear it whispered that the Coolidges will be glad when the time comes that they can hark back to a simple home life in some quiet residential part of Washington, and have their sons with them, spending their spare time in the same simple manner that marked their Massachusetts life. They are very graciously filling all the social duties of a vice president and the wife of a vice president, but that little $12.50 a month home of theirs out in Northampton is more to their personal taste than the glare of brilliant social events. However, the social path was pretty well blazed for them, and the Coolidges have met with a reception so cordial that a quiet life thus far has been an impossibility.

Senator Walsh

Senator Walsh will be one of the leaders of the senate this session, as his splendid committee appointments show. With the hostility of the last administration removed, he will come into far more power and influence even under republican leadership, than was the case during the first years of his service. As a member of the great committee on finance he will have a strong hand in framing the most important measures coming before the 67th congress, as well as taking an active part on other major committees.

Congressman Rogers' Bill

Congressman Rogers has been restored by the house republican caucus to his former position of ranking member on the foreign affairs committee which he relinquished last winter to accept the position of representative of that committee on the all important appropriation committee. Mr. Rogers will press his veteran bureau bill for early consideration. It is practically a duplicate of the one he introduced a year ago, and which met with marked favor by veteran organizations and was approved by a great number of members of the house. The bill was still in committee when the 66th congress came to a close.

The emergency tariff bill is likely to go through congress with a big majority, now that the anti-dumping clause has been made a part of it. Many New England members who voted against the measure last winter will now support it, believing the anti-dumping a great benefit to that section of the country. Although the entire delegation has not yet been polled, it is evident the great majority, if not all, now favor the bill.

Another bill of New England interest which Mr. Rogers will press for action is the one affecting the naturalization of alien women and according them citizenship regardless of the status of their husbands.

Two New Reporters

The corps of Washington correspondents, who sit up aloft in the press gallery and send out to the whole world the news of all legislative doings, has been increased this year by the in-coming of two men who are bound to attract considerable attention through their past official positions. One is General Sherwood of Ohio, a veteran of the Civil war, for many years a leading democratic member of congress, and who now, in his 85th year, starts out as a "Cub" reporter. The general is apt to be decidedly picturesque in his language, usually calling a spade a spade, and if his reports to the Toledo paper he will represent here, are as spicy as his little unpublished verses written for special occasions the other members of the gallery may as well take back seats. The other new reporter is Mark Thistlethwaite, former private secretary to Vice President Marshall, and who made his initial bow in the press gallery at the opening of the 67th congress this week. He will serve on the staff of one of the big metropolitan papers which has a news bureau here. Most of the men sent here by their papers are seasoned correspondents, and it's seldom two such distinguished recruits show up asking for membership in the press gallery. It's no job for an average cub—but these two men don't come under that class. What they don't know about politics and politicians isn't worth knowing.

Plain "Robertson" for Congresswoman

Speaker Gillett has a vexed question to decide on which precedent sheds no light.

Shall the Reading clerk of the house shout "Robertson" when he calls the roll instead of prefixing the title "Miss" when he reaches the name of Miss Alice Robertson, the only woman member of the house? It would have been "Miss Robertson" without a question had not she said to the clerk yesterday: "Please say just Robertson, the same as you would do for a man." "Won't that be disrespectful?" asked the clerk. "You know we all want to do just the right thing by you." "Not a bit disrespectful. Besides why emphasize the fact that I'm an old maid, every time the roll is called?" countered Miss Alice with a merry twinkle in her bright grey eyes. "Well," sighed the clerk dubiously, "I'll have to ask the speaker about it." So a few minutes later Speaker Gillett cornered Miss Alice in the lobby and asked her if it were really her preference. "Indeed it is" she answered. "I'm here doing a man's work, so why discriminate?" The speaker smiled, but did not commit himself as to the course he would follow, and walked away looking a bit puzzled. Now Speaker Gillett is known the country over for his innate courtesy, kindliness and rigid observance of conventionalities. Probably he would rather suffer death as a martyr than to personally address the lady from Oklahoma as "Robertson" and it's safe to say he will wince every time he hears it done. All the same he respects her wishes. Men here refer to it as a sort of Lady & The Tiger case—no one will know the outcome till the first roll is called. Miss Alice was not an advocate of woman suffrage, but she is ready to play the game to the limit now it's on the statutes. She stands for strict equality—not a combination of man's rights and woman's privileges.

Spring find you tired and achy?

ARE you dragging along from day to day with a lame, achy back? Do the early weeks of spring find you all tired out, weak and lacking ambition for the day's work? Does every little task bring those stabbing pains that keep your nervous and unstrung? Then lose no time finding out what's wrong. Your back doesn't ache without a cause and usually it is weak kidneys. A cold, strain or overwork may have slowed up your kidneys and left poisons in your blood that shouldn't be there. That, then, is why you have those all-day backaches and sudden pains, headaches and dizzy spells and annoying bladder irregularities. Don't let the trouble get worse! Use Doan's Kidney Pills. They have helped thousands and should help you. Ask your neighbor!

THESE ARE LOWELL CASES:

OSGOOD STREET
H. W. Hilliard, city fireman, 20 Osgood street, says: "I suffered a long while with my kidneys before I could get anything to help me. I happened to hear of Doan's Kidney Pills. They helped me from the start. Before I took them, I had a dull, constant ache in the small of my back. If I bent over, I could hardly straighten again. Sharp pains would catch me in the back. The kidney secretions were too frequent in passage and caused me much annoyance. Doan's Kidney Pills cured all this trouble."

KIMBALL AVENUE
Mrs. L. Wright, 13 Kimball avenue, says: "My kidneys were in a bad condition and often my back ached so, I couldn't sit or lie down without being miserable. My work was often neglected. I was so tired and run down. My kidneys acted irregularly. I read of Doan's Kidney Pills and used them as directed. After using three or four boxes I was helped wonderfully. The backaches left and I could do my work without any trouble."

MIDDLESEX STREET
D. W. Parker, harness maker, 747 Middlesex street, says: "I was in a bad fix with kidney and bladder trouble. I also had rheumatic pains in my limbs and I had to walk with a cane. I could hardly get to the store and back to my home, as I just had to hobble along. The kidney secretions were scanty and painful in passage. I used Doan's Kidney Pills and they went to the seat of the trouble. The secretions became natural and the rheumatic pains left."

B STREET
Mrs. L. L. Lorrain, 39 B street, says: "My kidneys became weak and I suffered awfully. My back was so weak I didn't have the strength to walk and I had severe pains just over my kidneys. My kidneys acted irregularly, too. I suffered from dizzy headaches. For two months, every move I made sent a sharp pain all through my body. I read of Doan's Kidney Pills and got a supply. Three boxes cured me of the trouble and I have had no return of it."

IN HIGH SCHOOL HALL

Officers of Lowell High School Girls' Battalions Hold Annual Party

The officers of the Girls' battalions of the Lowell high school held their annual party last evening in the school hall with fully 300 young people present. The same happy features characteristic of previous affairs by the young women of the school were again in evidence and everybody present had a most enjoyable evening.

The evening clothes of the young women contrasting with the darker attire of the young men formed a pretty feature and the orchestra was partially screened from view by greenery. The matrons sat under a lattice bower over which roses were twined.

Senior Major Eloise Dion and Richard Willis led the grand march and were followed by the other officers in order of rank. The matrons were Mrs. Henry H. Harris, Miss Mary A. Webster, Miss Adelaide Baker, Miss Mary G. Stevens, Miss Millie Severance, Miss Edith Erskine, Miss Frances Leggat and Miss Myrtle Rooney.

Mrs. M. Reid, the retiring president of the auxiliary, was also remembered with a dress silk bag, the presentation being made by Miss Jessie Smith, the new president. Entertainment numbers were given, and refreshments were served. The committee in charge consisted of Mrs. L. Towle, Mrs. M. E. Rose, Mrs. Jennie Stevenson and A. W. Johnston.

CHARGES MADE AT "L" HEARING

Methods Used by G. O. P. Leaders Challenged by Two of Own Party

Steam Roller Tactics Alleged —Gov. Cox and Other Leaders to Testify

BOSTON, April 16.—Methods used by republican leaders to procure passage of the tunnel purchase bill of 1919 were challenged yesterday by two of their own party in the "L" investigation before the special legislative committee in the state house.

"Questionable methods," "steam-roller tactics," "political pressure"—these are phrases from the testimony of one indignant witness called in from the floor of the house.

Representatives John G. Hull of Leominster and Walter L. Mellen of Worcester were the republican insurgents who dared to attack the methods of their political chiefs.

A few hours later the committee announced the receipt of letters from house and senate leaders, asking that they be given an opportunity to testify. The authors of the requests were Speaker B. Loring Young of the house, President Frank G. Allen of the senate and ex-Speaker Joseph E. Warner, all house members in 1918 and 1919. They will probably be heard next Thursday. It will be recalled that Gov. Cox had already notified the committee of his willingness to testify.

Mr. Warner had been named outright as the author of a remark which made Mellen, "more determined than ever in opposition to the purchase of the Cambridge tunnel by the state."

Mellen's Charges

Mr. Mellen attended a caucus of house republicans called in 1919, to consider the "L" tunnel bill, he related. He says that upon entering he heard Warner say:

"My chief has called and, right or wrong, I am with this bill."

"That remark," said the witness, "didn't set well on my mind. Several of us left the room or started to do so."

And at another point: "Within all my experience I can't recall any other time when caucuses were called by the majority party to procure passage of a measure."

Mr. Hull was on the stand a few minutes later.

"Did you know of any irregularities among members of the legislature in connection with the passage of street railway legislation in 1918 or 1919?" queried Counsel George S. Taft.

"If you refer to a moral question of right or wrong, no," said the witness. "It is my opinion, however, that questionable methods were used to bring to passage the subway purchase measure in 1919."

"What did these acts consist of?"

"They consisted of political pressure brought to bear by certain persons on members of the house."

"Leaders in the two houses," the witness specified later.

Pressing questions from the committee failed to temper the witness' remarks.

"Perhaps what you mean is steam-roller tactics. Would that cover it?" suggested Representative James B. Brown.

"Yes, such tactics were evident."

Calls All Members of 1918 Body

Mr. Hull and Mr. Mellen appeared as witnesses after the committee had determined to request the presence of every member of the 1918 legislature. Last night a formal request was sent to every such legislator who has not previously testified. About 25 were asked to appear next Thursday.

Yesterday's session, however, was adjourned until 10 o'clock next Wednesday. Then, the committee is assured, Rep. Andrew P. Doyle of New Bedford, named on Thursday as the recipient of loans from the Fidelity Trust company on railway stock collateral, will be present. It was understood also that ex-Rep. John L. Donovan of Boston, also named as a Fidelity note-maker, would attend. So far as could be learned no word was received as to when ex-Senator Edwin T. McKnight, vice president of the Fidelity Trust company, would appear.

In the meantime the committee will be reinforced with legal advice, Elliott Bradford Church of Newton having been appointed assistant counsel to Mr. Taft.

Atwood and Driscoll Named

Other developments yesterday were the suggestion by Rep. Edward F. Harrington of Fall River, democratic floor leader, that Vice President Coolidge and ex-Gov. Samuel L. McCall be invited to testify, and the naming of two more legislators connected by witnesses with remarks about purchasing Elevated stock.

Rep. Charles H. Hartshorn of Gardner identified ex-Rep. Harrison H. Atwood of Dorchester as a man who had told him that he bought Elevated stock during 1918. Mr. Hartshorn, so far as his memory served, thought this took place before the passage of the "L" public control act.

A few minutes later Rep. Timothy J. Driscoll of Roxbury declared that Timothy F. Quinn of Sharon, while a member of the house in 1918, had asked him how much money he had and advised him that Boston Elevated was "a good buy."

BANK CELEBRATES ITS 36TH BIRTHDAY

The board of directors of the Lowell Co-operative bank celebrated the 36th anniversary of the founding of the institution by a dinner in the Yorick club last night. The event was also turned into an observance of the 80th birthday of Artemus B. Woodworth, president of the institution, since it was started. During the evening a gold-headed cane was presented to Mr. Woodworth, as a gift from the directors, by Francis E. Appleton, vice president of the bank.

The bank was one of the first of its kind to be established in New England. From a small beginning it has grown until it has assets at the present time of nearly $2,500,000. It has 4700 shareholders and has built more than 2500 homes in Lowell. At a meeting of the board of directors, following the dinner last night, loans of more than $75,000 were authorized and favorable action was taken on the application of 38 persons who wished to become shareholders. A new series of shares is to be opened for subscription immediately.

The members of the board of directors present at the dinner were: Artemas B. Woodworth, William D. Brown, Francis E. Appleton, George H. Taylor, Adam Cochrane, Stephen W. Abbott, Warren F. Sanborn, John Kerr, Frank E. Bramhall, Benjamin W. Clements, Herbert L. Bishop, Arthur A. Stewart, Arthur Bartlett, Walter H. Dorr, Frank B. Kenney.

There were present also the attorney and conveyancer, Stanley E. Qua, and the treasurer, Charles C. Drew.

MORE FIRES AT WASHINGTON SCHOOL

Two attempts of incendiaries to destroy the Washington school, in Lang street, are being investigated by the police, as the result of discoveries by the firemen. Yesterday evening fire broke out simultaneously in three parts of the building, but only a few desks and chairs were burned because of the early arrival of the fire apparatus. Fred Tibbetts, of Emery street, pulled the alarm at box 552, Midland and Lipton street, when he saw smoke in the supply room on the street floor. The firemen when they reached the scene discovered that a second fire was burning in the main hall, on the second floor, and a third in one of the rooms for the teachers. The fire, which occurred about 7.45, was preceded on Thursday by a blaze which broke out at approximately the same time in the evening. This conflagration was in the supply room, and resulted in the destruction of more than one hundred books.

French Plan New Advance

newspaper says that two reports, one military and the other economic, were adopted.

Marshal Foch submitted the military report, in which it was pointed out that it would be insufficient to fix the limits of the new occupation area on strictly military lines, adding that the economic element was worthy of equal consideration. The marshal is declared to have held that the first advance by French forces should be carried out with columns imposing enough to deal with any German reaction, although that would be most improbable. He declared this force could be considerably decreased once occupation was well established, and would not amount to more than 50 per cent. of the effectives held in the Rhineland by France before April 1, when the class of 1919 was mustered out. New battalions could be obtained by calling up the classes of 1918 and 1919, one of which could be replaced in three months by the class of 1921.

Louis Loucheur, minister of liberated regions, submitted the economic report, stating that the penalties to be applied should not be merely to exert pressure upon the Germans and force them to give in, but as a means to bring in the money due to France. He outlined a system of payments of a permanent character which might be continued after the occupation. It consisted essentially in taxing Rhineland coal and industrial products exported from the occupation area. He declared that, according to careful calculations, these payments should yield three billion gold marks per year, and said it would be a starting for a complete system of payment which could be applied to the whole of Germany, if the Germans could not be induced to come to a mutual agreement with the entente.

All that remains is to perfect details of plans so that the occupation may be effected smoothly, it is declared.

WANT ADDITIONAL LAND FOR CEMETERY

William H. Rigby, chairman of the board of cemetery commissioners, at a special meeting of the board late yesterday afternoon was empowered to confer with Charles T. Rowland, representing Erastus A. Bartlett, relative to the purchase of land off the Old Boston road as an addition to the Edson and Westlawn cemeteries. It was stated that Mr. Bartlett wanted $25,000 for the land, but the board was opposed to paying so large a figure. If the conference of the chairman with Mr. Rowland results in no agreement, the cemetery board will consider taking the land by the right of eminent domain.

Big Increase in Re-employment in Detroit

DETROIT, April 16.—The hundred thousand mark has been passed in re-employment of workers by the larger industrial plants here, according to the weekly survey of the Employers' association, issued today. The aggregate force of the 79 concerns represented in the report was placed at 100,347, an increase over last week of 5126. Only 19 of the shops are now working on part time schedules.

Features of Session of N. Y. Legislature

ALBANY, N. Y., April 16.—Creation of a transit commission to solve the tangled traction problem in New York city, legislation making local police officers responsible for enforcement of the federal prohibition act and legislation to provide for the return to the party convention system for nominating state and judicial officers were among the features of the session of the legislature ending today. Other legislation included: Continuation of the Lockwood committee's life. This committee has been investigating the building trades, a result of which more than 100 indictments were returned. ## AMUSEMENT NOTES

By Theatres' Own Press Agents

THE STRAND

"Outside the Law" and "Mid-Channel," Two Wonderful Photoplay Productions at The Strand All Next Week

Two super special photoplay productions, each one of which was featured at $2 prices at the Capitol Theatre, N. Y., and the Park theatre, Boston, will be shown the entire week at The Strand, commencing with matinee on Monday. The program which General Manager Soriero is offering is absolutely the biggest of its kind ever shown in New England. And the most satisfying feature of the week's run is the fact that the prices remain the same. In the afternoon children can get in for 11 cents and at night there will be 500 seats at 20 cents. The other prices for the night will be 25 and 35, tax paid.

Tod Browning's original drama of note, "Outside the Law," with Priscilla Dean in the stellar role, assisted by Lon Chaney, Ralph Lewis, Wheeler Oakman, E. A. Warren and many others of equal note, will head the bill of extraordinary features. The story of the play concerns the struggle of a little group of crooks to free themselves from the shackles of crime and live the life they desire. In this they are thwarted and double-crossed by an evil and revengeful figure of the half world, who resents respectability. In the background, and yet the dominant personality of this drama is an old heathen philosopher, whose ideas of right and wrong are based on no political statutes, and who metes out an unsanctioned justice "outside the law." Priscilla Dean is said to be at her dramatic best in this, her first picture since "The Virgin of Stamboul," while Lon Chaney has a dual role which outshines anything in his career of distinctive and difficult screen impersonations. Tod Browning wrote and produced "Outside the Law" as a Universal-Jewel, at an expenditure of almost one-half million dollars, and the result is said to be one of the most notable dramas of its kind of the decade, pictorially and histrionically. Little Stanley Goethals, the boy wonder of the screen, is one of those of the cast. If you like tense scenes, emotional and dramatic work, and characterizations that are interesting, don't miss this feature.

One of the finest motion pictures of the year is to appear under the title of "Mid-Channel," the famous stage play from the pen of England's foremost playwright, Sir Arthur Wing Pinero, and enacted on the screen by Clara Kimball Young. The strength, timeliness and the intensity of "Mid-Channel" need no comment, as the play has already won world-wide praise since its appearance on Broadway, with Ethel Barrymore in the role now enacted by Miss Young. It is enough to say that Clara Kimball Young reveals a dramatic magnetism that is nothing short of electric in its force, and displays an interpretative ability that has rarely been seen in motion pictures.

"Mid-Channel" as depicted on the screen fairly teems with brilliant and vivid dramatic moments that touch the fibres of the heart, awakening memories in some and sounding a warning to others. Its message is unmistakable—it rings out with clarion tones. Many a husband and many a wife will find their lives unfolded in grim truth with each act of this great drama. "Mid-Channel" is a distinct achievement in the photodramatic art, and reveals Miss Young at the peak of her power.

In view of the great drawing power of this program, the management advises patrons to beware of speculators and remember also that the tickets are only good on the day purchased.

There will be other smaller features on the program, and the musical numbers will help give it pleasing variety.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

Jean Adair, Noted Actress, in a New Play at the B. F. Keith Theatre, Next Week

Dainty, pretty, wholly charming Elsa Ryan will play her final times at the B. F. Keith theatre, tomorrow afternoon and evening, having as her chief support Rodney Ranous, the splendid young actor. On this bill also will be Gordon & Ford, in their musical act; William Ebs, the Thornton Sisters and Peak's Educated Blockheads, besides two acts especially brought here for the day—Robinson & Savoy and Charles Bradley.

Jean Adair, whose stay in vaudeville has meant a very decided uplift in the quality of good acting, will bring her third playlet to the Keith theatre next week. "Any Home" is the title, and in it Miss Adair will give another of those wonderful elderly parts which has made her so noted. She is really too original in her methods to be compared with any other actress on the vaudeville stage. "Any Home" is a symbolic comedy with a touch of pathos in it, and it was written by J. J. McNally, Jr., a young author who has had great success in placing noted players in good parts.

"Blackface" Eddie Ross, comedian and banjoist, will be another positive hit on the week's bill. Several years ago Ross was in Lowell, and he put his audiences into convulsive fits of laughter. He still has his African harp with him, and also a string of nonsense that is really rated as some of the funniest used on the stage. He is original in everything he offers.

The Three Chums are young men who present a singing skit called "A Few Moments at the Club." But it isn't all singing. There is genial comedy and a general air of conviviality about the performance which will be a reminder to many of bygone days. Their singing is specially good.

Rolls and Royce are 100 per cent. dancers, and that's going some. Like the name of the car that is the very apogee for luxury and speed, Jack Rolls and Ruby Royce stand for something distinctive and apart. Their program includes a wide variety of dance numbers, yet everything they do is graceful and artistic.

Handy balancers are the Donald Sisters, who have much of strength and grace, and who manipulate articles which would quite best some of the strongest of men. Bob and Peggy Valentine have a comedy and musical touch to their work, and Commodore Tom is a wonderful trained pony.

OPERA HOUSE

Big Broadway Success, "The Girl in the Limousine" to be Presented Next Week by the Lowell Players

"The Girl in the Limousine," the tremendous Broadway success by Wilson Collison and Avery Hopwood, will be produced the coming week by the Lowell Players at the Opera House. The world loves to laugh and this play offers better and more opportunities for laughs than any farce comedy written in many seasons. Its authors set out to crowd as many real roars of genuine laughter into a single performance as was consistently possible in the telling of a stage story. That they have accomplished this is now a matter of stage history. The Lowell Players are sparing no efforts to make their presentation of this famous laugh vehicle a signal one, a production that will not be forgotten for some time. The story revolves about a series of complications that begin with the holdup of a society man on his way to a week-end party, and the misunderstanding of a willful old aunt who insists and persists in misunderstanding whom the man is. To tell any more of the story would spoil its delight. The best way to get all that it has to offer and insure yourself against the blues is to attend one of the performances the coming week.

Director Bennett announces that he has cast the production with particular care and the scenic department of the theatre promises effects that are decidedly out of the ordinary. Mr. Byron and Miss Fields, leading man and woman of the Players, are intensely enthusiastic, as are also the other members in the company, at the parts they have been selected to play.

It seems quite unnecessary to comment on the ability of the entire cast to handle comedy. Past performances have demonstrated beyond doubt their rare accomplishment in treating humor-making. Miss Fields and Mr. Byron will find themselves possessed of ample material with which to serve well the purpose of the authors. Miss Priscilla Knowles, Miss Florence Hill and Miss Pembroke will be happily assigned, and Maxwell Driscoll, Kenneth Fleming, Charles Barton and the rest will also be found in congenial roles.

The advance sale of tickets indicates another record run for the week. In view of this report it might be advisable to make your reservations at once and thus avoid possible delay or disappointment. The box office is open daily from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m. Tel. 261.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

"The Love Flower," Another Big D. W. Griffith Production, Feature For Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday

Manager Nelson has secured another series of A1 attractions for presentation during the holiday week at the Merrimack Square theatre. As usual, the slogan of this popular amusement house, "Always a Good Show," will be followed and patrons are assured of the best obtainable in the photoplay line.

Starting off the week comes a big Sunday program. Will Rogers will appear in "Jess Call Me Jim," an appealing and interesting story, while Eugene O'Brien, oft-called "handsomest man on the screen," will star in "The Broken Melody," a dramatic feature with strong heart appeal. The usual excellent surrounding program will be carried out.

For Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday the outstanding feature will be the D. W. Griffith newest production, "The Love Flower."

Words of the most superlative degree and descriptions of the most laudatory nature have not been found to express in adequate terms this wonderful picture play of love and adventure such as only a Griffith, a master, may reveal in all its beauty, strength and excitement. Critics have pronounced it one of the most remarkable productions that has ever come from this master hand and fans everywhere have revelled in its beauty and excitement and heralded it as a production comparable only with the most wonderful that has come to the screen in the past few years.

Its theme, primarily, is of unusual interest, interwoven with side lights of intricate complications that add materially to its action, its heart interest, its suspense and its ultimate justification, for it is an unusually dramatic story of the wonderful love of a daughter for her heart-broken father, who being bounded to the very end of the world, dares to plan the undoing of the man who is desirous of bringing ultimate disgrace upon the very light of her heart and soul and unhappiness to her every thought.

Not one woman in ten thousand would do what this daughter dared to do to save her father. Not one person of her sex in many times that number would have clung to the heart strings of her parents, through their many trials and tribulations, with every atom of the strength of her frail body, as did this girl of nature, this child of all that was good and true and wholesome. Gratitude is the rosemary of the heart, but greater love has no one than they that would willingly give their life to save another. Yet this girl, without the knowledge of her father, plotted to give away all that was near and dear to her, even to the extent of her own life to save for him a few more happy days on earth.

The other big feature for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday will introduce Will Rogers, the celebrated "cowboy actor," in "The Gulle of Woman," a strong dramatic production presenting the star in the role of a Swedish sailor. This is an entirely different role from anything in which Rogers has previously appeared and his host of admirers will find new opportunity to applaud his ability. An excellent supporting cast assists him.

A comedy and the International News will round out the bill. The features for Thursday, Friday and Saturday will be "Godless Men" and "The Song of the Soul," two strong dramatic productions.

RIALTO THEATRE

"Isobel" and "The Truant Husband" Leading Attractions First Three Days of Week—Sunday Concerts

The Sunday showing at the Rialto theatre is one that will be attractive to all lovers of the screen for it introduces a pair of screen stars who have made a deeper impression than any other pair in that business today. The feature picture will introduce Viola Dana in an attractive plot, "The Willow Tree," and the late Olive Thomas in the last picture taken before her death, "Out Yonder." This is a picture that stands as a silent memorial to the unhappy death of this star. There will also be four acts of big time vaudeville.

In the attraction for the three opening days of the week the Rialto has secured a double feature program which will introduce House Peters and Jane Novak in James Oliver Curwood's famous northern story, "Isobel." The second feature sees Mahlon Hamilton, Betty Blythe and Francelia Billington in "The Truant Husband," and is said to be one of the best bits of the season. As addtional attractions for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday the Rialto has a continuation of "The Son of Tarzan," a Jimmy Aubrie comedy, "Jonah Day," and the Fox news.

For Thursday, Friday and Saturday the program brings Bebe Daniels in her latest farcical comedy, "Oh, Lady, Lady," now playing at the leading theatres of the country, and an added attrction, an English made picture, introducing English stars, "The Lure of Crooning Water," a comedy, "Beat It," an episode of "Fighting Fate," the Fox news and a Ford weekly. This is surely a program that will appeal to all lovers of the screen and one that should draw heavily to the Rialto.

"Isobel," which is based on James Oliver Curwood's famous story of northern life and which has been picturized by Edwin Carewe, ranks as one of the most remarkable film offerings of the year. Surely and beyond doubt it is the best story of the northwest ever told on the screen. Scenically, it is reputed to be a masterpiece and technically it is said to belong in the classification of truly great pictures. In the direction of the work Edwin Carewe is said to be at his best and the character "Isobel" stands out as a thoroughly human picture, every character being so perfect and so realistic that it is said that each reaches out and firmly wins a tender spot in the heart of the spectator. Curwood's stories are the most interesting of any written of northern country and House Peters and Jane Novak can certainly do full justice in the title roles.

In "The Truant Husband" the story winds about a happily wedded couple whose home life is disturbed by the return of the husband's former sweetheart. Betty Blythe and Francelia Billington carry out their respective characters in a natural way and win the esteem of all who see them. The other attractions of the Rialto are well up to the usual standard of its recent big productions.

Tariff Bill Passed

ment then was reached to adjourn until Monday.

Passed in the house yesterday by a vote of 269 to 112, only eight republicans and 15 democrats breaking away from the party alignment on the measure, the Young emergency tariff and anti-dumping bill now goes to the senate with republican leaders hopeful of its passage there next week. Action on the measure in the house came at the end of a session enlivened by democratic protests that the republicans, in standing for passage of the bill, precisely in the form put through at the last session, were bowing to the "dictation of the senate." The minority criticism followed a flat declaration by Chairman Fordney of the ways and means committee that the senate would accept no amendments.

"That admission by Mr. Fordney is the most amazing I have heard in my 15 years' experience in the house," Representative Garner of Texas shouted. "It appears that the constitution is being violated, for it says explicitly that revenue measures must originate in the house, and here we have the chairman of the ways and means committee admitting frankly that the bill was dictated by the senate."

"And further, Mr. Fordney's statement means that hereafter no bill can be amended in this house if the senate leaders will that it shall not be changed. It means we must bow to the senators' wishes whether or not amendments have merit."

Mr. Garret described the position in which the house was placed by Mr. Fordney's statement as "indefensible," adding that all discussion in the house later will serve no purpose. The republicans, he said, were protected "from their own folly in the last two years by Woodrow Wilson," and inquired who would save them from their own destruction now that their majority is overwhelming.

Representative Mann, Chicago, Illinois, attempted to smooth the troubled waters, but the democrats kept up a running fire of wit and sarcasm during the rest of the debate.

Mr. Fordney's declaration that no amendments could be attached was followed by the republicans who downed every attempt to make changes. Republicans who sought to amend the bill were disposed of with the same celerity as democrats, and the bill now goes to the senate.

The bill as passed by the house is practically identical with the Fordney measure vetoed in the last congress by President Wilson. Protection would be given a number of agricultural products, including wheat, cotton, sugar, wool, corn, cattle and sheep, but the bill would be operative for only six months instead of the 15 provided in the Fordney measure.

The anti-dumping provision also was not included in the Fordney measure together with a system for estimating the duties imposed on the basis of the American value of foreign coin as determined by the secretary of the treasury.

BRIGHTER OUTLOOK FOR CITY'S SHOE SHOPS

The shoe-manufacturing business has a brighter outlook in Lowell than in any other city in the state, according to a statement made by D. W. Shanahan, manager of the Federal Shoe Co., with a place of business on Dix street. A reason for this is said to be that in this city is made a standard grade of medium price shoes for which there is a good demand just now.

The Federal Shoe company has started work in several departments of its factory, preparatory to beginning operations on full time with about 500 employes at work in the near future. Mr. Shanahan states that it is expected that the concern will continue to operate on a full-time basis for an indefinite period. The company makes young girls', misses', children's, youths' and men's medium high grade shoes.

IN ALL SOULS CHAPEL

The Wellesley college chapel choir, composed of 40 young women, gave a concert of ecclesiastical music in All Souls church this afternoon. Professor MacDougall, head of the music department of the college and chapel organist, gave an organ recital. Next Wednesday afternoon a subscription tea in aid of the Wellesley endowment fund will be given by the local alumni at the home of Mrs. E. S. Hylan, 451 Westford street. The Lowell quota for the fund is $13,000.

Adventures of The Twins

THE MONKEYS GAVE A CRY OF JOY WHEN THEY SAW THE MIRROR.

"MOON COMES DOWN"

Upon hearing a strange voice say that the moon was leaning against an old stump on the ground, the two circus monkeys slid down the cocoanut tree like firemen down a greased pole. If the moon was anywhere round, they didn't want to miss it.

"Where is it? Where is the moon?" they asked.

"Here! Here!" answered the mysterious voice. "Down at your feet!"

Now Flippety-Flap had been very busy, and so had Nancy and Nick, upon their arrival at the place where the circus monkeys lived.

First, the fairyman took out the large round mirror he had brought in one of his great shoes, and out of the other shoe he took the rice they had brought from China. After that he made a small hole in the ends of two cocoanuts and filled them with the rice. The cocoanuts he then hid.

Next, the three travellers hid themselves behind the mirror and had just got settled when the monkeys came sliding down the tree.

"Here's the moon," called Flippety-Flap.

Mr. and Mrs. Monkey, particularly Mrs. Monkey, gave a cry of joy when they saw it. "Oh, you dear moon!" she cried. "I always knew you were a looking-glass. I can see myself perfectly now. Just as I thought, I'm the most beautiful creature on earth." And she started to primp industriously.

But Mr. Monkey was interested in other things. He was hungry. "Can you tell me, O Moon, where I can find some nice white rice?" he asked.

Flippety-Flap behind the mirror winked at Nick and answered loudly, "Yes, Mr. Monkey that I can. Look under the holo-bush for two cocoanuts. And then look inside the cocoanuts."

Mr. Monkey skedaddled over to the holo-bush and Mrs. Monkey left her primping and followed.

There on the ground were the two large cocoanuts, and in the end of each was a hole. Mr. Monkey picked one up, curiously, and stuck in his hand.

ALL WOMEN SHOULD READ THIS EVIDENCE

There are many women who have been invalids or semi-invalids so long that they accept their condition as a life burden. They have endured broken sleep, stomach trouble, nervousness, headaches and weakness so long that they have given up hope of enjoying good health. In many cases the illness began in childhood or early womanhood. It is these women, especially, to whom the story of Mrs. Mabel Johnson, of No. 67 Bennington street, East Boston, Mass., will prove most interesting and profitable.

"My sickness began when I was a girl," relates Mrs. Johnson. "Overstudy and lack of outdoor exercise caused a breakdown in my health and I never knew what it was to be as strong as most of the girls of my acquaintance. I was pale and so nervous that it seemed as though I should fly to pieces. I suffered from headaches a great deal of the time and didn't sleep well. I lost flesh and strength and my apetite was poor.

"When I was a young woman a friend recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and she was so sure that they would help me that I got a box of the pills and began to take them. They helped me in much shorter time than I had expected, for I had been ill so long. My appetite improved almost at once. Gradually my strength returned and I gained in weight and felt better in every way. I became less nervous and rarely have a headache now."

WILL HOLD PATRIOTS DAY EXERCISES

Patriots day exercises will be held in most of the local schools Monday. Appropriate programs have been arranged under the direction of the teachers. In some schools the exercises will be held in the halls while in others they will be confined to the individual classrooms.

All sessions of schools will be suspended Tuesday, the holiday, but will be resumed Wednesday morning. When the schools close next Friday afternoon they will not re-open until Monday morning, May 2, the intervening week being the annual spring vacation and the last before the close of the school year in June.

LOCAL DEATH RATE CONTINUES TO DROP

The local death rate continued to drop this week. Only 25 deaths were reported to the board of health as compared with 31 last week and 33 the week before. The rates for the three weeks were 11.53, 14.29 and 15.22, respectively. There were four deaths of children under five and two of these were of children under one. Pneumonia caused three deaths, diphtheria one and tuberculosis three.

Infectious diseases reported included the following: Diphtheria, 5; measles, 7, and tuberculosis, 6.

Loss of Life in Tornado

struck Sontag, 16 miles east of Brookhaven, today. Ten houses were wrecked.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 16.—A rapidly mounting death list that may exceed 50, dozens of persons injured, and property damage as yet unestimated, are results of a tornado that cut a wide swath across parts of Miller and Hempstead counties, Ark., and Casa county, Texas, last night.

Reports coming into Little Rock today, from the storm area, augmented rather than diminished the extent of the damage and because of paralyzed wire communication, officials were of the opinion that several days might elapse before the full extent of the destruction is definitely known.

Apparently the heaviest loss of life and property was in the two Arkansas counties. In the rural sections of upper Miller county, near Texarkana, 11 persons are known to have been killed and a large number injured. Near Hope, in Hempstead county, from 15 to 20 persons were killed and scores injured by the storm which swept the entire length of the county. The storm approached within a few miles of the town.

In Texas, the damage was in the vicinity of O'Farrell, a thickly settled farming community west of Atlanta. The despatches reported an unknown number of persons killed and injured.

Eleven bodies had been brought into Texarkana early today. Four bodies had been taken to Hope from the storm district in that locality. Early newspaper estimates here placed the number of dead at approximately 30.

Seven Lives Lost

DALLAS, Tex., April 16—At least seven lives were lost in northeastern Texas late yesterday in a tornado which, after sweeping sections of Smith, Wood, Gregg, Cass and Bowie counties, passed into Miller and Hempstead counties, Arkansas, where more than a score of persons were reported killed. Scores of persons were reported injured in the affected area of Texas. Six of the Texas fatalities were at Avinger, Cass county, and one at Atlanta.

To Confer on Coal Strike

apparently broken into sections as a result of the refusal of the national union of railwaymen and the national federation of transport workers yesterday to continue their support of the strike called by the miners' federation of Great Britain on April 1. Opinion prevails in some quarters that the action of the railroad workers and the transport men means the death warrant of the "triple alliance." This view is not held universally but, without doubt, the split which developed yesterday will have a serious effect upon the rank and file of labor.

"Yesterday was the heaviest defeat that has befallen labor within the memory of man," begins the Labor-ite Herald's comment on the sensational breakaway of the railroad men and transport workers. "It is no use trying to minimize it. The workers have not stood together and they have reaped the reward."

The newspaper declares that Frank Hodges, secretary of the miners' organization, made a tactical mistake by altering the old formula of the union during his address before the members of the house of commons on Thursday night. The union had held it would not negotiate until assured of the establishment of a national wage board, even if such a body would not begin operations immediately, but Mr. Hodges changed the formula by declaring the union would negotiate immediately postponing the question of a national board. Assertion is made that in so doing he went beyond his powers.

"The old machinery has failed," the Herald concludes. "We must start afresh and get a machine that will work, and develop a new spirit. This is not the end, it is the beginning."

Whether the Miners' Federation, in its turn, will split up, as predicted in some quarters, remains to be seen. Mr. Hodges' position has become delicate, but it is known he has the support of a strong minority. The hands of the present executives of the organization are tied, but the new conference of delegates, which has been called, may consent to modify its instructions so that negotiations may proceed.

MOREY SCHOOL ADDITION

The hall floors of the new addition to the Morey school are now being laid by a Boston firm. Radiators for the new building were set in place this week and the plumbing and heating work is now practically complete. The woodwork is about half done and during the coming week Commissioner George E. Marchand of the public property department hopes to complete arrangements for the purchase of desks for the various classrooms.

Former British Commander Ends Life

PARIS, April 16.—William Ogilvie Hozier, former commander in the British navy, and son of Col. Sir Henry Hozier, brother of Mrs. Winston Spencer-Churchill, was found shot through the head in a room of a Paris hotel last night, says the continental edition of the Daily Mail. While the case appeared to the authorities as one of suicide, no reason for such an act is known, adds the newspaper.

OFF MAIN HIGHWAY

There's Where Motorist Will Find Real Country

Balmy spring weather is bringing motor-enthusiasts out into the country.

The main roads out of the cities again are clogged with automobile traffic. More than ever, this year, as automobile manufacturers will testify by their sales.

Rather than join the slow procession, the nature loving motorist turns off the popular highway into the narrower country roads. Doing this, all that he has to worry about is dodging the chickens that persist in crossing the road.

For the country road makes good riding—on a balmy day. A properly dragged dirt road causes the least tire wear. That's what one tire maker says. It generates less heat in the tire than any type of road, he adds.

Besides this the motorist stands a better chance of meeting more real uncommercialized country this way, than if he followed the procession. And if he seeks bargains in farm products he'll still find them off the main roads.

OAKLAND ROADSTER

Light in weight, easy to drive, with controls so naturally placed that the driver can relax and still reach them conveniently, the Oakland Roadster is the ideal car where greater passenger capacity is not an object.

Economy of operation, with great power, are features that distinguish the Oakland Roadster. Built on the same sturdy Oakland chassis, with the same overhead-valve, six-cylinder, 44 horse-power engine as the other Oakland models, by reason of less weight the ratio of power to weight is greater in the roadster and reflects itself in unusual performance and mileage, both in tires and gasoline.

OVER THEIR HEADS

New Yorkers Get Wide Variety of Motor Bills

By Newspaper Enterprise

ALBANY, N. Y., April 16.—New York motorists are being swamped with motor legislation.

There are some 50 or more motor vehicle bills before the state legislature, and a few others have already been passed and signed by Governor Miller. The bills range from one providing use of a special device to imprint registration numbers on steering wheels to the bill increasing the registration fees.

Opposition to the latter has grown so strong, however, that the bill is not expected to survive the house session.

Among the numerous bills awaiting disposition is one providing for a state-wide operator's license, another getting after the motorist who litters the highways with paper; the "finger print bill," which has brought forth heated protest from chauffeurs and one requiring the owners of taxis and busses to place their names on their cars.

There are also the indemnity bond bill providing for state indemnity in cases of motor accidents; another requiring motorists to take out state compensation insurance; and the Knight-Miller bill, regulating the quality of gasoline.

One bill, if passed, would require the use of a patent signalling device on every car. The Walsh bill calls for the use of red and green lights on cars, like those on motor boats.

A bill controlling the transfer of used cars has been signed and will go into effect July 1.

SIGNS FIRST CLEAN BASEBALL BILL

SEATTLE, Wash., April 16.—There'll be no baseball scandal in the state of Washington this year if Governor Louis F. Hart has anything to say about it. Governor Hart has signed a bill, thought to be the first passed by any state legislature, which provides that any person who bribes or offers to bribe a baseball player to "throw" a game shall be guilty of gross misdemeanor. The same penalty applies to any player who accepts or agrees to accept a bribe.

BATTERY SERVICE

Battery owners should realize, said Mr. Bernard Kane, of Luke McCann's Battery station, that the repairing of a battery so that it may give service continuously after being repaired calls for the employment of skilled battery workers who will not only do the necessary work but apply all of their knowledge to the job, and do it with the interest of the owner at heart. The men on our staff are this kind and when a battery leaves our shop after being repaired the service it renders is the maximum service that it is capable of giving. Another point that Mr. Kane emphasized in the line of service was that when an auto owner is in need of any additional service that the McCann station can give they are only too glad to be called upon at any time.

PROLONG CAR'S LIFE

Squeaking of the brakes is usually due to uneven friction. The gripping effect should be adjusted equally around the brake drum.

Sudden changes in temperature hurt the car's finish. Heat in the garage should be kept uniform.

Drain the carburetor frequently to draw off water and all foreign matter.

Keep oil off the motor. It gathers dirt.

Prevent blowouts by avoiding severe jolts and maintaining full pressure.

WHY THEY'RE SCARCE

The finest European passenger automobiles are quoted on the American market at from $10,000 to $20,000 each.

Only giant strength and endurance could survive such a heroic test.

So these are qualities that you will find in any Paige 6-66.

We invite you to take one thorough demonstration behind the exclusive 6-66 motor and make a record of the tests.

NEW TYPE OF WOOD FRAME HOUSE

CHICAGO, April 16.—A new type of wood frame house, much less subject to damage by fire than those in general use, is being developed and tested at the Underwriters' laboratories here.

The laboratories announce that it appears practicable, even with the ordinary wood joists and studs commonly used for floors, walls and partitions, to reduce fire losses and consequent danger to life in houses of this class. Only a few of the danger points need be given special attention.

The new system developed is by a covering of metal lath and plaster held in place by wires surrounding the beams which continue to act even after the wood beams have started to char.

Wharton Clay, engineer and member of both the National Federation of Construction Industries and the National Congress of the Building and Construction Industries, says "from the results of this test, it is practically assured that houses can be constructed with practically no extra expense which will stand intensive fire for one hour and keep the family and property safe from destruction."

"The new method is spoken of as fire safe wooden construction, and is a wood frame so protected by metal lath and plaster that the lives of the occupants of the buildings would be safe against the effects of fire. Thirty minutes is the least time that should be allowed for complete safety but a protection of one hour is being sought after by fire proofing engineers."

Italian Papers Praise Harding's Message

RELIABLE WORK

The use of genuine parts in the work by Alfred Markus on Arch street applies to every repair job that is done at his place of business from the smallest to the largest, no matter what the cost as he feels that an imitation of a standard part can never quite equal the real one in spite of what the maker might say. It is a policy like this that establishes the reputation of a service station amongst the auto riding public and gives them a feeling of security.

MAC LITE BATTERY

Clark Brothers, at 18 Church street, are the local agents of the Mac Lite Battery, one of the highest grade batteries on the market and one of the few that are given a guarantee the minute it leaves the factory, and a guarantee that extends for two years which is more than the life of many batteries. The major adoptet this exceptional surety is the fact that if by any chance a Mac Lite Battery fails to give the satisfactory service the owner does not have to wait for a lot of red tape action to be taken up with the dealer and the factory, but can obtain a new one right where he made his purchase. In addition to the sale of new Batteries the Clark Bros. maintain a splendid service station and are able to give prompt and efficient service whenever needed.

PAINT AND POWDER CLUB

Excellent Entertainment By Lowell's Newest Amateur Thespian Organization

A novel revue, filled with color, bright music, and comedy, was the initial offering last night of Lowell's newest amateur thespian organization, the Paint and Powder club, comprising local men and women of the younger set. The affair, staged at the Colonial theatre, for the benefit of the Lowell Guild, drew a capacity audience and was enthusiastically applauded throughout, while the principals were without exception showered with bouquets from their admirers, who seemingly were legion. It would be difficult to award the trophy for charm, among the galaxy of young women who participated in the various features of the revue; but certainly a special encomium must be accorded to Mrs. Harold Hoeber, who with Geoffrey Baker, filled in the waits between the acts in so delightful a manner that the audience clamored for encores. The air with which Mrs. Hoeber carried off her delicious little role, together with the quaint and delectable old-fashioned costume in which she appeared, made these entre acts miniature classics of their kind. Not until Miss Edna Dixon made her appearance was one to be swerved from one's allegiance to Mrs. Hoeber as the most radiant bit of femininity who tripped forward before the footlights. The selections which Miss Dixon offered upon the violin were so exquisitely executed, and the lady herself revealed so pelasing stage presence and personality, that a rivalry was immediately raised with the delectable lady of the entr' acts. After an overture by Miss Kathleen Wright and Arthur C. Spalding, the prologue was spoken by Mrs. Elmore I. McPhie and Richard Hadley. A one-act sketch, "The Florist Shop," by Miss Winifred Hawkridge, followed with the following cast: "Maude," Miss Natalie Conant; "Miss Wells," Miss Helen Nesmith; "Slovsky," Mr. Oliver Stevens; "Henry," Mr. Richard Chase; and "Mr. Jackson," Mr. Thomas Clark. The properties were in charge of Mrs. John L. Robertson, Jr., while Miss Louise Jennison was the coach. Miss Louise Jennison and Mr. Eldridge MacEwan, as "Two Dark Spots," presented the next turn, a bit of negro characterization. "The Gypsy Camp-Fire" was the next feature, and offered a fantastic woodland scene, where gypsy maidens disported themselves in the dance. The Misses Victoria Jennison and Dorothy Wadleigh executed a duo de danse which was sprightly and atmospheric. Other gypsy damsels were represented by the Misses Gwendolyn Baron, Katherine Nesmith, and Leslie Pullen, together with Mrs. Allan Dumas. As a second terpsichorean contribution, Miss Elizabeth Meigs and Mr. Richard Chase gave a "Pierrot and Pierrette" divertisement, appropriately costumed and with a mise en scene representative of a garden during carnival, with Chinese lanterns strung from the trees. "Love's Bouquet," specialty with Mr. Richard Hadley as a soloist, also took place in the garden, where six society belles appeared in the guise of various flowers, finally grouping themselves, encircled with leaves, as "every flower in love's bouquet." The ladies were: Mesdames Matthew Mahoney, Alden Sherman, Cumner Talbot, and the Misses Helen Eveleth, Ruth Greene, and Katherine Jennison. A short intermission came at the conclusion of this number, and young women who served as volunteer ushers at the performance moved down the aisles selling candy. As the Lowell Guild was to benefit by the performance the audience was only too eager to partake of their wares, which were dainty enough, anyhow. "Tableaux vivants" were the next offering, Vogue covers being cleverly depicted. The following took part in this number, which was arranged by Misses Ellen Burke and Isabel Nesmith:

I. Vogue.....Mrs. James Reilly
II. Winter.
Miss Ellen Burke, Miss Ruth Greene
III. Spring.
Miss Elizabeth Eastman, Mrs. Blanchard Pratt
IV. Summer....Miss Marion Simpson
V. Autumn....Mrs. Matthew Mahoney

This "Vogue" specialty outdid even the most pretentious of the other numbers in the matter of charm. A huge frame, bearing at the top in strong black lettering the word "Vogue," and at the bottom "35 cents," stood against a background of dark green velvet. Within this frame, in effective postures, and arrayed in the most delectable of costumes, the participants appeared. Certainly the artistic triumph of the evening, however, was the program of violin selections played by Miss Edna Dixon, a young lady who is both personally most attractive and a delicate artiste. Borowski's "Adoration" was followed by the soft "Rondino" of Kreisler, and then there were the "Serenade" of Squire, and Pierne's gently staccato "Marche des petits soldats de plomb." At the close of Miss Dixon's playing, which really had no right to be so brief, there was a sketch called "At the Garden Wall," with Mesdames Elmore MacPhie and Walter Reilly, and Miss Leslie Hylan. This included popular airs, and a little dancing. One of the selections, a culling from the past, had reference to the moon, which was adjured to "come out and shine." Thus besought, by such a bevy of loveliness, the moon quite naturally appeared, and was certainly among the most unique stage moons of dramatic history.

The finale was a picturization of the club name "Paint and Powder." Miss Edna Dixon was the soloist, and discovered herself as a pleasant vocalist and coryphee as well as a violinist. She depicted "Rouge," being revealed at the rise of the curtain in a huge vanity case, or whatever one calls the gaily adorned boxes in which milady keeps her rouge. Powder puffs were Mrs. John L. Robertson, Jr., and the Misses Helen Eveleth, Olive Eveleth, Leslie Hylan, Victoria Jennison, and Elizabeth Meigs. The lyrics and music were by Mr. Towne. The program bore the following announcement:

Its membership roster includes girls from every part of the city, and this year the Lowell Guild was chosen to benefit by the vaudeville. The club plans to give a performance of entertainment annually, devoting the proceeds to a different charity on each occasion. ## Bill Permitting Various Tests in Textile Schools Strongly Supported

(Special to The Sun.)

STATE HOUSE, Boston, April 16.—Strong support for the bill permitting the three state textile schools to make tests of new machinery and processes proposed for the textile industry was offered before the ways and means committee of the house at a hearing given on the matter yesterday.

Several officials of the Lowell school addressed the committee in support of the bill, and the heads of the institutions in New Bedford and Fall River sent letters giving their views in respect to it.

The bill provides that the textile schools "are hereby authorized to make, under such regulations as their respective boards of trustees may from time to time prescribe, tests, comparative or otherwise, of new and useful improvements in textile machinery or of apparatus, dyes, compounds, processes, methods or means, directly or indirectly relating to the manufacture of textiles or to the machinery, tools, appliances and materials used in connection therewith. The person, firm, or corporation for whom any such test is made, shall pay therefore a sum not less than the actual cost thereof, including a reasonable amount for overhead expenses, and so much of said sum as represents additional services of instructors or employes may be paid to said instructors or employes, subject to the approval of the president of the school. No such test shall be undertaken by any such school which in the opinion of its trustees will be likely to interfere with the regular, efficient and proper exercise of school functions. In the making of such tests preference shall be given to citizens of, and to corporations organized under the laws of the commonwealth."

Charles H. Eames, principal of the Lowell school; Arthur G. Pollard, chairman of its trustees; Royal P. White, vice-chairman; Senator Frank H. Putnam and Rep. Victor F. Jewett all told the committee of the advantages to the industry of permitting the schools to make such tests. Rep. Jewett in particular stating that the textile industry is in such a critical condition, because of competition of mills in other states where conditions are more favorable, that it can retain its business only by keeping "one jump ahead" of the rest of the country.

William E. Hatch, principal of the New Bedford school, sent a letter endorsing the bill as in the interest of the industry, and adding:

"We have always been accustomed to do more or less of this kind of work in this school. The only question that arises in my mind is this: 'We are obliged to return to the state all money received from any source. There is in our budget for this year no provision for such work as is described in this bill. If we should do any considerable amount of testing, I cannot see where the money would come from for paying for it, unless the school was allowed to use the money received to pay for these tests."

Henry W. Nichols, principal of the Bradford Durfee Textile school at Fall River, wrote that he had been unable to find in the bill anything objectionable to that institution. HOYT.

Mary Flynn Tells Her Story

leaping from the machine on the night of the alleged abduction. She was the first witness called today, the second occasion of the police court hearing and she corroborated in most respects the testimony offered by Emma Gartin, with, however, some important exceptions where there was disagreement. She told substantially the same way as the Gartin girl had done, the story of her movements prior to the invitation extended by Laflamme and Richard, to get into the car of which they and the Gartin girl were the occupants, and be driven home. She told of accepting their offer. They failed to bring her to her residence as they had agreed to do. She traced the progress of the machine, following the story in substance as it was given by Emma Gartin. Two or three times, she said, she asked that she be permitted to get out of the machine. "I said, 'This isn't the street I live on,'" she testified to having said when they reached Riverside street. No reply was vouchsafed by either defendant, she declared.

Camp Mentioned

"Did one of the defendants mention a camp during the course of the ride?" she was asked. "Yes," she replied. "Laflamme spoke about a camp and said they were going to take me there." She said that she remembered the name of the camp to be Watuppit. After having requested that she be allowed to get out of the automobile, and having been ignored two or three times, she said that she threatened to jump from the car, and finally carried out that design. "I took off my hat and jumped," she testified, "and I don't remember anything after that."

This concluded the direct examination, which was quite brief. Attorney Tierney then proceeded to cross-examine the witness, who told of being out of work for four months. "Who has supported you?" she was asked. She replied that her mother had supported her. In response to queries which were seemingly in the nature of comments on the fact of being out of a job, she replied with some spirit, that "I couldn't work when we were all thrown out of work." She admitted that on occasions she has used profane language. The question leading to this admission was protested by Atty. Reilly, who contended that it was not pertinent to the case. It was allowed, however. Last week Emma Gartin told of swear words used by Mary Flynn when Laflamme and Richard failed to heed her demands that she be allowed to leave the car.

"Neither of the young men said nor did anything improper, did they?" she was asked. "No," the answered. Judge Enright then put the following question to the witness: "Why, then, did you jump out of the car?" "Because," she replied, "they were going to take me out to the camp."

Car Going Fast

She said that the speed of the car did not lessen as she prepared to jump out. "How fast was the car going when you jumped?" was the next query. "I don't know just how fast it was moving," she responded, "but it was pretty fast." This statement was practically the first disagreement between the testimony of the witness and that given by the Gartin girl, who last week declared that the car slowed down when threats were made by Mary Flynn that she would jump. The witness denied absolutely that she remarked "Watch me!" prior to leaping from the car. Emma Gartin testified on the stand last week that "Mary said 'Watch me!'" while she was standing on the running board of the automobile. "Why did you take off your hat before jumping?" was the next query. "It was Emma's hat," was the answer. Witness said that she had on Emma's hat while in the car, and that Emma was wearing hers. This closed the cross-examination, and Attorney Reilly, for the government, announced to the court that the state rested.

Defence Opens

Fred Richard, Sr., was the first defence witness. He was asked only a couple of questions relative to the location of the Richard home. There was no cross-examination.

Officer Cooney, who was one of the state witnesses, was now called at the stand by Attorney Tierney for the defence. "Do you know where the Watuppit camp is?" he was asked. Objection was made to this question. "What is your object in asking this question?" queried Judge Enright, to whom Attorney Tierney explained that he expected in argument to have the point brought up as to whether the auto was proceeding towards Watuppit camp or towards the Richard home. Judge Enright then informed the defence that he was aware that the route taken by the car was a roundabout one if the destination was the Watuppit camp. It was announced by the defence at this point that no more witnesses would be called. A continuance was then asked by Attorney Tierney, for the purpose of preparing a review of the testimony to be used in his closing argument. Judge Enright commented on this request, to the effect that it was an extraordinary one in the experience of the local police court. After Attorney Reilly, however, had stated that he would offer no objection to such a continuance, the request was granted, and the case was put over to Friday, April 22, when final disposition of the matter is expected to be made by Judge Enright, following a summing up by the state and the defence.

The Bradley Memorial erected in Forest Home Cemetery, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, is a fine example of modern school monument architecture. It shows some influences of the Egyptian style and appeals to those who like rugged, imposing dignity.

We welcome requests to show the monument work we have done for citizens of this community. It is a matter of pride with us to show examples of our skill and experience. "Superior service and no overcharge" is our motto. See our large display of finished memorials of every description which we are closing out at reduced prices.

LITTLE VISITS WITH FEATHERED FRIENDS

BY MARY EASTMAN

I like them. Owls I mean. Some people are superstitious about them, but that is all foolishness. I have had some real fun when I have seen two owls at dusk, sitting side by side on a limb, making owl-eyes. Then the screech-owl's note always makes me laugh. It sounds as though he meant it so fiercely and it is only ludicrous; but no doubt it is a real love note to his mate.

I discovered a screech-owl's nest in a certain hollow tree one summer, and by watching it closely I found there were young owls in the nest. A few days later I visited the place in the late afternoon, while owls are still very sleepy, and found a number of boys gathered about the tree. I sauntered over to them and asked them what they were doing. One boy was half way up the tree, but he stopped to hear what I might have to say. I was told that were screech-owls in the tree, young ones and old ones. One of the boys volunteered the information that they were going to get the baby owls and take them home.

I had supposed as much, and I did my best to save those baby owls. I talked to the boys about owls—what they did, how they lived, what they ate, and the different kinds of owls. I did not seem encouraging. Finally, however, one boy vouchsafed some additional information and I knew then I had their interest. The boy in the tree slid down and we had a long talk about every kind of bird and animal those boys could think of.

I left the group, not knowing if I had pleaded in vain or not; but a few days later I met one of the youngsters, who said to me:

"I licked a boy for you yesterday."

I certainly was surprised, and asked why the pugnaciousness on my account.

"Oh, he was going to steal your little owls, and I wouldn't let him," replied the boy. And this was the boy who had been half way up the tree.

The young owls grew big and flew away safely.

Y.M.C.A. ENTERTAINMENT

The assembly hall of the Y.M.C.A. was the scene last evening of the presentation of a three-act drama, "The House in Laurel Lane," by six young women of this city, and standing room was at a premium. Those who took part in the sketch were Dorothy Goward, Dorothy Randlett, Gladys Thurston, Dorothy Plaisted, Flora Long and Gladys Hall. Entertainment numbers were given between the acts by Miss Winifred South, Miss Irene Hall and Miss Laurette Laporte. During the evening a candy table in charge of the Women's auxiliary under the direction of Mrs. Charles Willett did a thriving business. The affair was given for the benefit of the Y.M.C.A.

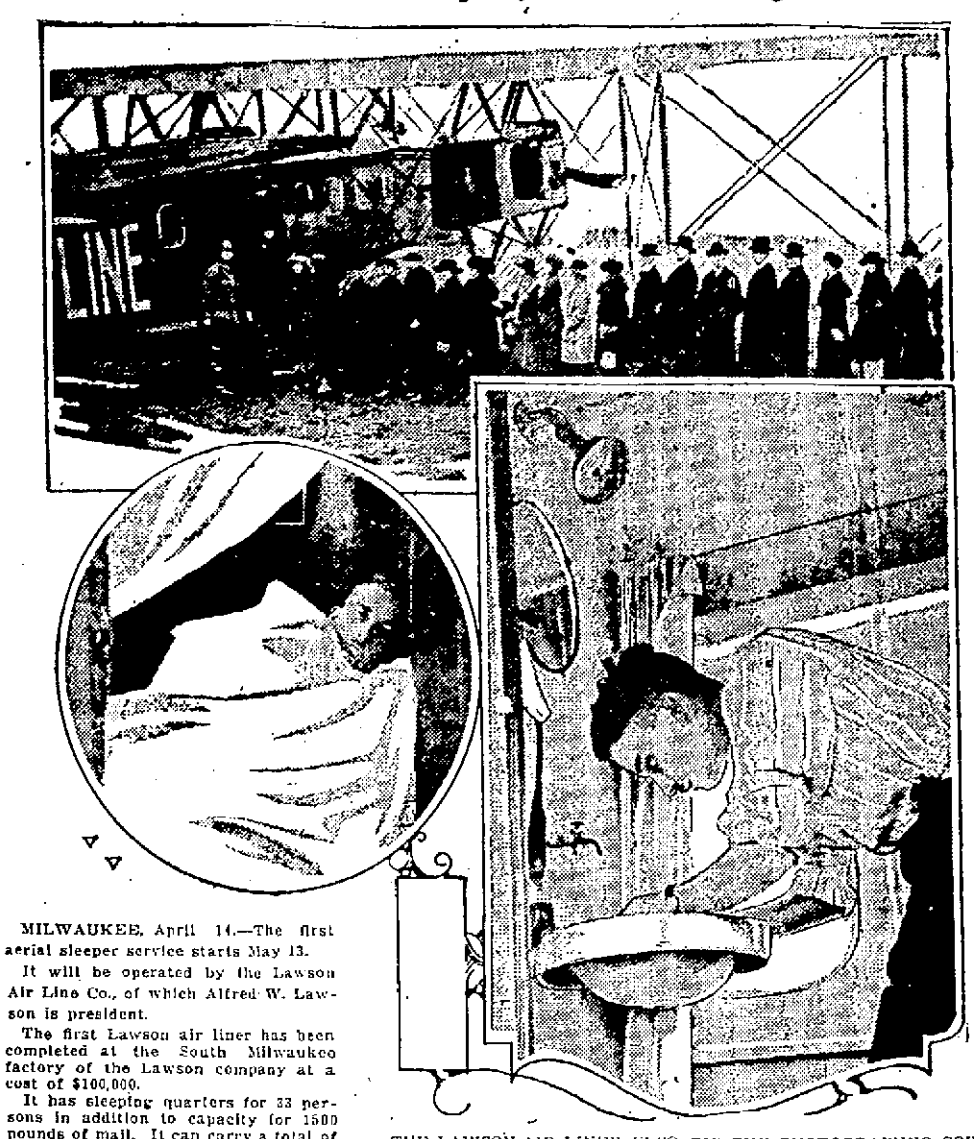
All Aboard! Air Sleeper for New York! Lawson Air Line Company To Start Night Air Liner



THE LAWSON AIR LINER IS SO BIG THE PHOTOGRAPHER COULD NOT GET IT ALL IN ONE PICTURE, BUT ABOVE YOU'LL SEE A SECTION OF IT. BELOW IS SHOWN A PASSENGER IN HIS BERTH AND ANOTHER TAKING HIS MORNING SHAVE IN THE WASHROOM

MILWAUKEE, April 14.—The first aerial sleeper service starts May 13.

It will be operated by the Lawson Air Line Co., of which Alfred W. Lawson is president.

The first Lawson air liner has been completed at the South Milwaukee factory of the Lawson company at a cost of $100,000.

It has sleeping quarters for 33 persons in addition to capacity for 1500 pounds of mail. It can carry a total of 6000 pounds in addition to its own weight.

The cabin contains in addition to Pullman berths, shower baths, electric lights and other luxuries. Furniture is wicker.

The ship has three 400-horsepower Liberty motors, a wing spread of 117 feet, hops off in less than 1200 feet and has a maximum speed of 120 miles an hour.

It is equipped with the largest tires in the world. Each wheel costs more than a Ford automobile.

It can make the 300-odd air miles from Milwaukee to New York between 10 p. m. and 6 p. m.

Provision is made for transferring passengers or mail in flight to a smaller ship flying underneath. This is done through a trapdoor and rope rigging.

Lawson expects to take the ship May 1 to La Crosse, where it will be christened in the name of that city. He will fly the machine himself.

Lawson plans to build 10 similar ships this year.

The ships will carry government mail and will fly over these three routes:

First, New York, Harrisburg, Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago.

Second, Pittsburg, Columbus, Cincinnati, Indianapolis and St. Louis.

Third, New York, Washington and Atlanta.

SENDING BODIES TO U. S.

20,000 Bodies of Soldiers Who Fell in France Either Shipped or On Way Home

PARIS, April 15.—Twenty thousand bodies of American soldiers who fell in France have either been shipped to the United States or are now in process of being returned for burial in their native country.

With 102 officers of the American army and a personnel of more than 2000 men working night and day in many sections of France, the Graves Registration Service of the American army has reached a point where it is possible to forward 4000 bodies a month. The work of sending back the 52,311 bodies designated for interment in America will be completed by the end of next October, if present plans are fulfilled.

The bodies of the Americans have been taken from every cemetery in the south of France. The greater part of the effort is now being concentrated in the zone of the armies—the Argonne, etc. Seventy-seven bodies of American soldiers who died in Italy will be removed to the United States next month.

The Graves Registration Service now is working in Berlin on arrangements for shipping the bodies of 430 American soldiers who are buried in various parts of unoccupied Germany. This latter work was rendered very difficult because the location of many of the graves is unknown. An expert has been going over the German burial records in Berlin for several weeks and virtually all the graves have been found. The German government has afforded every facility to the Graves Registration Service.

More than 20,000 bodies will be buried in the four permanent cemeteries which the American government will maintain in France.

The Fine Arts commission of the American War Memorial Council has arrived in Paris for a series of meetings and a tour of inspection of the permanent cemeteries. The commission has in contemplation plans for the beautification of the cemeteries and will determine the character of headstones to be used and the general decorative scheme to be followed. The commission will probably consult with leading French landscape artists.

WILL INSPECT BUILDINGS

A number of buildings in Suffolk street standing on land owned by the Locks and Canals will be inspected by Frank A. Connor, building inspector, and Arthur T. Safford, engineer of the Locks and Canals, some time tomorrow when the water has been drawn out of the canal. The buildings have been considered quite shaky for some time.

SIMPSON & McGEEVER

When you feel like eating a doughnut insist upon getting the American Pride, which is made by Simpson & McGeever in a most sanitary and up-to-date shop at 760 Gorham street. This delicious food is on sale at all leading grocers.

STATE UNIVERSITY NEEDED

At a recent gathering of educators, chiefly college men, the subject of a state university was broached and representatives of various colleges and universities, expressed the opinion that we have no need of a state university, that no boy at the present time is too poor to get a college education.

That statement is made either from selfish motives or through gross ignorance of the facts. The big colleges of New England are receiving great endowments and the more they get, the more expensive becomes the training they afford to students. At the present time Harvard university is much more expensive than it was a few years ago and the others gradually follow its example in fixing their rates if not in other respects.

If it is understood that the poor boy could receive a college education free of charge at a state university, then that is what is needed. There are thousands of boys ambitious for college training who cannot afford the expense and any institution that would enable them to get such an education would be a vast benefit to the state and to the people of this commonwealth.

The state should at least have a normal training college for its teachers. At the present time the graduates of colleges are hired as teachers in our high school or as principals of our grammar schools, without any special training for the teaching profession. That is one point in which our system of public instruction is very deficient. Yet it is a matter that could be remedied at a moderate cost. We conduct state normal schools for the training of elementary teachers; we should have one state training college in which students preparing for the teaching profession could take up the courses best calculated to make them successful. That would obviate the necessity of employing untrained men.

From such a college, the free state university would be but a step and Massachusetts will never reach the educational eminence she should hold, until she has a state university that will make college training for those of limited means, practically as free as air.

COST OF GOVERNMENT

President Harding said in his message: "The high cost of living is inseparably linked with the high cost of government." The truth of this statement may well be kept clearly in mind. There can be little hope of getting back to "normalcy" until we can so regulate our governmental affairs that they will be conducted on the same basis of economy as characterizes the operations of successful private business enterprises.

It should be plain enough also that we must somewhere and sometime call a halt to the constant expansion of the fields in which the government is active. The federal government is faced with the necessity of enacting a tax law that will lay a burden upon everyone because of the late war, and also by the fact that we are adding to those burdens by opening up new fields of expenditure. We cannot have one of the largest navies in the world without paying for it. The extension of government aid in the building of roads, the constant adding of new departments and bureaus to the government machinery in Washington, can only be accomplished at the expense of the people who support the government.

In Lowell this year the cost of maintaining the municipal government is to be about $314,000 in excess of the cost last year, although most of the commodities for which the city pays its cash have receded in price. Whether this increase is justified may be an open question. It should be realized, though, that we cannot go on increasing salaries of city employes, we cannot build elaborate hospitals, spend large sums on streets, and other projects, however worthy, without paying the bills.

There can be no escape from high taxes, the high cost of living or the high cost of government until we find a means of doing away with the inefficiency and wastefulness in governmental expenditures, and even with these eliminated we can hardly expect a return to the old standards unless we are willing to curtail some of the very desirable activities on which we are constantly insisting the government shall embark.

THE ELEVATED RAILWAY PROBE

The revelations made thus far in the probe of the legislature of 1918, and its relations with the Boston Elevated railway are of a startling nature. It was in that year that the bills for public control of the Elevated and the Bay State street railways were passed and the rumors of graft and bribery became so persistent that the attorney general was obliged to take cognizance of the situation; but before he had time to act, the legislature of this year appointed a committee to conduct an investigation of the current charges.

Already that committee has shown that four members of the legislature drew upon certain banks for loans, which were secured by shares of Elevated, New York, New Haven and Hartford or General Electric stock.

The public control bills guaranteed the payment of dividends at the public expense; but if it be found that the company or any person representing it, used money or certificates of stock as bribes to secure the passage of the bills in question, then the guilty parties should be punished to the full extent of the law.

Some of these railway companies have been raising a very mournful wail over what they designate as poor business; but if they have money to bribe legislators, they should be prevented from drawing further upon the public treasury.

When the legislative probe is finished, it may be the function of the attorney general to take up the charges and deal with them under the criminal code and to see that every bribe giver as well as every bribe taker will be brought before the bar of justice for the punishment which the magnitude of his crime may deserve.

MORE BUILDING TROUBLE

Not only Boston but all the cities in the vicinity are likely very soon to experience trouble in the building trades as a result of the act of the Boston contractors in declaring for the open shop while paying their men 90 cents an hour. The building trades have been on a strike against a reduction of wages from a dollar an hour and over to 90 cents an hour. As the building trades struck against the cut in wages, and maintained a strike for several months, the contractors, unable to reach an acceptable agreement, have declared for the open shop and no further recognition of the unions. The latter, however, have announced their intention to fight this move, so that the outlook for building progress in Boston is rather gloomy. It is highly probable that the action of the Boston contractors was largely influenced by the scandalous revelations of corruption in the building trades of New York city. Whatever the reason, the dio is cast for a prolonged conflict unless somebody intervenes to force a settlement.

REMOVE NATIONAL DISHONOR

It is to be hoped that the Colombian treaty now before the United States senate and under which we are to pay Colombia $25,000,000 damages for our part in the Panama revolution, organized and financed by American interests backed by President Roosevelt, will be speedily ratified. Furthermore, the less said of this treaty and the reasons for its presence at this time, the better will it be for our reputation and our national honor.

Senator Kellog in opposing its ratification said favorable action by the senate would place a stain upon the name of President Roosevelt. Rather would it remove from the national escutcheon a stain deliberately placed there by said Roosevelt in his eagerness to snatch the territory necessary for the canal. He did the snatching and gave us the canal and it is but right that even at this late date we should settle with Columbia.

THE RAILROAD ORDER

The order of the Railroad Labor board sets July 1 as the limit of the duration of the present railroad pact dealing with wages and working conditions. It is fortunate that this action has met the approval of both the railroad managers and their employes.

The board has laid down certain principles as the basis of a new agreement which includes the eight-hour day, recognition of the unions and restriction upon the action of the unions in order to ensure fair treatment for the managers. If either side be found employing unwarranted obstinacy, the board reserves the right to depart from the terms of this decision and to impose new conditions. This action offers reasonable assurance of a peaceful solution of the railroad questions now at issue between the railroads and the Brotherhoods.

Real Diplomacy

Mrs. Charmer and Miss Blunt met at the vicarage as both were paying calls. Tea was served and as Mrs. Charmer nibbled at her cake she murmured: "I must say, my dear Mrs. Pastor, that this cake is delicious." The vicar's wife beamed. Then the two ladies left and as they walked home Miss Blunt burst out: "Really, Mrs. Charmer, how could you say that appalling home-make cake was delicious?" "I didn't say it was," cooed Mrs. Charmer with a twinkle. "I only said, 'I must say so.' And one must, you know."

The young wife met her husband on the doorstep. "But, John, I merely want to say the cook has left—" "Yes, I know you merely want to say. And I merely want to say it's a shame that this household is always in a state of upset. Other women may manage to keep their servants. Why can't you?" "John, I will speak. The cook know you would be late, so she left a cold chicken and custard pudding on the dining room table for you." "Well, Ethel, why in the world didn't you say that at first?"

By Frances Boardman

The climate fiend is what I've styled the type of citizen, my child, who feels obliged to alibi unpleasant weather, wet or dry, which heaven happens to have sent wherever he is resident. Suppose he lives upon the coast: eternal sunshine is his boast, and though the rain may fall in floods, dissolving you and all your duds—it isn't wet, he will insist; what you call cloudburst, he terms mist! Or, if the patriotic soul lives nearer to the Arctic pole, he loves to babble in your ear, "You never feel the cold up here!" And that's the story he relates, though you may have to use your skates to navigate the morning tub. Another atmospheric dub defends the prairie hurricane as stimulating to the brain, and far superior to what the wretched mountaineers have got . . . One would not carp at local pride, and yet, I think I shall decide in favor of plain, common sense, when chatting of the elements!

Geographical Song

Did you ever hear of a geographical song? In case you haven't, here's an example of the type. It is used in Massachusetts schools to stimulate the children's interest in the various countries of the world, their weather and their animals. It is called "Climate," and the teachers and Normal school students who attended the Teachers' Institute yesterday sang it as a community number:

We sing of the polar bear, fearless and bold.
He never feels hot and he never feels cold.
Because where he lives, summer never occurs,
And the rest of the year he wears plenty of furs.

The crocodile lives in the tropical belt,
And neither the cold nor the heat ever felt.
Because in the winter his summers begin,
And the rest of the year he wears crocodile skin.

Now we poor unfortunates live in a clime
That calls for at least three full suits at a time.
A thick one and thin one for days cold and hot,
And a medium weight for the days that are not.

If you can't learn the verses, try the chorus. It's awfully simple. In fact, it consists merely of the words, "Too-ra-lee. Too-ra-lay." Try it on your piano.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

I have at hand a copy of the Buffalo, S. D., Times that contains an item of news that should be of interest to Lowell people. It relates to a former Lowell boy. It reads as follows:

"County Judge Charles L. Brady received word this week from the clerk of the supreme court that he had successfully passed his examination for admittance to the bar of this state, so he is now a full fledged lawyer. Charley has been studying in the law office of W. M. Bennett for several years past, and while he had no previous law schooling, was able by diligent application to his books to gain admittance to the bar.

"Mr. Brady feels a great deal more gratification that he was admitted in spite of having no law college degree than as though he obtained the same because he was lucky enough to possess parents able and willing to pay his way through a school of this kind."

Mr. Brady is the son of Hannah A. Brady and the late Charles Brady. He will be remembered as having been a pupil at the Highland school. He went to his present home in Buffalo about eleven years ago.

The municipal council will hold its next meeting on Patriots' day, next Tuesday, unless it meets in the meantime and rescinds the action taken at last Tuesday's meeting whereby it adjourned until the holiday. When Mayor Thompson went through the customary routine of saying: "If there is no objection, a motion to adjourn until Tuesday next at 10 o'clock is in order," he forgot that Tuesday next is a legal holiday and neither did anyone else in the council chamber think of the fact. Accordingly, the motion was carried and the council stands adjourned until the holiday. The only way out of the situation is to have a special meeting called before then so that the adjournment action may be rescinded. Otherwise, the five members of the council will have to march up to city hall on the holiday.

THOUGHT SHE HAD HEART DISEASE

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" Made Complete Cure of Stomach Trouble

MRS. FRANK W. WALLACE

Moultonville, Carroll Co., N. H.

"An account I read about 'Fruit-a-tives' or Fruit Liver Tablets in one of our newspapers prompted me to try this remedy.

I was all run down and work was burdensome owing to Indigestion and Fullness, due to gas on my stomach which caused me to belch a good deal. My heart seemed to be affected.

It was two years ago that I was in this condition and began the use of 'Fruit-a-tives'. Even though the trouble had been of a few years standing, the use of 'Fruit-a-tives' proved the very remedy I required. I was freed of the Indigestion, which I attributed to my heart; and I can conscientiously recommend 'Fruit-a-tives' as a remedy of merit".

Mrs. FRANK W. WALLACE.

Quarter Century Ago

Quarter of a century ago former Governor William E. Russell was in the zenith of his fame and had set out to attend the national democratic convention. He was widely mentioned as a candidate for president but as the oratory of Mr. Bryan swept the field, Russell and several others were disappointed. Had Russell been chosen, things might have gone differently in the national election. Russell was a staunch democrat, an orator and a statesman. From the old Sun of April 14 I take the following:

"MONTICELLO, Va., April 11.—The 153d anniversary of Thomas Jefferson's birthday was fittingly observed here, where he lived and died, by a gathering of a large number of prominent democrats from all sections of the country.

"Hon. William E. Russell was the speaker. In opening his oration, he said:

"'We meet today as democrats to pledge our loyalty to our party and to consult together for the promotion of its interests; but, first and foremost, we meet as Americans to serve our country and to keep our party steadfast to her welfare. As Americans and democrats, we honor the memory of him whose birthday we celebrate, and out of whose life and work were largely wrought the independence and stability of our nation, and the principles and policies which have made her great and glorious. His work was fundamental, national, establishing equality, liberty, creating a great republic, enlarging its territory and making it supreme over a continent and respected everywhere. He founded a great party as the necessary instrument to accomplish large purposes and the permanent power to maintain and enforce undying principles.'"

Notre Dame Reading Circle

Says the old Sun:

"The Notre Dame reading circle made its debut in amateur theatricals yesterday afternoon at the academy in the presentation of Cardinal Wiseman's chaste and entertaining story, Fabiola, and only words of praise can be uttered of every one of the participants. They acquitted themselves most creditably, showing a degree of culture in the dramatic art often not excelled by professionals. They showed skilled and careful training at the hands of their teachers and gave a proof of the results attainable by well directed effort.

"Misses Mollie Murphy and Joyce assumed the leading roles, while lesser parts were well portrayed by Misses McSorley, O'Hearn, T. Delany and the other young ladies in the cast."

Post 42, G.A.R. Band

Twenty-five years ago the old building known as Barristers hall stood on the corner of Merrimack and Central streets, now occupied by the Chalifoux store. On the street floor there was a drug store conducted for many years by Edward Ellingwood, and the upstairs rooms were rented to lawyers and fraternal organizations. At that time Post 42 band, of which James A. Murphy was leader, was the foremost band in this vicinity for many years. It had fitted up elegant quarters in Barristers hall as will be seen by the following from the old Sun:

"A jolly time was enjoyed by the members of Post 42 Military band and their friends last evening when the band dedicated its new quarters in Barristers hall. The rooms are three in number and are elegantly fitted up. In all $400 was spent in furnishing the rooms, and they are a credit to any band. A pleasing entertainment was given in which the Abt and the Amphion quartets, and members of the band participated."

Mr. Murphy, through pressure of business, retired from the leadership some ten years ago and the Post 42 band merged into the Lowell Military band, which has its quarters at the Musicians union rooms on Central street.

25 Years Wed

From The Sun:

"A charming spring wedding occurred this morning (April 15) in the Immaculate Conception church, the happy couple being Dr. Daniel T. O'Keefe of Jamaica Plain and Miss Katherine T. Allen of Nesmith street.

"The ceremony was performed by Rt. Rev. Dr. Allen, president of Mt. St. Mary's college, Emmitsburg, Md., a brother of the bride, assisted by Rev. Fr. Joyce, O.M.I., of the Immaculate Conception church."

Billerica Council Royal Arcanum

Says The Sun:

"One of the events of the season in North Billerica was the first annual concert and ball of the North Billerica council, No. 1323, Royal Arcanum, in Talbot Memorial hall last evening. The officers were: General manager, John W. Broadbent; assistant, John J. Conley; floor director, James A. Ruth; assistant, James Bradley. The event was attended by many members of Lowell Council."

Eleven Horses Perished in Fire

From the old Sun I find that the Gilmore stable on Arch street was the scene of a serious fire about this time quarter of a century ago. Eleven horses and a number of sleighs and other vehicles were lost.

Advocated Public Baths

When in the common council in 1896, John O'Hare, who passed away last Sunday, advocated a system of public baths as indicated by the following from the old Sun:

"The board of health gives a unanimous endorsement to Councilman O'Hare's resolution for free public baths. In years past the board has strongly advocated free public baths, and in support of their position argue that they would promote the public health. They are partial to shower baths, that would be available at all seasons as Councilman O'Hare's plan would provide."

Several attempts were made to establish permanent public baths such as here suggested but all fell through because of the expense. The time may come when the city can enjoy such a luxury.

Stepping Stones to Success

Says the old Sun:

"Before the Y.M.C.I. last evening in their commodious hall Edward J. Gallagher of The Sun lectured upon 'Stepping Stones of Success.'" He said that a man's success in any line of business is measured by the energy and skill he applies to that business. The chief stepping stones he enumerated were: Vision, to see conditions; Judgment, to pass upon them and reach right conclusions; then Courage and Will Power to carry things through. The necessary equipment, he said, demands education or special training, industry, frugality, stability of character, ambition, tact, faith and perseverence.

Master Builders of Days Agone

Says the old Sun:

"It takes more than a warm night to keep the members of the Lowell Builders association away from their annual meeting, and when The Sun reporter dropped in on them, last evening, in response to their invitation, he found a large gathering around the festive board.

"At the business meeting, held before the banquet, the following officers were elected: President, Frank L. Weaver; vice-president, W. H. Kimball; secretary, Charles P. Conant; treasurer, George H. Watson, W. H. Kimball, Wm. H. Wiggin, Royal S. Ripley, C. H. Coburn, D. M. Prescott, and F. O. White. The last five named are the new men on the board. It was the general opinion among the members that this is the strongest board that the exchange has had for several years."

The Master Builders at that time had quarters in the southwest corner of Central and Appleton streets. They had reconstructed the building for their own convenience. Some years ago the association lost its cohesion, and as such passed out of existence. The Master Plumbers and Master Painters have separate organizations.

BAR SHIPMENT OF ARMS

State Department Asks Congress for Blanket Prohibition

WASHINGTON, April 15.—Blanket prohibition against the shipment of arms and munitions to any country where they might be used for revolutionary purposes has been asked of congress by the state department.

Specifically, the department requests an amendment to the act of 1912, which prohibits such shipments to American countries. The senate foreign relations committee considered today the department's request, designed primarily, it was said, to stop munitions shipments to China. Early enactment of an amendment is proposed.

Some of the foreign powers, it was explained, have requested the United States to join in the effort to prevent munitions shipments to all countries where revolutions are in progress. Members of the foreign relations committee said, however, that it was not indicated that conditions in Ireland were a factor in the proposed revision.

DRISKIS SENTENCED FOR KILLING CARROLL

SKOWHEGAN, Me., April 15. Sylvester Driskis of Lewiston was sentenced to serve from three to six years in prison today for killing Charles W. Carroll of Woburn, Mass., in a lumber camp at Bald Mountain on Feb. 22. Driskis was placed on trial yesterday, on the charge of murder, but this was changed to manslaughter today, and he pleaded guilty.

Carroll, who also was known at the time as Charles Wilson, was killed by a blow over the heart with a pickaroon while loading pulp wood.

FORMER PARTNER OF PONZI SENTENCED

MONTREAL, April 15.—Angelo B. Salviati, formerly partner of Charles Ponzi of Boston, today was sentenced to six months' imprisonment for stealing $1000 from a local barber, several months ago. Shortly after the theft, Salviati fled to New York whence he was extradited.

OPERATED ON HEADS OF PATIENTS WITH CHISELS

NEW YORK, April 15.—Prehistoric Indians of South America had crude medicine men who removed splinters of arrow-heads and stone bludgeons from wounded warriors by cutting through the skull with knives of stone of obsidian and other simple instruments wrought from copper and bronze. Sometimes the patient lived; frequently he went to the happy hunting grounds.

These uncomfortable treatments of serious casualties from tribal skirmishes still continue in remote areas of Bolivia. Evidence of this has been gathered by field workers from the American Museum of Natural History. Of nearly 1200 skulls collected in South America by the late Dr. Adolph Bandelier for exhibition in the museum, about five per cent has been operated upon. To surgeons the practice is known as trephining. It consists of removing a disk or button of bone from the skull with a saw called a trephine.

Complete fracture of the skull with depression of the bony plates must have been common occurrences during the ancient tribal wars when clubs headed with stone and copper along with slings, the "Bob" and the "illui" were offensive weapons, said the reports of the museum's investigators.

A natural procedure, they opined with skull fractures must have been attempts to remove the splinters of bone that pricked the brain, or to cut out fragments pressing upon it.

Warlike clans fight intermittently even today in the wilds of Bolivia and skull fractures are common. Other heads are perforated now and then in the bacchanales and festivals whooped up occasionally with great quantities of intoxicants, the investigators reported. When the laughter and the free-for-alls quiet down, the medicine men get out their sharp pocket knives and make incisions into the injured skulls of the sufferers, frequently covering the aperture with gourd. During the operation they scrape around the wound with a chisel.

Modern anaesthetics are unknown to the medicine men. They put their patient into insensibility by constant use of the "coca" plant. This also is employed for healing purposes, and is commonly applied to wounds, bruises and contusions.

NATIONAL HOSPITAL DAY, MAY 12TH

CHICAGO, Ill., April 15.—In a letter to Matthew O. Foley, executive secretary of the National Hospital day committee, President Warren G. Harding has endorsed National Hospital day, May 12, when the 8000 hospitals throughout the country will make an organized effort to tell the public of the true scope of hospital service.

President Harding's letter follows:

"The White House, Washington.

"My dear Mr. Foley:

"It is especially a pleasure at this time to express my interest in the work of National Hospital day, which seeks to arouse the largest possible public interest in the work of the country's hospitals and similar institutions. You have most properly chosen May 12th, the anniversary of the birth of Florence Nightingale, as the day to be celebrated as National Hospital day. Just at this time those of us who are concerned in the administration of national affairs are having our attention forced to the very great need of expanded hospital facilities, by reason of the requirements of disabled soldiers. I can most heartily extend my good wishes for the most useful results from your efforts.

"Very truly yours,

"WARREN G. HARDING."

FANS STILL DISCUSSING AVILA-GIBBS BOUT

"'Twas ever thus."

Boxing fans who failed to witness the Avila-Gibbs bout here the other night missed one of the rare treats of the season. But it invariably happens that when a great bout is pulled off, a small house is on hand. And "flivvers" generally occur when a packed gallery is looking on.

It falls to the lot of the boxing writers who "cover" the bouts to sit in at all shows and in that capacity the writer has seen many good, bad and indifferent numbers, but seldom has it been our good fortune to watch such a heetle combat as the Avila-Gibbs encounter.

Terrific hitting, scientific boxing, ring generalship, bewildering exchanges, remarkable assimilative qualities, fast and clever footwork, skilful dodging, ducking and blocking, dogged determination, furious and hurricane countering, and about everything else ever enacted in the ring, with the exception of stalling or the application of the kayo, were crowded into those ten rounds of never-to-be-forgotten fighting.

The bout has created more discussion round town than any held here in many a day. Those who witnessed it proclaim it one of the greatest ever, while those who were "among the missing" are regretting their action and hoping for a return engagement of the pair. Surely no better card appears on the local horizon.

GAELIC GAMES AT SPALDING PARK

Followers of the Irish national games will learn with great pleasure and gratification of the Gaelic football and hurling games that are planned for Spalding park on the afternoon of April 19, Patriots day, by the members of the Lowell Gaelic Athletic association.

The first attraction for the day will be a hurling game between the St. Enda's team of Lowell and the Clare men of Boston and as both teams are primed up for the meeting a good contest is expected. It is a long time since an old-fashioned hurling game was played by the exponents of Gaelic sports in Lowell and the old-timers will learn of the news with pleasure.

The second attraction, and one which promises a sterling contest, is the game planned between the St. Enda's football team of this city and the Tipperary team of Boston. The Lowell team in this department is comprised of some first class material and the followers of the sport are anxious to see them under pressure next Tuesday afternoon. Last Sunday the team met and defeated a group of Lawrence players and the members believe this a good omen for their opening game.

The introduction and revival of these hurling and Gaelic football games for the city of Lowell is the result of hard effort on the part of a group of young men who set out at the beginning of the year to bring the games back to Lowell on the plane that they should enjoy. The practice matches have attracted a large number of young men, mostly of Irish birth, and all departments of the sport have taken on a new lease of life. These Irish games will be a treat to the old-timers and will undoubtedly be a novelty to many who do not know what the Irish national game looks like. Special cars have been promised by Manager Leavitt of the local street railway.

POLICE STOPPED BOUT

LISTON SURVIVES CUT IN B. C. BASEBALL SQUAD

Jimmy Liston of this city, who starred on the eastern championship B. C. football team, has survived the cut made by Coach Gildea, in the B. C. baseball squad, and his many Lowell friends and admirers look to see him make a big mark on the diamond this season as he made on the gridiron during the passed season.

Liston has been a prominent ball player for several years. When in the Lowell high school he starred in the catching department and broke up many games by his fine hitting. He also worked behind the bat for the South Ends and other local teams, while he has also played the outfield many times.

He's a heady player, a fast and elusive runner, and a reliable hitter. These qualifications were evidently responsible for him being held by Coach Gildea, who has just made one of the most radical moves in the history of college sports.

Six veterans of last season's B.C. team have fallen victims of the swinging axe.

Swan and Gormley, veteran outfielders, considered to be good, were let go. Cody and Gallagher, veteran infielders, Cody considered to be a very classy player last year, were also dropped. Frank Morrissey, veteran utility man for three years past, was also unceremoniously dumped.

Gildea's action has stirred up quite some talk on the Heights, to say the least. He had a hulky squad, turned over to him by Veteran Tom McCarthy, and a plentitude of good players are in it. But some of the men he dropped would make good material for a strong college nine. Babe Ormsby, for instance, a recruit on the Heights, played ball at Georgetown and was thought to be a good infielder. Cody, one of the veteran infielders slashed, has been playing a fine game of ball for B.C. Swan and Gormley, outfielders, are clever gardeners and pretty good stickmen. Mooney, Foley, Mullican and some of the other outfielders dropped were good fielders and batters.

Luke Urban was dropped from the catching department and is now lined up with the shortstops. This may be a wise move. But Gildea is going to find it hard getting a man to fill Urban's shoes behind the bat. Luke displaces Palmer at short. The catchers now on the squad are O'Regan, veteran of three seasons; Philips and Sullivan, both recruits. Fitzpatrick, Mullowney, Kelley, Roderick; Vargus and Lashaway are the pitchers retained.

Jacko Halligan and Len Morrissey are the first basemen retained. Halligan being a veteran. Dowd and McGuire are the second basemen left. Gyban, Palmer and Haggerty are the shortstops, with a possibility of Palmer being shifted to third to fight it out with Comerford, veteran.

Only four outfielders were retained and none of these are veterans. Phillips looks like the choice for left field. Liston looks good for centre. Wilson is probably the best bet for right and Patten and Emmett are the extras.

YOUNG MONTREAL BEATS HERMAN

BOSTON, April 16.—Over confidence in his own ability to score a victory with a kayo, coupled with the clever jabbing and footwork of Young Montreal of Providence, lost Pete Herman, former world's bantam champion, a win at the Boston Arena last night.

The verdict against the former titleholder was on a fairly narrow margin, nevertheless the award to Montreal was correct.

What's more, it was the unanimous ruling of the two judges and referee, two of these officials being veterans of the sport.

Many did not like the award and made a howl over it, they figuring that Herman's heavier blows had won him the fray. But, while his blows did appear to be heavier, he was jabbed and straight lefted to face and body two to one for more than half the way. In money, the thousands of dollars must have changed hands, as Herman was a big favorite and Montreal was strongly backed.

The battle itself was a good one, and also one of the fastest seen in a long time. The men were always busy, dancing, stepping, shooting lefts or rights, cleverly sidestepping or mixing at close quarters. They kept the fans cheering from the first bell until the battle closed, the crowd of more than $5000 making the rafters ring.

74 TO COMPETE IN BIG MARATHON RACE

BOSTON, April 16.—The American marathon, the country's leading road race, which will be run again over the 25 miles of hill and flat from Ashland to this city next Tuesday, will have an entry list almost as large and quite as representative as in the many runnings of other years. The list as announced today by the Boston Athletic association, sponsors for the event, contains 74 names. Among them are several previous winners of this and other long distance races.

Fellow countrymen of Pheidippides, the soldier whose race from the Plains of Marathon to Athens with a military message is commemorated by the event, several Grecian runners, have entered for this latter-day race. At their head is Peter Trivoulides of New York, who won last year. From Canada come Edouard Fabre, the former snowshoe champion of Montreal, and Alfred Hodgers of Halifax, and from the marine corps the soldier-sailors O. E. Bagby and G. A. Carr are entered.

Willie Kyronen, W. J. Kennedy, Frank Zuna and George B. Moss, all of New York; C. W. A. Linder of the Boston A. A., Charles Mellor of Chicago, and M. J. Lynch of Washington, comprise a group of re-entrants who have been prominent in other Marathon races.

The more prominent entrants follow: George B. Moss, Mohawk A. C., New York; Daniel C. Hutchinson, Foxcroft, Me.; Arthur Dewhurst, Nathuen Y.M.C.A.; O. E. Bagby, Massachusetts Marine Corps Association; G. A. Carr, Massachusetts Marine Corps Association; Harry A. Parker, Natick; A. Montevarde, Norristown, N. J.; T. P. Henigan, Dorchester club; E. H. ## IT WASN'T THAT KIND OF A JAG

While going through Central street last evening Federal Prohibition Officer O'Dea spotted a large automobile truck filled with barrels and cans, and suspecting that the receptacles might contain liquor, he immediately made an investigation. In the meantime, the chauffeur of the machine, who was eating supper in a restaurant, came out and explained that the load consisted of turpentine and hardware, consigned to a store in Manchester, N. H., but the explanation did not satisfy the federal officer and the chauffeur and truck were taken to the police station. There, however, matters were explained and the driver of the car was allowed to proceed on his trip. Officer O'Dea later telephoned the Manchester police giving them the description of the machine with orders to examine the shipment when it was unloaded.

IRISH RELIEF WARD CANVASS

Plan Adopted at Meeting of the Local Committee Last Night

Various Events on Program to End Drive by April 30

The local general committee in charge of the campaign to raise $45,000 for the relief of sufferers in Ireland at a most enthusiastic and largely attended meeting in Elks hall last evening voted to supplement the efforts of the various organizations of the city by a systematic ward canvass and the committee of ten appointed at a previous meeting to canvass the downtown section was empowered to select ward captains for each district of the city.

The meeting was one of the most encouraging held since the local drive opened and everybody present agreed that added stimulus must be given the campaign if the city's quota is to be reached by April 30. At the present time, less than one-ninth of the quota has been raised, or $4713.26, according to Treasurer Stephen Flynn.

It was found that while the organizations are doing excellent work, they alone would be taking on a very heavy burden if they essayed to raise the entire quota. The question of whether ward canvass should be resorted to was discussed at length and finally voted by a good majority.

A committee was appointed to cooperate with Paul Kittredge council of the American association of the Recognition of the Irish Republic in an endeavor to bring Rev. Fr. O'Connor of Cork, Ireland, who is now in Boston, to Lowell on May 8 to give a stereopticon lecture on conditions in Ireland at the Opera House. This action followed an explanation by a committee representing Paul Kittredge council, of Rev. Fr. Connor's work. It was stated that he is a missionary priest who has spent the last two years in Ireland and who was a classmate of President De Valera in Rockwell college, Tipperary.

The committee explained that Paul Kittredge council believed the undertaking a little too much for it to attempt alone and for that reason wanted the sanction and co-operation of the general relief committee. A committee consisting of Dr. John T. Donohue, Ed. J. Gallagher, Thomas McQuade, Michael J. Markham, Leo Beaulieu, Miss Dillon and Miss Roche was appointed to endeavor to secure Father O'Connor to lecture here. The reverend gentleman is not attached to any church in this country but is vouched for by Mgr. McGlinchey of Boston.

Representatives of various organizations reported encouraging progress. Fred H. Rourke, reporting for the Lowell lodge of Elks, said that a big concert is being planned at the Opera House for a week from Sunday, the receipts to be turned over to the drive. A representative of St. Columba's parish said that $50 had already been raised there and that $100 would be realized from a whist party to be held next week.

Manager Schaake of the Lowell Opera House said that he was willing to turn over 50 per cent of the receipts of the theatre on Monday, April 25. Ordinarily, this would mean in the neighborhood of $200 or $400, but he believed that if the committee got behind a movement to make that performance a special occasion so that capacity audiences might be attracted, a greater sum might be realized. It was voted to thank Mr. Schaake for his kind offer and a committee consisting of Miss Ryan, Miss Maria Markham, Fred H. Rourke, Joseph E. Lamoureux, John Barrett and Edward J. Gallagher was appointed to co-operate with Mr. Schaake making April 25 a banner day at the Opera House.

President Walsh of the Broadway Social and Athletic club said that his organization was planning a big cabaret and dance at the Kasino next Friday evening. The club would pay all the expenses of the affair out of its own treasury and turn the receipts over to the relief fund.

Mr. McNerney of the Oliver Plunkett council of the A.A.R.I.R. said that the council was planning to hold a dancing party in Lincoln hall for the aid of the fund and that tickets for the affair had been out for seven weeks. He was afraid that this might detract from the Broadway enterprise.

Mr. McNerney said that Div. 11 of the A.O.H. at this last meeting had voted to solicit funds from its members for the relief fund and a similar report was received from Mr. Barrett of Division 8. President Peter J. McKenna reported that Nathan Hale council was planning a big concert a week from Sunday.

It was voted to furnish collectors with proper credentials from Mr. Rourke, supervisor of the drive in northern Middlesex county, consisting of a card with a seal and Mr. Rourke's signature. Mr. Rourke said that he would have receipt books ready at once.

Chairman O'Sullivan said that Mr. Kelley, who was in charge of the big carnival to be held at the Kasino the last week in April, had reported everything progressing most favorably and there was every indication that a substantial sum would be realized from this affair.

Miss Alice T. Lee reported for the League of Catholic Women and said that plans for the big button day to be held April 30 were fast nearing completion. The city is to be divided into districts on that day, she said, with an office in each district and the league rooms in Central street serving as the main headquarters. She said the league would need automobiles for the occasion.

Mr. Daly reported progress on the White Cross tag day but also asked for volunteers. Leo Beaulieu, who has been added to the C.M.A.C. committee on the drive, spoke briefly and assured the general committee of the fullest co-operation from that organization. Mr. Rourke said that an effort had been made to stage a boxing carnival here, but owing to the large sums asked by the boxers, the project would be of little financial advantage to the drive.

Prior to the meeting of the general committee, the committee of ten appointed at the previous meeting to canvass the downtown district, organized as a flying squadron. It was decided that Mr. Rourke and Mr. McGilly should canvass Merrimack street from city hall to Prescott street and the northerly side of Middlesex street. Mr. O'Sullivan and McMcKenna will canvass Central street from Merrimack street to Towers corner, Prescott street and the southerly side of Middlesex st. Mr. Lamoureux will canvass Merrimack street from city hall to Pawtucket st. and Moody street from Merrimack to Pawtucket. Mr McGilly was delegated to secure a Greek collector for Market and Salem streets and Capt. W. C. MacBrayne will be asked to canvass Bridge street from the square to Sixth street.

Mrs. Helen Be alvrestyde MHT MHT Mrs. Helen Beatty served as secretary at last evening's meeting. The committee adjourned at 10.10 to meet next Wednesday evening at 7.30.

GIFTS OF JEWELRY

The Kind That Lasts

FLOWERS, rare laces, beautiful wearing apparel, although hallowed by the sentiment that inspired them, are perishable and gradually fade from memory. But a gift of jewelry, untouched by years, to be worn by generation after generation, remains a joy forever.

From the days of Cleopatra, women have ever craved for the adornment which only the possession of jewelry can satisfy, and at Harry Raynes' can be found a fulfillment of their desires, whether it be Diamonds, Pearls, Rubies, Sapphires, Emeralds and other precious or semi-precious gems in Lavalliers, Bracelets, Rings, Brooches, Bar Pins, Necklaces, Earrings, etc.

MUCH of the beauty of precious gems depends upon the artistic manner in which they are mounted. Every jewel sold is mounted in settings designed by master artists and wrought out of platinum, white, yellow or green gold.

This store for almost a century has handled jewelry of the better kind—"The Kind That Lasts." You can purchase here with the full assurance of lifelong satisfaction and at prices that will please for merchandise of quality.

CASES CONTINUED IN POLICE COURT

There was a large batch of continuances in the police court this morning, in consequence of the Laflamme-Richard trial, which consumed most of the session. The cases of Frederick C. Leonard and Martha Crockett, charged with improper conduct, were put over to Monday. Counsel for the defense told Judge Enright that the arresting officer and the wife of the male defendant did not seek to press the case. He asked that the charges be dismissed. Judge Enright, however, would consent only to a filing of the cases, and it was decided to continue the matter for a hearing. The officer, who failed to appear when the case was called, will be ordered to be present on Monday morning. The arrests were made at Tyngsboro. The case of John Tansey, charged with drunkenness, was continued to May 16. The defendant pleaded not guilty. ## TUFTS TO CALL MISS SMITH

Will Appear as a Witness Before Middlesex Grand Jury

Authorities Expect to Obtain Information Regarding Murder of Policeman

CAMBRIDGE, April 16.—District Attorney Nathan A. Tufts, who has been investigating the murder a week ago at Wakefield of Patrolman James A. Preston for which Clarence W. Loud of Melrose is being held, said today that he had summoned Miss Dorothy Smith of North Cambridge to appear as a witness before a special session of the Middlesex grand jury to be called shortly. There is no suspicion that she was either principal or accomplice in the case, it is understood, but the authorities regard her as a source of information of importance.

The summons was served on Miss Smith after she had been questioned by the district attorney and by state police officers in connection especially with their search for the woman who they maintained rode with Loud the night of Officer Preston's murder. The authorities declined to indicate the nature of Miss Smith's probable testimony. She also refused to discuss the case further than to say that she was acquainted with Loud and with other person whose names had been mentioned in connection with the inquiry.

VERY UNUSUAL LIQUOR CASE

Smell of Booze in Restaurant Gets Oliver Pinnette in Trouble

Police Didn't Seize Any Hooch But Defendant Was Sentenced

"Lost by a nose" describes the case of Oliver Pinnette, sentenced to three months in the house of correction and ordered to pay a $150 fine, today in the police court, after having been found guilty of illegally keeping liquor in a case which perhaps establishes a precedent in the annals of prohibition prosecutions. The sole evidence of the prosecution rested upon aroma—the aroma of moonshine. No liquor was seized on the premises of the defendant, nor was he shown to have sold any of the forbidden stuff. But liquor officers testified that when they entered his restaurant on Cheever street, armed with a search warrant, he hurriedly dumped the contents of a dipper into the sink. Dipper and sink, declared the raiders on the stand, were

CACHE LOCATED IN NEAR BEER ESTABLISHMENT

A skillfully concealed crevice in the wall of an Aiken street near-beer establishment, protected from the vulgar gaze of officers of the law by a mysterious sliding panel, failed to save the proprietor from arrest this morning, when the members of the liquor raiding squad entered his place of business armed with a search warrant, and to the accompaniment of dramatic circumstances, placed him under arrest on charges of illegally keeping liquor. Again the wiles of the local moonshiner were revealed as devious and weirdly ingenious. But also it was again revealed that the police liquor

INFANT MORTALITY RATE DECREASING

Intensive effort on the part of nurses of the board of health in co-operation with those of various local welfare organizations is beginning to show a substantial results in decreasing the local infant mortality rate.

During the first three months of the present year there have been only 88 deaths of children less than a year old. In the first three months of 1920 there were 113 deaths of children under one, while in 1919, when the best showing for low infant mortality in 25 years was made, there were 101 deaths of children under one in January, February and March. If the number of infant deaths continues in the same proportion for the rest of this year as in the first three months, a new record will have been established.

General mortality is also lower this year than it has been for the past two years, according to figures furnished by Agent Francis J. O'Hare, of the health department. In 1919 there were 563 deaths during the first three months, in 1920 there were 558 deaths, but the first three months of 1921 have brought about only 455 deaths.

The Flynn girl recently was discharged from the Lowell Corporation hospital, where she lingered between life and death in consequence of a fractured skull sustained in the jump which the state's evidence would show was in defence of her honor, which she believed was threatened by the two young defendants. # OVER 2000 BILLS BEFORE CONGRESS —TARIFF BILL SURE TO PASS

Senator Walsh Has Big Committee and Rogers Will Press Veteran Bureau Bill ---Gen. Sherwood, 85, a Reporter in Press Gallery---Miss Robertson Wants No Privileges

(Special to The Sun.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 16.—Now the excitement and rush over the opening of the 67th congress is out of the way, Washington has settled down to its normal condition and senators and congressmen are deep in matters of proposed federal legislation. On the first day of the session more than 2000 bills were introduced in the house and more than 200 in the senate. All previous records were broken. Many of the measures dealt with pension and the distribution of German cannon and field pieces, but to those were added hundreds of bills of great national importance, such as soldiers' bonus, a consolidation of all veteran benefits, the emergency tariff and others of world or country wide interest.

An unusual feature of the president's address was that it seemed to please, in a general way, the majority of men of both great political parties. Take for instance the view-point of Senators Walsh and Lodge. Nothing could be farther apart than those two gentlemen on many of the great issues of the day, yet both spoke in hearty endorsement of the president's message. It was very noticeable, as one looked down on that great crowd from the press gallery—for there wasn't an inch of vacant space in the whole chamber—that the applause given President Harding was spontaneous and that it came from both sides of the chamber, practically every democrat rising in his seat and joining in the tremendous demonstration that marked the entrance of President Harding and his escort of senators and members. I noticed one member of congress from Georgia, who very ostentatiously folded his arms, as he surveyed the scene with evident displeasure and took no chance of being mistaken for a man showing any respect or approval of the republican president. But with that single exception, the greeting was cordial, respectful and enthusiastic, regardless of political party.

The Coolidges

Vice President Coolidge sat on the raised platform beside Speaker Gillett, behind the president and Mrs. Coolidge was one of the presidential party with Mrs. Harding occupying the gallery especially set aside for the president—known always as the president's gallery. Both ladies were quietly dressed in simple tailor made suits, Mrs. Harding wearing grey and Mrs. Coolidge black. But some of their women guests blossomed out like a garden in June in picture hats of flowers of brilliant hue so the president's gallery "was a riot of color," as society writers sometimes say. I hear it whispered that the Coolidges will be glad when the time comes that they can hark back to a simple home life in some quiet residential part of Washington, and have their sons with them, spending their spare time in the same simple manner that marked their Massachusetts life. They are very graciously filling all the social duties of a vice president and the wife of a vice president, but that little $32.50 a month home of theirs out in Northampton is more to their personal taste than the glare of brilliant social events. However, the social path was pretty well blazed for them, and the Coolidges have met with a reception so cordial that a quiet life thus far has been an impossibility.

Senator Walsh

Senator Walsh will be one of the leaders of the senate this session, as his splendid committee appointments show. With the hostility of the last administration removed, he will come into far more power and influence even under republican leadership, than was the case during the first years of his service. As a member of the great committee on finance he will have a strong hand in framing the most important measures coming before the 67th congress, as well as taking an active part on other major committees.

Congressman Rogers' Bill

Congressman Rogers has been restored by the house republican caucus to his former position of ranking member on the foreign affairs committee which he relinquished last winter to accept the position of representative of that committee on the all important appropriation committee. Mr. Rogers will press his veteran bureau bill for early consideration. It is practically a duplicate of the one he introduced a year ago, and which met with marked favor by veteran organizations and was approved by a great number of members of the house. The bill was still in committee when the 66th congress came to a close.

The emergency tariff bill is likely to go through congress with a big majority, now that the anti-dumping clause has been made a part of it. Many New England members who voted against the measure last winter will now support it, believing the anti-dumping a great benefit to that section of the country. Although the entire delegation has not yet been polled, it is evident the great majority, if not all, now favor the bill.

Another bill of New England interest which Mr. Rogers will press for action is the one affecting the naturalization of alien women and according them citizenship regardless of the status of their husbands.

Two New Reporters

The corps of Washington correspondents, who sit up aloft in the press gallery and send out to the whole world the news of all legislative doings, has been increased this year by the in-coming of two men who are bound to attract considerable attention through their past official positions. One is General Sherwood of Ohio, a veteran of the Civil war, for many years a leading democratic member of congress, and who now, in his 85th year, starts out as a "Cub" reporter. The general is apt to be decidedly picturesque in his language, usually calling a spade a spade, and if his reports to the Toledo paper he will represent here, are as spicy as his little unpublished verses written for special occasions the other members of the gallery may as well take back seats. The other new reporter is Mark Thistlethwaite, former private secretary to Vice President Marshall, and who made his initial bow in the press gallery at the opening of the 67th congress this week. He will serve on the staff of one of the big metropolitan papers which has a news bureau here. Most of the men sent here by their papers are seasoned correspondents, and it's seldom two such distinguished recruits show up asking for membership in the press gallery. It's no job for an average cub—but these two men don't come under that class. What they don't know about politics and politicians isn't worth knowing.

Plain "Robertson" for Congresswoman

Speaker Gillett has a vexed question to decide on which precedent sheds no light.

Shall the Reading clerk of the house shout "Robertson" when he calls the roll instead of prefixing the title "Miss" when he reaches the name of Miss Alice Robertson, the only woman member of the house? It would have been "Miss Robertson" without a question had not she said to the clerk yesterday: "Please say just Robertson, the same as you would do for a man." "Won't that be disrespectful?" asked the clerk. "You know we all want to do just the right thing by you." "Not a bit disrespectful. Besides why emphasize the fact that I'm an old maid, every time the roll is called?" countered Miss Alice with a merry twinkle in her bright grey eyes. "Well," sighed the clerk dubiously, "I'll have to ask the speaker about it." So a few minutes later Speaker Gillett cornered Miss Alice in the lobby and asked her if it were really her preference. "Indeed it is" she answered, "I'm here doing a man's work, so why discriminate?" The speaker smiled, but did not commit himself as to the course he would follow, and walked away looking a bit puzzled. Now Speaker Gillett is known the country over for his innate courtesy, kindliness and rigid observance of conventionalities. Probably he would rather suffer death as a martyr than to personally address the lady from Oklahoma as "Robertson" and it's safe to say he will wince every time he hears it done. All the same he respects her wishes. Men here refer to it as a sort of Lady & The Tiger case—no one will know the outcome till the first roll is called. Miss Alice was not an advocate of woman suffrage, but she is ready to play the game to the limit now it's on the statutes. She stands for strict equality—not a combination of man's rights and woman's privileges.

When Miss Violet Selfridge, daughter of the London merchant prince, marries Vicomte de Sibour, young French hero, the wedding will take place in one of the most princely houses of London. Selfridge has just leased it—Lansdowne House, a palace in aristocratic Berkeley Square. It was rented last to Lord Rosebery, former premier, who gave a great ball there during Queen Victoria's golden jubilee. Four sovereigns were present. De Sibour has been working in the Selfridge store.

Limewater will sweeten jars and jugs that soap and water won't cleanse?

Spring find you tired and achy?

ARE you dragging along from day to day with a lame, achy back? Do the early weeks of spring find you all tired out, weak and lacking ambition for the day's work? Does every little task bring those stabbing pains that keep your nervous and unstrung? Then lose no time finding out what's wrong. Your back doesn't ache without a cause and usually it is weak kidneys. A cold, strain or overwork may have slowed up your kidneys and left poisons in your blood that shouldn't be there. That, then, is why you have those all-day backaches and sudden pains, headaches and dizzy spells and annoying bladder irregularities. Don't let the trouble get worse! Use Doan's Kidney Pills. They have helped thousands and should help you. Ask your neighbor!

THESE ARE LOWELL CASES:

OSGOOD STREET

H. W. Hilliard, city fireman, 20 Osgood street, says: "I suffered a long while with my kidneys before I could get anything to help me. I happened to hear of Doan's Kidney Pills. They helped me from the start. Before I took them, I had a dull, constant ache in the small of my back. If I bent over, I could hardly straighten again. Sharp pains would catch me in the back. The kidney secretions were too frequent in passage and caused me much annoyance. Doan's Kidney Pills cured all this trouble."

KIMBALL AVENUE

Mrs. L. Wright, 15 Kimball avenue, says: "My kidneys were in a bad condition and often my back ached so, I couldn't sit or lie down without being miserable. My work was often neglected, I was so tired and run down. My kidneys acted irregularly. I read of Doan's Kidney Pills and used them as directed. After using three or four boxes I was helped wonderfully. The backaches left and I could do my work without any trouble."

MIDDLESEX STREET

D. W. Parker, harness maker, 747 Middlesex street, says: "I was in a bad fix with kidney and bladder trouble. I also had rheumatic pains in my limbs and I had to walk with a cane. I could hardly get to the store and back to my home, as I just had to hobble along. The kidney secretions were scanty and painful in passage. I used Doan's Kidney Pills and they went to the seat of the trouble. The secretions became natural and the rheumatic pains left."

B STREET

Mrs. L. L. Lorrain, 99 B street, says: "My kidneys became weak and I suffered awfully. My back was so weak I didn't have the strength to walk and I had severe pains just over my kidneys. My kidneys acted irregularly, too. I suffered from dizzy headaches. For two months, every move I made sent a sharp pain all through my body. I read of Doan's Kidney Pills and got a supply. Three boxes cured me of the trouble and I have had no return of it."

Officers of Lowell High School Girls' Battalions Hold Annual Party

The officers of the Girls' battalions of the Lowell high school held their annual party last evening in the school hall with fully 300 young people present. The same happy features characteristic of previous affairs by the young women of the school were again in evidence and everybody present had a most enjoyable evening.

The evening clothes of the young woman contrasting with the darker attire of the young men formed a pretty feature and the orchestra was partially screened from view by greenery. The matrons sat under a lattice bower over which roses were twined.

Senior Major Eloise Dion and Richard Willis led the grand march and were followed by the other officers in order of rank. The matrons were Mrs. Henry H. Harris, Miss Mary A. Mrs. M. Reid, the retiring president of the auxiliary, was also remembered with a dress silk bag, the presentation being made by Miss Jessie Smith, the new president. Entertainment numbers were given, and refreshments were served. The committee in charge consisted of Mrs. L. Towle, Mrs. M. E. Ross, Mrs. Jennie Stevenson and A. W. Johnston.

CHARGES MADE AT "L" HEARING

Methods Used by G. O. P. Leaders Challenged by Two of Own Party

Steam Roller Tactics Alleged —Gov. Cox and Other Leaders to Testify

BOSTON, April 16.—Methods used by republican leaders to procure passage of the tunnel purchase bill of 1913 were challenged yesterday by two of their own party in the "L" investigation before the special legislative committee in the state house.

"Questionable methods," "steam-roller tactics," "political pressure"—these are phrases from the testimony of one indignant witness called in from the floor of the house.

Representatives John G. Hull of Leominster and Walter L. Mellen of Worcester were the republican insurgents who dared to attack the methods of their political chiefs.

A few hours later the committee announced the receipt of letters from house and senate leaders, asking that they be given an opportunity to testify. The authors of the requests were Speaker B. Loring Young of the house, President Frank G. Allen of the senate and ex-Speaker Joseph E. Warner, all house members in 1918 and 1919. They will probably be heard next Thursday. It will be recalled that Gov. Cox had already notified the committee of his willingness to testify.

Mr. Warner had been named outright as the author of a remark which made Mellen "more determined than ever in opposition to the purchase of the Cambridge tunnel by the state."

Mellen's Charges

Mr. Mellen attended a caucus of house republicans called in 1919, to consider the "L" tunnel bill, he related. He says that upon entering he heard Warner say:

"My chief has called and, right or wrong, I am with this bill."

"That remark," said the witness, "didn't set well on my mind. Several of us left the room or started to do so."

And at another point: "Within all my experience I can't recall any other time when caucuses were called by the majority party to procure passage of a measure."

Mr. Hull was on the stand a few minutes later.

"Did you know of any irregularities among members of the legislature in connection with the passage of Street railway legislation in 1918 or 1919?" queried Counsel George S. Taft.

"If you refer to a moral question of right or wrong, no," said the witness. "It is my opinion, however, that questionable methods were used to bring to passage the subway purchase measure in 1919."

"What did these acts consist of?"

"They consisted of political pressure brought to bear by certain persons on members of the house."

"Leaders in the two houses," the witness specified later.

Pressing questions from the committee failed to temper the witness' remarks.

"Perhaps what you mean is steam-roller tactics. Would that cover it?" suggested Representative James B. Brown.

"Yes, such tactics were evident."

Calls All Members of 1918 Body

Mr. Hull and Mr. Mellen appeared as witnesses after the committee had determined to request the presence of every member of the 1918 legislature. Last night a formal request was sent to every such legislator who has not previously testified. About 25 were asked to appear next Thursday.

Yesterday's session, however, was adjourned until 10 o'clock next Wednesday. Then the committee is assured, Rep. Andrew P. Doyle of New Bedford, named on Thursday as the recipient of loans from the Fidelity Trust company on railway stock collateral, will be present. It was understood also that ex-Rep. John L. Donovan of Boston, also named as a Fidelity note-maker, would attend. So far as could be learned no word was received as to when ex-Senator Edwin T. McKnight, vice president of the Fidelity Trust company, would appear.

In the meantime the committee will be reinforced with legal advice, Elliott Bradford Church of Newton having been appointed assistant counsel to Mr. Taft.

Atwood and Driscoll Named

Other developments yesterday were the suggestion by Rep. Edward F. Harrington of Fall River, democratic floor leader, that Vice President Coolidge and ex-Gov. Samuel L. McCall be invited to testify, and the naming of two more legislators connected by witnesses with remarks about purchasing Elevated stock.

Rep. Charles H. Harlshorn of Gardner identified ex-Rep. Harrison H. Atwood of Dorchester as a man who had told him that he bought Elevated stock during 1918. Mr. Hartshorn, so far as his memory served, thought this took place before the passage of the "L" public control act.

A few minutes later Rep. Timothy J. Driscoll of Roxbury declared that Timothy F. Quinn of Sharon, while a member of the house in 1918, had asked him how much money he had and advised him that Boston Elevated was "a good buy."

BANK CELEBRATES ITS 36TH BIRTHDAY

The board of directors of the Lowell Co-operative bank celebrated the 36th anniversary of the founding of the institution by a dinner in the Yorick club last night. The event was also turned into an observance of the 80th birthday of Artemus B. Woodworth, president of the institution, since it was started. During the evening a gold-headed cane was presented to Mr. Woodworth, as a gift from the directors, by Francis E. Appleton, vice president of the bank.

The bank was one of the first of its kind to be established in New England. From a small beginning it has grown until it has assets at the present time of nearly $2,500,000. It has 4700 shareholders and has built more than 2500 homes in Lowell. At a meeting of the board of directors, following the dinner last night, loans of more than $75,000 were authorized and favorable action was taken on the application of 38 persons who wished to become shareholders. A new series of shares is to be opened for subscription immediately.

The members of the board of directors present at the dinner were: Artemas B. Woodworth, William D. Brown, Francis E. Appleton, George H. Taylor, Adam Cochrane, Stephen W. Abbott, Warren F. Sanborn, John Kerr, Frank E. Bramhall, Benjamin W. Clements, Herbert L. Bishop, Arthur A. Stewart, Arthur Bartlett, Walter H. Dorr, Frank B. Kenney.

There were present also the attorney and conveyancer, Stanley E. Qua, and the treasurer, Charles C. Drew.

MORE FIRES AT WASHINGTON SCHOOL

Two attempts of incendiaries to destroy the Washington school, in Lang street, are being investigated by the police, as the result of discoveries by the firemen. Yesterday evening fire broke out simultaneously in three parts of the building, but only a few desks and chairs were burned because of the early arrival of the fire apparatus. Fred Tibbetts, of Emery street, pulled the alarm at box 552, Midland and Upton street, when he saw smoke in the supply room on the street floor. The firemen when they reached the scene discovered that a second fire was burning in the main hall, on the second floor, and a third in one of the rooms for the teachers. The fire, which occurred about 7.45, was preceded on Thursday by a blaze which broke out at approximately the same time in the evening. This conflagration was in the supply room, and resulted in the destruction of more than one hundred books.

French Plan New Advance

newspaper says that two reports, one military and the other economic, were adopted.

Marshal Foch submitted the military report, in which it was pointed out that it would be insufficient to fix the limits of the new occupation area on strictly military lines, adding that the economic element was worthy of equal consideration. The marshal is declared to have held that the first advance by French forces should be carried out with columns imposing enough to deal with any German reaction, although that would be most improbable. He declared this force could be considerably decreased once occupation was well established, and would not amount to more than 50 per cent of the effectives held in the Rhineland by France before April 1, when the class of 1919 was mustered out. New battalions could be obtained by calling up the classes of 1918 and 1919, one of which could be replaced in three months by the class of 1921.

Louis Loucheur, minister of liberated regions, submitted the economic report, stating that the penalties to be applied should not be merely to exert pressure upon the Germans and force them to give in, but as a means to bring in the money due to France. He outlined a system of payments of a permanent character which might be continued after the occupation. It consisted essentially in taxing Rhine-land coal and industrial products exported from the occupation area. He declared that, according to careful calculations, these payments should yield three billion gold marks per year, and said it would be a starting for a complete system of payment which could be applied to the whole of Germany. If the Germans could not be induced to come to a mutual agreement with the entente.

All that remains is to perfect details of plans so that the occupation may be effected smoothly, it is declared.

WANT ADDITIONAL LAND FOR CEMETERY

William H. Bixby, chairman of the board of cemetery commissioners, at a special meeting of the board late yesterday afternoon was empowered to confer with Charles T. Rowland, representing Erastus A. Bartlett, relative to the purchase of land off the Old Boston road as an addition to the Edson and Westlawn cemeteries. It was stated that Mr. Bartlett wanted $25,000 for the land, but the board was opposed to paying so large a figure. If the conference of the chairman with Mr. Rowland results in no agreement, the cemetery board will consider taking the land by the right of eminent domain.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

By Theatres' Own Press Agents

THE STRAND

"Outside the Law" and "Mid-Channel," Two Wonderful Photoplay Productions at The Strand All Next Week

Two super special photoplay productions, each one of which was featured at $2 prices at the Capitol Theatre, N. Y., and the Park theatre, Boston, will be shown the entire week at The Strand, commencing with matinee on Monday. The program which General Manager Soriero is offering is absolutely the biggest of its kind ever shown in New England. And the most satisfying feature of the week's run is the fact that the prices remain the same. In the afternoon children can get in for 11 cents and at night there will be 500 seats at 20 cents. The other prices for the night will be 25 and 35, tax paid.

Tod Browning's original drama of note, "Outside the Law," with Priscilla Dean in the stellar role, assisted by Lon Chaney, Ralph Lewis, Wheeler Oakman, E. A. Warren and many others of equal note, will head the bill of extraordinary features. The story of the play concerns the struggle of a little group of crooks to free themselves from the shackles of crime and live the life they desire. In this they are thwarted and double-crossed by an evil and revengeful figure of the half world, who resents respectability. In the background, and yet the dominant personality of this drama is an old heathen philosopher, whose ideas of right and wrong are based on no political statutes, and who metes out an unsanctioned justice "outside the law." Priscilla Dean is said to be at her dramatic best in this, her first picture since "The Virgin of Stamboul," while Lon Chaney has a dual role which outshines anything in his career of distinctive and difficult screen impersonations. Tod Browning wrote and produced "Outside the Law" as a Universal-Jewel, at an expenditure of almost one-half million dollars, and the result is said to be one of the most notable dramas of its kind of the decade, pictorially and histrionically. Little Stanley Goethals, the boy wonder of the screen, is one of those of the cast. If you like tense scenes, emotional and dramatic work, and characterizations that are interesting, don't miss this feature.

One of the finest motion pictures of the year is to appear under the title of "Mid-Channel," the famous stage play from the pen of England's foremost playwright, Sir Arthur Wing Pinero, and enacted on the screen by Clara Kimball Young. The strength, timeliness and the intensity of "Mid-Channel" need no comment, as the play has already won world-wide praise since its appearance on Broadway, with Ethel Barrymore in the role now enacted by Miss Young. It is enough to say that Clara Kimball Young reveals a dramatic magnetism that is nothing short of electric in its force, and displays an interpretative ability that has rarely been seen in motion pictures.

"Mid-Channel" as depicted on the screen fairly teems with brilliant and vivid dramatic moments that touch the fibres of the heart, awakening memories in some and sounding a warning to others. Its message is unmistakable—it rings out with clarion tones. Many a husband and many a wife will find their lives unfolded in grim truth with each act of this great drama. "Mid-Channel" is a distinct achievement in the photodramatic art, and reveals Miss Young at the peak of her power.

In view of the great drawing power of this program, the management advises patrons to beware of speculators and remember also that the tickets are only good on the day purchased.

There will be other smaller features on the program, and the musical numbers will help give it pleasing variety.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

Jean Adair, Noted Actress, in a New Play at the B. F. Keith Theatre, Next Week

Dainty, pretty, wholly charming Elsa Ryan will play her final times at the B. F. Keith theatre, tomorrow afternoon and evening, having as her chief support Rodney Ranous, the splendid young actor. On this bill also will be Gordon & Ford, in their musical act; William Ebs, the Thornton Sisters and Peak's Educated Blockheads, besides two acts specially brought here for the day—Robinson & Savoy and Charles Bradley.

Jean Adair, whose stay in vaudeville has meant a very decided uplift in the quality of good acting, will bring her third playlet to the Keith theatre next week. "Any Home" is the title, and in it Miss Adair will give another of those wonderful elderly parts which has made her so noted. She is really too original in her methods to be compared with any other actress on the vaudeville stage. "Any Home" is a symbolic comedy with a touch of pathos in it, and it was written by J. J. McNally, Jr., a young author who has had great success in placing noted players in good parts.

"Blackface" Eddie Ross, comedian and banjoist, will be another positive hit on the week's bill. Several years ago Ross was in Lowell, and he put his audiences into convulsive fits of laughter. He still has his African harp with him, and also a string of nonsense that is really rated as some of the funniest used on the stage. He is original in everything he offers.

The Three Chums are young men who present a singing skit called "A Few Moments at the Club." But it isn't all singing. There is genial comedy and a general air of conviviality about the performance which will be a reminder to many of bygone days. Their singing is specially good.

Rolls and Royce are 100 per cent. dancers, and that's going some. Like the name of the car that is the very apogee for luxury and speed, Jack Rolls and Ruby Royce stand for something distinctive and apart. Their program includes a wide variety of dance numbers, yet everything they do is graceful and artistic.

Handy balancers are the Donald Sisters, who have much of strength and grace, and who manipulate articles which would quite best some of the strongest of men. Bob and Peggy Valentine have a comedy and musical touch to their work, and Commodore Tom is a wonderful trained pony.

OPERA HOUSE

Big Broadway Success, "The Girl in the Limousine" to be Presented Next Week by the Lowell Players

"The Girl in the Limousine," the tremendous Broadway success by Wilson Collison and Avery Hopwood, will be produced the coming week by the Lowell Players at the Opera House. The world loves to laugh and this play offers better and more opportunities for laughs than any farce comedy written in many seasons. Its authors set out to crowd as many real roars of genuine laughter into a single performance as was consistently possible in the telling of a stage story. That they have accomplished this is now a matter of stage history. The Lowell Players are sparing no efforts to make their presentation of this famous laugh vehicle a signal one, a production that will not be forgotten for some time. The story revolves about a series of complications that begin with the holdup of a society man on his way to a week-end party, and the misunderstanding of a willful old aunt who insists and persists in misunderstanding whom the man is. To tell any more of the story would spoil its delight. The best way to get all that it has to offer and insure yourself against the blues is to attend one of the performances the coming week.

Director Bennett announces that he has cast the production with particular care and the scenic department of the theatre promises effects that are decidedly out of the ordinary. Mr. Byron and Miss Fields, leading man and woman of the Players, are intensely enthusiastic, as are also the other members in the company, at the parts they have been selected to play.

It seems quite unnecessary to comment on the ability of the entire cast to handle comedy. Past performances have demonstrated beyond doubt their rare accomplishment in treating humor-making. Miss Fields and Mr. Byron will find themselves possessed of ample material with which to serve well the purpose of the authors. Miss Priscilla Knowles, Miss Florence Hill and Miss Pembroke will be happily assigned, and Maxwell Driscoll, Kenneth Fleming, Charles Barton and the rest will also be found in congenial roles.

The advance sale of tickets indicates another record run for the week. In view of this report it might be advisable to make your reservations at once and thus avoid possible delay or disappointment. The box office is open daily from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m. Tel. 261.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

"The Love Flower," Another Big D. W. Griffith Production, Feature For Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday

Manager Nelson has secured another series of A1 attractions for presentation during the holiday week at the Merrimack Square theatre. As usual, the slogan of this popular amusement house, "Always a Good Show," will be followed and patrons are assured of the best obtainable in the photoplay line.

Starting off the week comes a big Sunday program. Will Rogers will appear in "Jess Call Me Jim," an appealing and interesting story, while Eugene O'Brien, oft-called "handsomest man on the screen," will star in "The Broken Melody," a dramatic feature with strong heart appeal. The usual excellent surrounding program will be carried out.

For Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday the outstanding feature will be the D. W. Griffith' newest production, "The Love Flower."

Words of the most superlative degree and descriptions of the most laudatory nature have not been found to express in adequate terms this wonderful picture play of love and adventure such as only a Griffith, a master, may reveal in all its beauty, strength and excitement. Critics have pronounced it one of the most remarkable productions that has ever come from this master hand and fans everywhere have revelled in its beauty and excitement and heralded it as a production comparable only with the most wonderful that has come to the screen in the past few years.

Its theme, primarily, is of unusual interest, interwoven with side lights of intricate complications that add materially to its action, its heart interest, its suspense and its ultimate justification, for it is an unusually dramatic story of the wonderful love of a daughter for her heart-broken father, who being hounded to the very end of the world, dares to plan the undoing of the man who is desirous of bringing ultimate disgrace upon the very light of her heart and soul and unhappiness to her every thought.

Not one woman in ten thousand would do what this daughter dared to do to save her father. Not one person of her sex in many times that number would have clung to the heart strings of her parents, through their many trials and tribulations, with every atom of the strength of her frail body, as did this girl of nature, this child of all that was good and true and wholesome. Gratitude is the rosemary of the heart, but greater love has no one than they that would willingly give their life to save another. Yet this girl, without the knowledge of her father, plotted to give away all that was near and dear to her, even to the extent of her own life to save for him a few more happy days on earth.

The other big feature for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday will introduce Will Rogers, the celebrated "cowboy actor," in "The Guile of Woman," a strong dramatic production presenting the star in the role of a Swedish sailor. This is an entirely different role from anything in which Rogers has previously appeared and his host of admirers will find new opportunity to applaud his ability. An excellent supporting cast assists him.

A comedy and the International News will round out the bill. The features for Thursday, Friday and Saturday will be "Godless Men" and "The Song of the Soul," two strong dramatic productions.

RIALTO THEATRE

"Isobel" and "The Truant Husband" Leading Attractions First Three Days of Week—Sunday Concerts

The Sunday showing at the Rialto theatre is one that will be attractive to all lovers of the screen for it introduces a pair of screen stars who have made a deeper impression than any other pair in that business today. The feature picture will introduce Viola Dana in an attractive plot, "The Willow Tree," and the late Olive Thomas in the last picture taken before her death, "Out Yonder." This is a picture that stands as a silent memorial to the unhappy death of this star.

There will also be four acts of big time vaudeville.

In the attraction for the three opening days of the week the Rialto has secured a double feature program which will introduce House Peters and Jane Novak in James Oliver Curwood's famous northern story, "Isobel." The second feature sees Mahlon Hamilton, Betty Blythe and Francelia Billington in "The Truant Husband," and is said to be one of the best bits of the season. As additional attractions for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday the Rialto has a continuation of "The Son of Tarzan," a Jimmy Aubrie comedy, "Jonah Day," and the Fox news.

For Thursday, Friday and Saturday the program brings Bebe Daniels in her latest farcical comedy, "Oh, Lady, Lady," now playing at the leading theatres of the country, and an added attraction, an English made picture, introducing English stars, "The Lure of Crooning Water," a comedy, "Beat It," an episode of "Fighting Fate," the Fox news and a Ford weekly. This is surely a program that will appeal to all lovers of the screen and one that should draw heavily to the Rialto.

"Isobel," which is based on James Oliver Curwood's famous story of northern life and which has been picturized by Edwin Carewe, ranks as one of the most remarkable film offerings of the year. Surely and beyond doubt it is the best story of the northwest ever told on the screen. Scenically, it is reputed to be a masterpiece and technically it is said to belong in the classification of truly great pictures. In the direction of the work Edwin Carewe is said to be at his best and the character "Isobel" stands out as a thoroughly human picture, every character being so perfect and so realistic that it is said that each reaches out and firmly wins a tender spot in the heart of the spectator. Curwood's stories are the most interesting of any written of northern country and House Peters and Jane Novak can certainly do full justice in the title roles.

In "The Truant Husband" the story winds about a happily wedded couple whose home life is disturbed by the return of the husband's former sweetheart. Betty Blythe and Francella Billington carry out their respective characters in a natural way and win the esteem of all who see them. The other attractions of the Rialto are well up to the usual standard of its recent big productions.

Tariff Bill Passed

ment then was reached to adjourn until Monday.

Passed in the house yesterday by a vote of 289 to 112, only eight republicans and 15 democrats breaking away from the party alignment on the measure, the Young emergency tariff and anti-dumping bill now goes to the senate with republican leaders hopeful of its passage there next week. Action on the measure in the house came at the end of a session enlivened by democratic protests that the republicans, in standing for passage of the bill, precisely in the form put through at the last session, were bowing to the "dictation of the senate." The minority criticism followed a flat declaration by Chairman Fordney of the ways and means committee that the senate would accept no amendments.

"That admission by Mr. Fordney is the most amazing I have heard in my 18 years' experience in the house," Representative Garner of Texas shouted. "It appears that the constitution is being violated, for it says explicitly that revenue measures must originate in the house, and here we have the chairman of the ways and means committee admitting frankly that the bill was dictated by the senate.

"And further, Mr. Fordney's statement means that hereafter no bill can be amended in this house if the senate leaders will that it shall not be changed. It means we must bow to the senators' wishes whether or not amendments have merit."

Mr. Garret described the position in which the house was placed by Mr. Fordney's statement as "indefensible," adding that all discussion in the house later will serve no purpose. The republicans, he said, were protected "from their own folly in the last two years by Woodrow Wilson," and inquired who would save them from their own destruction now that their majority is overwhelming.

Representative Mann, republican, Illinois, attempted to smooth the troubled waters, but the democrats kept up a running fire of wit and sarcasm during the rest of the debate.

Mr. Fordney's earlier declaration that no amendments could be attached was followed by the republicans who downed every attempt to make changes. Republicans who sought to amend the bill were disposed of with the same celerity as democrats, and the bill now goes to the senate.

The bill as passed by the house is practically identical with the Fordney measure vetoed in the last congress by President Wilson. Protection would be given a number of agricultural products, including wheat, cotton, sugar, wool, corn, cattle and sheep, but the bill would be operative for only six months instead of the 18 provided in the Fordney measure.

The anti-dumping provision also were not included in the Fordney measure together with a system for estimating the duties imposed on the basis of the American value of foreign coin as determined by the secretary of the treasury.

BRIGHTER OUTLOOK FOR CITY'S SHOE SHOPS

The shoe-manufacturing business has a brighter outlook in Lowell than in any other city in the state, according to a statement made by D. W. Shanahan, manager of the Federal Shoe Co., with a place of business on Dix street. A reason for this is said to be that in this city is made a standard grade of medium price shoes for which there is a good demand just now.

The Federal Shoe company has started work in several departments of its factory preparatory to beginning operations on full time with about 500 employes at work in the near future. Mr. Shanahan states that it is expected that the concern will continue to operate on a full-time basis for an indefinite period. The company makes youths', girls', misses', children's, youth's and men's medium high grade shoes.

Adventures of The Twins

THE MONKEYS GAVE A CRY OF JOY WHEN THEY SAW THE MIRROR.

"MOON COMES DOWN"

Upon hearing a strange voice say that the moon was leaning against an old stump on the ground, the two circus monkeys slid down the cocoanut tree like firemen down a greased pole. If the moon was anywhere round, they didn't want to miss it.

"Where is it? Where is the moon?" they asked.

"Here! Here!" answered the mysterious voice. "Down at your feet!"

Now Flippety-Flap had been very busy, and so had Nancy and Nick, upon their arrival at the place where the circus monkeys lived.

First, the fairyman took out the large round mirror he had brought in one of his great shoes, and out of the other shoe he took the rice they had brought from China. After that he made a small hole in the ends of two cocoanuts and filled them with the rice. The cocoanuts he then hid.

Next, the three travellers hid themselves behind the mirror and had just got settled when the monkeys came sliding down the tree.

"Here's the moon," called Flippety-Flap.

Mr. and Mrs. Monkey, particularly Mrs. Monkey, gave a cry of joy when they saw it. "Oh, you dear moon!" she cried. "I always knew you were a looking-glass. I can see myself perfectly now. Just as I thought, I'm the most beautiful creature on earth." And she started to primp industriously.

But Mr. Monkey was interested in other things. He was hungry. "Can you tell me, O Moon, where I can find some nice white rice?" he asked.

Flippety-Flap behind the mirror winked at Nick and answered loudly, "Yes, Mr. Monkey that I can. Look under the bolo-bush for two cocoanuts." And then look inside the cocoanuts."

Mr. Monkey skedaddled over to the bolo-bush and Mrs. Monkey left her primping and followed.

There on the ground were the two large cocoanuts, and in the end of each was a hole. Mr. Monkey picked one up, curiously, and stuck in his hand.

ALL WOMEN SHOULD READ THIS EVIDENCE

There are many women who have been invalids or semi-invalids so long that they accept their condition as a life burden. They have endured broken sleep, stomach trouble, nervousness, headaches and weakness so long that they have given up hope of enjoying good health. In many cases the illness began in childhood or early womanhood. It is these women, especially, to whom the story of Mrs. Mabel Johnson, of No. 67 Bennington street, East Boston, Mass., will prove most interesting and profitable.

"My sickness began when I was a girl," relates Mrs. Johnson. "Overstudy and lack of outdoor exercise caused a breakdown in my health and I never knew what it was to be as strong as most of the girls of my acquaintance. I was pale and so nervous that it seemed as though I should fly to pieces. I suffered from headaches a great deal of the time and didn't sleep well, I lost flesh and strength and my apetite was poor.

"When I was a young woman a friend recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and she was so sure that they would help me that I got a box of the pills and began to take them. They helped me in much shorter time than I had expected, for I had been ill so long. My appetite improved almost at once. Gradually my strength returned and I gained in weight and felt better in every way. I became less nervous and rarely have a headache now."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists or direct from the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., on receipt of price, 60 cents per box. Write for the free book, "Building Up the Blood."—Adv.

WILL HOLD PATRIOTS DAY EXERCISES

Patriots day exercises will be held in most of the local schools Monday. Appropriate programs have been arranged under the direction of the teachers. In some schools the exercises will be held in the halls while in others they will be confined to the individual classrooms.

All sessions of schools will be suspended Tuesday, the holiday, but will be resumed Wednesday morning. When the schools close next Friday afternoon they will not re-open until Monday morning, May 2, the intervening week being the annual spring vacation and the last before the close of the school year in June.

LOCAL DEATH RATE CONTINUES TO DROP

The local death rate continued to drop this week. Only 25 deaths were reported to the board of health as compared with 31 last week and 33 the week before. The rates for the three weeks were 11.53, 14.29 and 15.22, respectively. There were four deaths of children under five and two of these were of children under one. Pneumonia caused three deaths, diphtheria one and tuberculosis three.

Infectious diseases reported included the following: Diphtheria, 5; measles, 7, and tuberculosis, 6.

Loss of Life in Tornado

struck Sontag, 16 miles east of Brookhaven, today. Ten houses were wrecked.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 16.—A rapidly mounting death list that may exceed 50, dozens of persons injured, and property damage as yet unestimated, are results of a tornado that cut a wide swath across parts of Miller and Hempstead counties, Ark., and Cass county, Texas, last night.

Reports coming into Little Rock today, from the storm area, augmented rather than diminished the extent of the damage and because of paralyzed wire communication, officials were of the opinion that several days might elapse before the full extent of the destruction is definitely known.

Apparently the heaviest loss of life and property was in the two Arkansas counties. In the rural sections of upper Miller county, near Texarkana, 11 persons are known to have been killed and a large number injured. Near Hope, in Hempstead county, from 15 to 20 persons were killed and scores injured by the storm which swept the entire length of the county. The storm approached within a few miles of the town.

In Texas, the damage was in the vicinity of O'Farrell, a thickly settled farming community west of Atlanta. The despatches reported an unknown number of persons killed and injured.

Eleven bodies had been brought into Texarkana early today. Four bodies had been taken to Hope from the storm district in that locality. Early newspaper estimates here placed the number of dead at approximately 35.

Seven Lives Lost

DALLAS, Tex., April 16—At least seven lives were lost in northeastern Texas late yesterday in a tornado which, after sweeping sections of Smith, Wood, Gregg, Cass and Howle counties, passed into Miller and Hempstead counties, Arkansas, where more than a score of persons were reported killed. Scores of persons were reported injured in the affected area of Texas. Six of the Texas fatalities were at Avinger, Cass county, and one at Atlanta.

To Confer on Coal Strike

apparently broken into sections as a result of the refusal of the national union of railwaymen and the national federation of transport workers yesterday to continue their support of the strike called by the miners' federation of Great Britain on April 1. Opinion prevails in some quarters that the action of the railroad workers and the transport men means the death warrant of the "triple alliance." This view is not held universally but, without doubt, the split which developed yesterday will have a serious effect upon the rank and file of labor.

"Yesterday was the heaviest defeat that has befallen labor within the memory of man," begins the Labor-ite Herald's comment on the sensational breakaway of the railroad men and transport workers. "It is no use trying to minimize it. The workers have not stood together and they have reaped the reward."

The newspaper declares that Frank Hodges, secretary of the miners' organization, made a tactical mistake by altering the old formula of the union during his address before the members of the house of commons on Thursday night. The union had held it would not negotiate until assured of the establishment of a national wage board, even if such a body would not begin operations immediately, but Mr. Hodges changed the formula by declaring the union would negotiate immediately postponing the question of a national board. Assertion is made that in so doing he went beyond his powers.

"The old machinery has failed," the Herald concludes. "We must start afresh and get a machine that will work, and develop a new spirit. This is not the end, it is the beginning."

Whether the Miners' Federation, in its turn, will split up, as predicted in some quarters, remains to be seen. Mr. Hodges' position has become delicate, but it is known he has the support of a strong minority. The hands of the present executives of the organization are tied, but the new conference of delegates, which has been called, may consent to modify its instructions so that negotiations may proceed.

MOREY SCHOOL ADDITION

The half floors of the new addition to the Morey school are now being laid by a Boston firm. Radiators for the new building were set in place this week and the plumbing and heating work is now practically complete. The woodwork is about half done and during the coming week Commissioner George E. Marchand of the public property department hopes to complete arrangements for the purchase of desks for the various classrooms.

OFF MAIN HIGHWAY

There's Where Motorist Will Find Real Country

Balmy spring weather is bringing motor-enthusiasts out into the country.

The main roads out of the cities again are clogged with automobile traffic. More than ever, this year, as automobile manufacturers will testify by their sales.

Rather than join the slow procession, the nature loving motorist turns off the popular highway into the narrower country roads. Doing this, all that he has to worry about is dodging the chickens that persist in crossing the road.

For the country road makes good riding—on a balmy day. A properly dragged dirt road causes the least tire wear. That's what one tire maker says. It generates less heat in the tire than any type of road, he adds.

Besides this the motorist stands a better chance of meeting more real uncommercialized country this way, than if he followed the procession. And if he seeks bargains in farm products he'll still find them off the main roads.

OAKLAND ROADSTER

Light in weight, easy to drive, with controls so naturally placed that the driver can relax and still reach them conveniently, the Oakland Roadster is the ideal car where greater passenger capacity is not an object.

Economy of operation, with great power, are features that distinguish the Oakland Roadster. Built on the same sturdy Oakland chassis, with the same overhead-valve, six-cylinder, 44 horse-power engine as the other Oakland models, by reason of less weight the ratio of power to weight is greater in the roadster and reflects itself in unusual performance and mileage, both in tires and gasoline.

OVER THEIR HEADS

New Yorkers Get Wide Variety of Motor Bills

By Newspaper Enterprise

ALBANY, N. Y., April 16.—New York motorists are being swamped with motor legislation.

There are some 50 or more motor vehicle bills before the state legislature, and a few others have already been passed and signed by Governor Miller. The bills range from one providing use of a special device to imprint registration numbers on steering wheels to the bill increasing the registration fees.

Opposition to the latter has grown so strong, however, that the bill is not expected to survive the house session.

Among the numerous bills awaiting disposition is one providing for a state-wide operator's license, another getting after the motorist who litters the highways with paper; the "finger print bill," which has brought forth heated protest from chauffeurs and one requiring the owners of taxis and busses to place their names on their cars.

There are also the indemnity bond bill providing for state indemnity in cases of motor accidents; another requiring motorists to take out state compensation insurance; and the Knight-Miller bill, regulating the quality of gasoline.

One bill, if passed, would require the use of a patent signalling device on every car. The Walsh bill calls for the use of red and green lights on cars, like those on motor boats.

A bill controlling the transfer of used cars has been signed and will go into effect July 1.

SIGNS FIRST CLEAN BASEBALL BILL

SEATTLE, Wash., April 16.—There'll be no baseball scandal in the state of Washington this year if Governor Louis F. Hart has anything to say about it. Governor Hart has signed a bill, thought to be the first passed by any state legislature, which provides that any person who bribes or offers to bribe a baseball player to "throw" a game shall be guilty of gross misdemeanor. The same penalty applies to any player who accepts or agrees to accept a bribe.

BATTERY SERVICE

Battery owners should realize, said Mr. Bernard Kane, of Luke McCann's Battery station, that the repairing of a battery so that it may give service continuously after being repaired calls for the employment of skilled battery workers who will not only do the necessary work but apply all of their knowledge to the job, and do it with the interest of the owner at heart. The men on our staff are this kind and when a battery leaves our shop after being repaired the service it renders is the maximum service that it is capable of giving. Another point that Mr. Kane emphasized in the line of service was that when an auto owner is in need of any additional service that the McCann station can give they are only too glad to be called upon at any time.

PROLONG CAR'S LIFE

Squeaking of the brakes is usually due to uneven friction. The gripping effect should be adjusted equally around the brake drum.

Sudden changes in temperature hurt the car's finish. Heat in the garage should be kept uniform.

Drain the carburetor frequently to draw off water and all foreign matter.

Keep oil off the motor. It gathers dirt.

Prevent blowouts by avoiding severe jolts and maintaining full pressure.

WHY THEY'RE SCARCE

The finest European passenger automobiles are quoted on the American market at from $10,000 to $20,000 each.

NEW TYPE OF WOOD FRAME HOUSE

CHICAGO, April 16.—A new type of wood frame house, much less subject to damage by fire than those in general use, is being developed and tested at the Underwriters' laboratories here.

The laboratories announce that it appears practicable, even with the ordinary wood joists and studs commonly used for floors, walls and partitions, to reduce fire losses and consequent danger to life in houses of this class. Only a few of the danger points need be given special attention.

The new system developed is by a covering of metal lath and plaster held in place by wires surrounding the beams which continue to act even after the wood beams have started to char.

Wharton Clay, engineer and member of both the National Federation of Construction Industries and the National Congress of the Building and Construction Industries, says "from the results of this test, it is practically assured that houses can be constructed with practically no extra expense which will stand intensive fire for one hour and keep the family and property safe from destruction."

"The new method is spoken of as fire safe wooden construction, and is a wood frame so protected by metal lath and plaster that the lives of the occupants of the buildings would be safe against the effects of fire. Thirty minutes is the least time that should be allowed for complete safety but a protection of one hour is being sought after by fire proofing engineers."

RELIABLE WORK

The use of genuine parts in the work by Alfred Markus on Arch street applies to every repair job that is done at his place of business from the smallest to the largest, no matter what the cost as he feels that an imitation of a standard part can never quite equal the real one in spite of what the maker might say. It is a policy like this that establishes the reputation of a service station amongst the auto riding public and gives them a feeling of security.

Italian Papers Praise Harding's Message

ROME, April 16.—Newspapers of this city give high praise to the policies announced by President Harding in his message to the United States congress and declare it served notice on the entente nations as well as former enemy countries, of the course to be pursued in future by America.

MAC LITE BATTERY

Clark Brothers, at 18 Church street, are the local agents of the Mac Lite Battery, one of the highest grade batteries on the market and one of the few that are given a guarantee the minute it leaves the factory, and a guarantee that extends for two years which is more than the life of many batteries. The major ploptof this exceptional surety is the fact that if by any chance a Mac Lite Battery fails to give the satisfactory service the owner does not have to wait for a lot of red tape action to be taken up with the dealer and the factory, but can obtain a new one right where he made his purchase. In addition to the sale of new Batteries the Clark Bros. maintain a splendid service station and are able to give prompt and efficient service whenever needed.

DRIVING IN TWO PARTS

Motor licenses in Japan are issued in two parts. The first "half" permits the owner to drive straight ahead. After a second examination in which the driver must show his ability to use the reverse gear without backing into a tree the second half is issued.

PAINT AND POWDER CLUB

Excellent Entertainment By Lowell's Newest Amateur Thespian Organization

A novel revue, filled with color, bright music, and comedy, was the initial offering last night of Lowell's newest amateur thespian organization, the Paint and Powder club, comprising local men and women of the younger set. The affair, staged at the Colonial theatre, for the benefit of the Lowell Guild, drew a capacity audience and was enthusiastically applauded throughout, while the principals, were without exception showered with bouquets from their admirers, who seemingly were legion. It would be difficult to award the trophy for charm, among the galaxy of young women who participated in the various features of the revue; but certainly a special encomium must be accorded to Mrs. Harold Hoeber, who with Geoffrey Baker, filled in the waits between the acts in so delightful a manner that the audience clamored for encores. The air with which Mrs. Hoeber carried off her delicious little role, together with the quaint and delectable old-fashioned costume in which she appeared, made these entre acts miniature classics of their kind. Not until Miss Edna Dixon made her appearance was one to be swerved from one's allegiance to Mrs. Hoeber as the most radiant bit of femininity who tripped forward before the footlights. The selections which Miss Dixon offered upon the violin were so exquisitely executed, and the lady herself revealed so pelasing stage presence and personality, that a rivalry was immediately raised with the delectable lady of the entr' acts. After an overture by Miss Kathleen Wright and Arthur C. Spalding, the prologue was spoken by Mrs. Elmore I. McPhie and Richard Hadley. A one-act sketch, "The Florist Shop," by Miss Winifred Hawkridge, followed with the following cast: "Maude," Miss Natalie Conant; "Miss Wells," Miss Helen Nesmith; "Slovsky," Mr. Oliver Stevens; "Henry," Mr. Richard Chase; and "Mr. Jackson," Mr. Thomas Clark. The properties were in charge of Mrs. John L. Robertson, Jr., while Miss Louise Jennison was the coach. Miss Louise Jennison and Mr. Eldridge MacEwan, as "Two Dark Spots," presented the next turn, a bit of negro characterization. "The Gypsy Camp-Fire" was the next feature, and offered a fantastic woodland scene, where gypsy maidens disported themselves in the dance. The Misses Victoria Jennison and Dorothy Wadleigh executed a duo de danse which was sprightly and atmospheric. Other gypsy damsels were represented by the Misses Gwendolyn Baron, Katherine Nesmith, and Leslie Pullen, together with Mrs. Allan Dumas. As a second terpsichorean contribution, Miss Elizabeth Meigs and Mr. Richard Chase gave a "Pierrot and Pierrette" divertisement, appropriately costumed and with a mise en scene representative of a garden during carnival, with Chinese lanterns strung from the trees. "Love's Bouquet," specialty with Mr. Richard Hadley as a soloist, also took place in the garden, where six society belles appeared in the guise of various flowers, finally grouping themselves, encircled with leaves, as "every flower in love's bouquet." The ladies were: Mesdames Matthew Mahoney, Alden Sherman, Cumner Talbot, and the Misses Helen Eveleth, Ruth Greene, and Katherine Jennison. A short intermission came at the conclusion of this number, and young women who served as volunteer ushers at the performance moved down the aisles selling candy. As the Lowell Guild was to benefit by the performance the audience was only too eager to partake of their wares, which were dainty enough, anyhow. "Tableaux vivants" were the next offering, Vogue covers being cleverly depicted. The following took part in this number, which was arranged by Misses Ellen Burke and Isabel Nesmith:

I. Vogue.....Mrs. James Reilly
II. Winter.
Miss Ellen Burke, Miss Ruth Greene
III. Spring.
Miss Elizabeth Eastman, Mrs. Blanchard Pratt
IV. Summer....Miss Marion Simpson
V. Autumn....Mrs. Matthew Mahoney

This "Vogue" specialty outdid even the most pretentious of the other numbers in the matter of charm. A huge frame, bearing at the top in strong black lettering the word "Vogue," and at the bottom "35 cents," stood against a background of dark green velvet. Within this frame, in effective postures, and arrayed in the most delectable of costumes, the participants appeared. Certainly the artistic triumph of the evening, however, was the program of violin selections played by Miss Edna Dixon, a young lady who is both personally most attractive and a delicate artiste. Borowski's "Adoration" was followed by the soft "Rondino" of Kreisler, and then there were the "Serenade" of Squire, and Pierne's gently staccato "Marche des petits soldats de plomb." At the close of Miss Dixon's playing, which really had no right to be so brief, there was a sketch called "At the Garden Wall," with Mesdames Elmore MacPhie and Walter Reilly, and Miss Leslie Hylan. This included popular airs, and a Butte dancing. One of the selections, a culling from the past, had reference to the moon, which was adjured to "come out and shine." Thus besought, by such a bevy of loveliness, the moon quite naturally appeared, and was certainly among the most unique stage moons of dramatic history.

The finale was a picturization of the club name "Paint and Powder." Miss Edna Dixon was the soloist, and discovered herself as a pleasant vocalist and coryphee as well as a violinist. She depicted "Rouge," being revealed at the rise of the curtain in a huge vanity case, or whatever one calls the gaily adorned boxes in which milady keeps her rouge. Powder puffs were Mrs. John L. Robertson, Jr., and the Misses Helen Eveleth, Olive Eveleth, Leslie Hylan, Victoria Jennison, and Elizabeth Meigs. The lyrics and music were by Mr. Towne. The program bore the following announcement:

Dancing under the direction of Mrs. Derby Brown.

Finale chorus under the direction of Mr. Towne.

Vogue cover frame given by Mr. Blanchard Pratt.

Flower costumes made by the Little Lady Dress company. Designed by Miss Ellen Burke.

We are indebted to the Lowell Opera House for the loan of some scenery and to Mr. Stillwell, scenic artist, for his kind assistance.

Music directed by William Paul McCarthy.

Posters given by Mr. M. A. Ruwlinson.

Bill Permitting Various Tests in Textile Schools Strongly Supported

(Special to The Sun.)

STATE HOUSE, Boston, April 16.—Strong support for the bill permitting the three state textile schools to make tests of new machinery and processes proposed for the textile industry was offered before the ways and means committee of the house at a hearing given on the matter yesterday.

Several officials of the Lowell school addressed the committee in support of the bill, and the heads of the institutions in New Bedford and Fall River sent letters giving their views in respect to it.

The bill provides that the textile schools "are hereby authorized to make, under such regulations as their respective boards of trustees may from time to time prescribe, tests, comparative or otherwise, of new and useful improvements in textile machinery or of apparatus, dyes, compounds, processes, methods or means, directly or indirectly relating to the manufacture of textiles or to the machinery, tools, appliances and materials used in connection therewith. The person, firm, or corporation for whom any such test is made, shall pay therefore a sum not less than the actual cost thereof, including a reasonable amount for overhead expenses, and so much of said sum as represents additional services of instructors or employes may be paid to said instructors or emloyes, subject to the approval of the president of the school. No such test shall be undertaken by any such school which in the opinion of its trustees will be likely to interfere with the regular, efficient and proper exercise of school functions. In the making of such tests preference shall be given to citizens of, and to corporations organized under the laws of the commonwealth."

Charles H. Eames, principal of the Lowell school; Arthur G. Pollard, chairman of its trustees; Royal P. White, vice-chairman; Senator Frank H. Putnam and Rep. Victor F. Jewett all told the committee of the advantages to the industry of permitting the schools to make such tests, Rep. Jewett in particular stating that the textile industry is in such a critical condition, because of competition of mills in other states where conditions are more favorable, that it can retain its business only by keeping "one jump ahead" of the rest of the country.

William E. Hatch, principal of the New Bedford school, sent a letter endorsing the bill as in the interest of the industry, and adding:

"We have always been accustomed to do more or less of this kind of work in this school. The only question that arises in my mind is this: We are obliged to return to the state all money received from any source. There is in our budget for this year no provision for such work as is described in this bill. If we should do any considerable amount of testing, I cannot see where the money would come from for paying for it, unless the school was allowed to use the money received to pay for these tests."

Henry W. Nichols, principal of the Bradford Durfee Textile school at Fall River, wrote that he had been unable to find in the bill anything objectionable to that institution. HOYT.

as a rule, believed in doctoring with nature's remedy, the life giving extracts of leaves, roots and herbs, and you must admit that a very large majority of them lived to a ripe old age; the same treatment that kept them so well and vigorous will keep you the same.

SEVEN BARKS is made from the extracts of several different kinds of leaves, roots and herbs, and has for nearly 50 years been recognized as the most reliable remedy for correcting and preventing disturbances of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. Get the stomach and bowels working right and most other ailments will vanish.

SEVEN BARKS restores a healthy, natural bowel action, in most cases it promotes appetite, and quickly puts the digestive organs in shape to assimilate food. It also acts on the liver and kidneys, failure of these to act properly allows the whole body to be poisoned, and brings about other complications.

The principal cause of backaches is the kidneys when they don't perform their duty, and if not flushed and the poisons thrown off, serious trouble will happen. SEVEN BARKS will not only relieve kidney troubles, but keeps your stomach in good condition and your liver active.

Ask your druggist for SEVEN BARKS. If he does not have it he will get it for you.—Adv.

Mary Flynn Tells Her Story

Continued

leaping from the machine on the night of the alleged abduction. She was the first witness called today, the second occasion of the police court hearing and she corroborated in most respects the testimony offered by Emma Gartin, with, however, some important exceptions where there was disagreement. She told substantially the same way as the Gartin girl had done, the story of her movements prior to the invitation extended by Laflamme and Richard, to get into the car of which they and the Gartin girl were the occupants, and be driven home. She told of accepting their offer. They failed to bring her to her residence as they had agreed to do. She traced the progress of the machine, following the story in substance as it was given by Emma Gartin. Two or three times, she said, she asked that she be permitted to get out of the machine. "I said, 'This isn't the street I live on,'" she testified to having said when they reached Riverside street. No reply was vouchsafed by either defendant, she declared.

Camp Mentioned

"Did one of the defendants mention a camp during the course of the ride?" she was asked. "Yes," she replied. "Laflamme spoke about a camp and said they were going to take me there." She said that she remembered the name of the camp to be Watuppit. After having requested that she be allowed to get out of the automobile, and having been ignored two or three times, she said that she threatened to jump from the car, and finally carried out that design. "I took off my hat and jumped," she testified, "and I don't remember anything after that."

This concluded the direct examination, which was quite brief. Attorney Tierney then proceeded to cross-examine the witness, who told of being out of work for four months. "Who has supported you?" she was asked. She replied that her mother had supported her. In response to queries which were seemingly in the nature of comments on the fact of being out of a job, she replied with some spirit, that "I couldn't work when we were all thrown out of work." She admitted that on occasions she has used profane language. The question leading to this admission was protested by Atty. Reilly, who contended that it was not pertinent to the case. It was allowed, however. Last week Emma Gartin told of swear words used by Mary Flynn when Laflamme and Richard failed to heed her demands that she be allowed to leave the car.

"Neither of the young men said nor did anything improper, did they?" she was asked. "No," the answered. Judge Enright then put the following question to the witness: "Why, then, did you jump out of the car?" "Because," she replied, "they were going to take me out to the camp."

Car Going Fast

She said that the speed of the car did not lessen as she prepared to jump out. "How fast was the car going when you jumped?" was the next query. "I don't know just how fast it was moving," she responded, "but it was pretty fast." This statement was practically the first disagreement between the testimony of the witness and that given by the Gartin girl, who last week declared that the car slowed down when threats were made by Mary Flynn that she would jump. The witness denied absolutely that she remarked "Watch me!" prior to leaping from the car. Emma Gartin testified on the stand last week that "Mary said 'Watch me!'" while she was standing on the running board of the automobile. "Why did you take off your hat before jumping?" was the next query. "It was Emma's hat," was the answer. Witness said that she had on Emma's hat while in the car, and that Emma was wearing hers. This closed the cross-examination, and Attorney Reilly, for the government, announced to the court that the state rested.

Defence Opens

Fred Richard, Sr., was the first defence witness. He was asked only a couple of questions relative to the location of the Richard home. There was no cross-examination.

Officer Cooney, who was one of the state witnesses, was now called at the stand by Attorney Tierney for the defence. "Do you know where the Watuppit camp is?" he was asked. Objection was made to this question. "What is your object in asking this question?" queried Judge Enright, to whom Attorney Tierney explained that he expected in argument to have the point brought up as to whether the auto was proceeding towards Watuppit camp or towards the Richard home. Judge Enright then informed the defence that he was aware that the route taken by the car was a roundabout one if the destination was the Watuppit camp. It was announced by the defence at this point that no more witnesses would be called. A continuance was then asked by Attorney Tierney, for the purpose of preparing a review of the testimony to be used in his closing argument. Judge Enright commented on this request, to the effect that it was an extraordinary one in the experience of the local police court. After Attorney Reilly, however, had stated that he would offer no objection to such a continuance, the request was granted, and the case was put over to Friday, April 22, when final disposition of the matter is expected to be made by Judge Enright, following a summing up by the state and the defence.

LITTLE VISITS WITH FEATHERED FRIENDS

BY MARY EASTMAN

I like them. Owls I mean. Some people are superstitious about them, but that is all foolishness. I have had some real fun when I have seen two owls at dusk, sitting side by side on a limb, making owl-eyes. Then the screech-owl's note always makes me laugh. It sounds as though he meant it so fiercely and it is only ludicrous; but no doubt it is a real love note to his mate.

I discovered a screech-owl's nest in a certain hollow tree one summer, and by watching it closely I found there were young owls in the nest. A few days later I visited the place in the late afternoon while owls are still very sleepy, and found a number of boys gathered about the tree. I sauntered over to them and asked them what they were doing. One boy was half way up the tree, but he stopped to hear what I might have to say. I was told there were screech-owls in the tree, young ones and old ones. One of the boys volunteered the information that they were going to get the baby owls and take them home.

I had supposed as much, and I did my best to save those baby owls. I talked to the boys about owls—what they did, how they lived, what they ate, and the different kinds of owls. I did not seem encouraging. Finally, however, one boy vouchsafed some additional information and I knew then I had their interest. The boy in the tree slid down and we had a long talk about every kind of bird and animal those boys could think of.

I left the group, not knowing if I had pleaded in vain or not; but a few days later I met one of the youngsters, who said to me:

"I licked a boy for you yesterday."

I certainly was surprised, and asked why the pugnaciousness on my account.

"Oh, he was going to steal your little owls, and I wouldn't let him," replied the boy. And this was the boy who had been half way up the tree.

The young owls grew big and flew away safely

Y.M.C.A. ENTERTAINMENT

The assembly hall of the Y.M.C.A. was the scene last evening of the presentation of a three-act drama, "The House in Laurel Lane," by six young women of this city, and standing room was at a premium. Those who took part in the sketch were Dorothy Goward, Dorothy Randlett, Gladys Thurston, Dorothy Plaisted, Flora Long and Gladys Hall. Entertainment numbers were given between the acts by Miss Winifred South, Miss Irene Hall and Miss Laurette Laporte. During the evening a candy table in charge of the Women's auxiliary under the direction of Mrs. Charles Willett did a thriving business. The affair was given for the benefit of the Y.M.C.A.

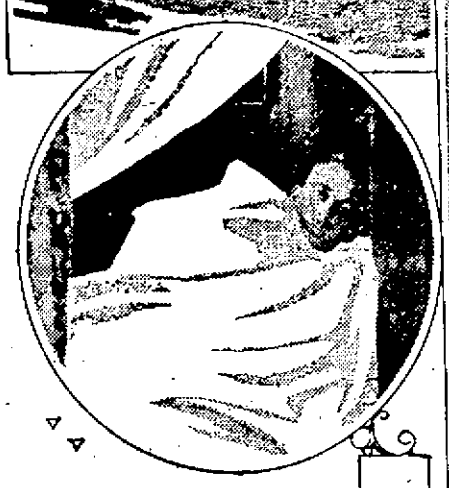
All Aboard! Air Sleeper for New York! Lawson Air Line Company To Start Night Air Liner



MILWAUKEE, April 14.—The first aerial sleeper service starts May 13.

It will be operated by the Lawson Air Line Co., of which Alfred W. Lawson is president.

The first Lawson air liner has been completed at the South Milwaukee factory of the Lawson company at a cost of $100,000.

It has sleeping quarters for 33 persons in addition to capacity for 1500 pounds of mail. It can carry a total of 6000 pounds in addition to its own weight.

The cabin contains in addition to Pullman berths, shower baths, electric lights and other luxuries. Furniture is wicker.

The ship has three 400-horsepower Liberty motors, a wing spread of 117 feet, hops off in less than 1200 feet and has a maximum speed of 120 miles an hour.

It is equipped with the largest tires in the world. Each wheel costs more than a Ford automobile.

It can make the 300-odd air miles from Milwaukee to New York between 10 p. m. and 6 p. m.

Provision is made for transferring passengers or mail in flight to a smaller ship flying underneath. This is done through a trapdoor and rope rigging.

Lawson expects to take the ship May 1 to La Crosse, where it will be christened in the name of that city. He will fly the machine himself.

Lawson plans to build 10 similar ships this year.

The ships will carry government mail and will fly over these three routes:

First, New York, Harrisburg, Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago.

Second, Pittsburg, Columbus, Cincinnati, Indianapolis and St. Louis.

Third, New York, Washington and Atlanta.

SENDING BODIES TO U. S.

20,000 Bodies of Soldiers Who Fell in France Either Shipped or On Way Home

PARIS, April 15.—Twenty thousand bodies of American soldiers who fell in France have either been shipped to the United States or are now in process of being returned for burial in their native country.

With 103 officers of the American army and a personnel of more than 2000 men working night and day in many sections of France, the Graves Registration Service of the American army has reached a point where it is possible to forward 4000 bodies a month. The work of sending back the 52,311 bodies designated for interment in America will be completed by the end of next October, if present plans are fulfilled.

The bodies of the Americans have been taken from every cemetery in the south of France. The greater part of the effort is now being concentrated in the zone of the armies—the Argonne, etc. Seventy-seven bodies of American soldiers who died in Italy will be removed to the United States next month.

The Graves Registration Service now is working in Berlin on arrangements for shipping the bodies of 430 American soldiers who are buried in various parts of unoccupied Germany. This latter work was rendered very difficult because the location of many of the graves is unknown. An expert has been going over the German burial records in Berlin for several weeks and virtually all the graves have been found. The German government has afforded every facility to the Graves Registration Service.

More than 20,000 bodies will be buried in the four permanent cemeteries which the American government will maintain in France.

The Fine Arts commission of the American War Memorial Council has arrived in Paris for a series of meetings and a tour of inspection of the permanent cemeteries. The commission has in contemplation plans for the beautification of the cemeteries and will determine the character of headstones to be used and the general decorative scheme to be followed. The commission will probably consult with leading French landscape artists.

WILL INSPECT BUILDINGS

A number of buildings in Suffolk street standing on land owned by the Locks and Canals will be inspected by Frank A. Connor, building inspector, and Arthur T. ## STATE UNIVERSITY NEEDED

At a recent gathering of educators, chiefly college men, the subject of a state university was broached and representatives of various colleges and universities, expressed the opinion that we have no need of a state university, that no boy at the present time is too poor to get a college education.

That statement is made either from selfish motives or through gross ignorance of the facts. The big colleges of New England are receiving great endowments and the more they get, the more expensive becomes the training they afford to students. At the present time Harvard university is much more expensive than it was a few years ago and the others gradually follow its example in fixing their rates if not in other respects.

If it is understood that the poor boy could receive a college education free of charge at a state university, then that is what is needed. There are thousands of boys ambitious for college training who cannot afford the expense and any institution that would enable them to get such an education would be a vast benefit to the state and to the people of this commonwealth.

The state should at least have a normal training college for its teachers. At the present time the graduates of colleges are hired as teachers in our high school or as principals of our grammar schools, without any special training for the teaching profession. That is one point in which our system of public instruction is very deficient. Yet it is a matter that could be remedied at a moderate cost. We conduct state normal schools for the training of elementary teachers; we should have one state training college in which students preparing for the teaching profession could take up the courses best calculated to make them successful. That would obviate the necessity of employing untrained men.

From such a college, the free state university would be but a step and Massachusetts will never reach the educational eminence she should hold, until she has a state university that will make college training for those of limited means, practically as free as air.

COST OF GOVERNMENT

President Harding said in his message: "The high cost of living is inseparably linked with the high cost of government." The truth of this statement may well be kept clearly in mind. There can be little hope of getting back to "normalcy" until we can so regulate our governmental affairs that they will be conducted on the same basis of economy as characterizes the operations of successful private business enterprises.

It should be plain enough also that we must somewhere and sometime call a halt to the constant expansion of the fields in which the government is active. The federal government is faced with the necessity of enacting a tax law that will lay a burden upon everyone because of the late war, and also by the fact that we are adding to those burdens by opening up new fields of expenditure. We cannot have one of the largest navies in the world without paying for it. The extension of government aid in the building of roads, the constant adding of new departments and bureaus to the government machinery in Washington, can only be accomplished at the expense of the people who support the government.

In Lowell this year the cost of maintaining the municipal government is to be about $314,000 in excess of the cost last year, although most of the commodities for which the city pays its cash have receded in price. Whether this increase is justified may be an open question. It should be realized, though, that we cannot go on increasing salaries of city employes, we cannot build elaborate hospitals, spend large sums on streets, and other projects, however worthy, without paying the bills.

There can be no escape from high taxes, the high cost of living or the high cost of government until we find a means of doing away with the inefficiency and wastefulness in governmental expenditures, and even with these eliminated we can hardly expect a return to the old standards unless we are willing to curtail some of the very desirable activities on which we are constantly insisting the government shall embark.

THE ELEVATED RAILWAY PROBE

The revelations made thus far in the probe of the legislature of 1918, and its relations with the Boston Elevated railway are of a startling nature. It was in that year that the bills for public control of the Elevated and the Bay State street railways were passed and the rumors of graft and bribery became so persistent that the attorney general was obliged to take cognizance of the situation; but before he had time to act, the legislature of this year appointed a committee to conduct an investigation of the current charges.

Already that committee has shown that four members of the legislature drew upon certain banks for loans, which were secured by shares of Elevated, New York, New Haven and Hartford or General Electric stock.

The public control bills guaranteed the payment of dividends at the public expense; but if it be found that the company or any person representing it, used money or certificates of stock as bribes to secure the passage of the bills in question, then the guilty parties should be punished to the full extent of the law.

Some of these railway companies have been raising a very mournful wail over what they designate as poor business; but if they have money to bribe legislators, they should be prevented from drawing further upon the public treasury.

When the legislative probe is finished, it may be the function of the attorney general to take up the charges and deal with them under the criminal code and to see that every bribe giver as well as every bribe taker will be brought before the bar of justice for the punishment which the magnitude of his crime may deserve.

MORE BUILDING TROUBLE

Not only Boston but all the cities in the vicinity are likely very soon to experience trouble in the building trades as a result of the act of the Boston contractors in declaring for the open shop while paying their men 90 cents an hour. The building trades have been on a strike against a reduction of wages from a dollar an hour and over to 90 cents an hour. As the building trades struck against the cut in wages, and maintained a strike for several months, the contractors, unable to reach an acceptable agreement, have declared for the open shop and no further recognition of the unions. The latter, however, have announced their intention to fight this move, so that the outlook for building progress in Boston is rather gloomy. It is highly probable that the action of the Boston contractors was largely influenced by the scandalous revelations of corruption in the building trades of New York city. Whatever the reason, the die is cast for a prolonged conflict unless somebody intervenes to force a settlement.

REMOVE NATIONAL DISHONOR

It is to be hoped that the Colombian treaty now before the United States senate and under which we are to pay Colombia $25,000,000 damages for our part in the Panama revolution, organized and financed by American interests backed by President Roosevelt, will be speedily ratified. Furthermore, the less said of this treaty and the reasons for its presence at this time, the better will it be for our reputation and our national honor.

Senator Kellog in opposing its ratification said favorable action by the senate would place a stain upon the name of President Roosevelt. Rather would it remove from the national escutcheon a stain deliberately placed there by said Roosevelt in his eagerness to snatch the territory necessary for the canal. He did the snatching and gave us the canal and it is but right that even at this late date we should settle with Colombia.

THE RAILROAD ORDER

The order of the Railroad Labor board sets July 1 as the limit of the duration of the present railroad pact dealing with wages and working conditions. It is fortunate that this action has met the approval of both the railroad managers and their employes.

The board has laid down certain principles as the basis of a new agreement which includes the eight-hour day, recognition of the unions and restriction upon the action of the unions in order to ensure fair treatment for the managers. If either side be found employing unwarranted obstinacy, the board reserves the right to depart from the terms of this decision and to impose new conditions. This action offers reasonable assurance of a peaceful solution of the railroad questions now at issue between the railroads and the Brotherhoods.

Mrs. Charmer and Miss Blunt met at the vicarage as both were paying calls. Tea was served and as Mrs. Charmer nibbled at her cake she murmured: "I must say, my dear Mrs. Pastor, that this cake is delicious." The vicar's wife beamed. Then the two ladies left and as they walked home Miss Blunt burst out: "Really, Mrs. Charmer, how could you say that appalling home-make cake was delicious?" The young wife met her husband on the doorstep. Before he had taken off his coat she began: "John, the cook has left—" Said the man, reproachfully, "Is it right to meet me with such news when I return home late from the office, tired and hungry?" "But, John, I merely want to say the cook has left—" "Yes, I know you merely want to say. And I merely want to say it's a shame that this household is always in a state of upset. Other women may manage to keep their servants. Why can't you?" "John, I will speak. The cook knew you would be late, so she left a cold chicken and custard pudding on the dining room table for you." "Well, Ethel, why in the world didn't you say that at first?"

By Frances Boardman

The climate fiend is what I've styled the type of citizen, my child, who feels obliged to alibi unpleasant weather, wet or dry, which heaven happens to have sent wherever he is resident. Suppose he lives upon the coast: eternal sunshine is his boast, and though the rain may fall in floods, dissolving you and all your duds—it isn't wet, he will insist; what you call cloudburst, he terms mist! Or, if the patriotic soul lives nearer to the Arctic pole, he loves to babble in your ear, "You never feel the cold up here!" And that's the story he relates, though you may have to use your skates to navigate the morning tub. Another atmospheric dub defends the prairie hurricane as stimulating to the brain, and far superior to what the wretched mountaineers have got . . . One would not carp at local pride, and yet, I think I shall decide in favor of plain, common sense, when chatting of the elements!

Geographical Song

Did you ever hear of a geographical song? In case you haven't, here's an example of the type. It is used in Massachusetts schools to stimulate the children's interest in the various countries of the world, their weather and their animals. It is called "Climate," and the teachers and Normal school students who attended the Teachers' Institute yesterday sang it as a community number:

We sing of the polar bear, fearless and bold.
He never feels hot and he never feels cold.
Because where he lives, summer never occurs,
And the rest of the year he wears plenty of furs.

The crocodile lives in the tropical belt.
And neither the cold nor the heat ever fell.
Because in the winter his summers begin.
And the rest of the year he wears crocodile skin.

Now we poor unfortunates live in a clime
That calls for at least three full suits at a time.
A thick one and thin one for days cold and hot.
And a medium weight for the days that are not.

If you can't learn the verses, try the chorus. It's awfully simple. In fact, it consists merely of the words, "Too-ra-lee. Too-ra-lay." Try it on your piano.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

I have at hand a copy of the Buffalo, S. D., Times that contains an item of news that should be of interest to Lowell people. It relates to a former Lowell boy. It reads as follows:

"County Judge Charles L. Brady received word this week from the clerk of the supreme court that he had successfully passed his examination for admittance to the bar of this state, so he is now a full fledged lawyer. Charley has been studying in the law office of W. M. Bennett for several years past, and while he had no previous law schooling, was able by diligent application to his books to gain admittance to the bar.

"Mr. Brady feels a great deal more gratification that he was admitted in spite of having no law college degree, than as though he obtained the same because he was lucky enough to possess parents able and willing to pay his way through a school of this kind."

Mr. Brady is the son of Hannah A. Brady and the late Charles Brady. He will be remembered as having been a pupil at the Highland school. He went to his present home in Buffalo about eleven years ago.

THOUGHT SHE HAD HEART DISEASE

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" Made Complete Cure of Stomach Trouble

MRS. FRANK W. WALLACE

Moultonville, Carroll Co., N. H.

"An account I read about 'Fruit-a-tives' or Fruit Liver Tablets in one of our newspapers prompted me to try this remedy.

I was all run down and work was burdensome owing to Indigestion and Fullness, due to gas on my stomach which caused me to belch a good deal. My heart seemed to be affected.

It was two years ago that I was in this condition and began the use of 'Fruit-a-tives'. Even though the trouble had been of a few years standing, the use of 'Fruit-a-tives' proved the very remedy I required. I was freed of the Indigestion, which I attributed to my heart; and I can conscientiously recommend 'Fruit-a-tives' as a remedy of merit";

Quarter Century Ago

Quarter of a century ago former Governor William E. Russell was in the zenith of his fame and had set out to attend the national democratic convention. He was widely mentioned as a candidate for president but as the oratory of Mr. Bryan swept the field, Russell and several others were disappointed. Had Russell been chosen, things might have gone differently in the national election. Russell was a staunch democrat, an orator and a statesman. From the old Sun of April 14 I take the following:

"MONTICELLO, Va., April 14.—The 153d anniversary of Thomas Jefferson's birthday was fittingly observed here, where he lived and died, by a gathering of a large number of prominent democrats from all sections of the country.

"Hon. William E. Russell was the speaker. In opening his oration, he said:

"'We meet today as democrats to pledge our loyalty to our party and to consult together for the promotion of its interests; but, first and foremost, we meet as Americans to serve our country and to keep our party steadfast to her welfare. As Americans and democrats, we honor the memory of him whose birthday we celebrate, and out of whose life and work were largely wrought the independence and stability of our nation, and the principles and policies which have made her great and glorious. His work was fundamental, national, establishing equality, liberty, creating a great republic, enlarging its territory and making it supreme over a continent and respected everywhere. He founded a great party as the necessary instrument to accomplish large purposes and the permanent power to maintain and enforce undying principles.'"

Notre Dame Reading Circle

Says the old Sun:

"The Notre Dame reading circle made its debut in amateur theatricals yesterday afternoon at the academy in the presentation of Cardinal Wiseman's chaste and entertaining story, Fabiola, and only words of praise can be uttered of every one of the participants. They acquitted themselves most creditably, showing a degree of culture in the dramatic art often not excelled by professionals. They showed skilled and careful training at the hands of their teachers and gave a proof of the results attainable by well directed effort.

"Misses Mollie Murphy and Joyce assumed the leading roles, while lesser parts were well portrayed by Misses McSorley, O'Hearn, T. Delany and the other young ladies in the cast."

Post 42, G.A.R. Band

Twenty-five years ago the old building known as Barristers hall stood on the corner of Merrimack and Central streets, now occupied by the Chalifoux store. On the street floor there was a drug store conducted for many years by Edward Ellingwood, and the upstairs rooms were rented to lawyers and fraternal organizations. At that time Post 42 band, of which James A. Murphy was leader, was the foremost band in this vicinity for many years. It had fitted up elegant quarters in Barristers hall as will be seen by the following from the old Sun:

"A jolly time was enjoyed by the members of Post 42 Military band and their friends last evening when the band dedicated its new quarters in Barristers hall. The rooms are three in number and are elegantly fitted up. In all $400 was spent in furnishing the rooms, and they are a credit to any band. A pleasing entertainment was given in which the Abt and the Amphion quartets, and members of the band participated."

Mr. Murphy, through pressure of business, retired from the leadership some ten years ago and the Post 42 band merged into the Lowell Military band, which has its quarters at the Musicians union rooms on Central street.

25 Years Wed

From The Sun:

"A charming spring wedding occurred this morning (April 15) in the Immaculate Conception church, the happy couple being Dr. Daniel T. O'Keefe of Jamaica Plain and Miss Katherine T. Allen of Nesmith street.

"The ceremony was performed by Rt. Rev. Dr. Allen, president of Mt. St. Mary's college, Emmitsburg, Md., a brother of the bride, assisted by Rev. Fr. Joyce, O.M.I., of the Immaculate Conception church."

Billerica Council Royal Arcanum

Says The Sun:

"One of the events of the season in North Billerica was the first annual concert and ball of the North Billerica council, No. 1323, Royal Arcanum, in Talbot Memorial hall last evening. The officers were: General manager, John W. Broadbent; assistant, John J. Conley; floor director, James A. Ruth; assistant, James Bradley. The event was attended by many members of Lowell Council."

Eleven Horses Perished in Fire

From the old Sun I find that the Gilmore stable on Arch street was the scene of a serious fire about this time quarter of a century ago. Eleven horses and a number of sleighs and other vehicles were lost.

Advocated Public Baths

When in the common council in 1896, John O'Hare, who passed away last Sunday, advocated a system of public baths as indicated by the following from the old Sun:

"The board of health gives a unanimous endorsement to Councilman O'Hare's resolution for free public baths. In years past the board has strongly advocated free public baths, and in support of their position argue that they would promote the public health. They are partial to shower baths, that would be available at all seasons as Councilman O'Hare's plan would provide."

Several attempts were made to establish permanent public baths such as here suggested but all fell through because of the expense. The time may come when the city can enjoy such a luxury.

Stepping Stones to Success

Says the old Sun:

"Before the Y.M.C.I. last evening in their commodious hall Edward J. Gallagher of The Sun lectured upon 'Stepping Stones of Success.'" He said that a man's success in any line of business is measured by the energy and skill he applies to that business. The chief stepping stones he enumerated were: Vision, to see conditions; Judgment, to pass upon them and reach right conclusions; then Courage and Will Power to carry things through. The necessary equipment, he said, demands education or special training, industry, frugality, stability of character, ambition, tact, faith and perseverence.

Master Builders of Days Agone

Says the old Sun:

"It takes more than a warm night to keep the members of the Lowell Builders association away from their annual meeting, and when The Sun reporter dropped in on them, last evening, in response to their invitation, he found a large gathering around the festive board.

"At the business meeting, held before the banquet, the following officers were elected: President, Frank L. Weaver; vice-president, W. H. Kimball; secretary, Charles P. Conant; treasurer, George H. Watson. W. H. Kimball, Wm. H. Wiggin, Royal S. Ripley, C. H. Coburn, D. M. Prescott, and F. O. White. The last five named are the new men on the board. It was the general opinion among the members that this is the strongest board that the exchange has had for several years."

The Master Builders at that time had quarters in the southwest corner of Central and Appleton streets. They had reconstructed the building for their own convenience. Some years ago the association lost its cohesion and as such passed out of existence. The Master Plumbers and Master Painters have separate organizations.

FOR R. R. LABOR BOARD

Three Vacancies Filled—W. L. McMenimen of Massachusetts Named

WASHINGTON, April 16.—The three vacancies on the railroad labor board were filled today by President Harding with the nomination of Walter McMenimen of Massachusetts, deputy president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, to represent the labor group; Samuel Higgins of New York, former general manager of the N. Y., N. H., & H. R. R., to represent the management group, and Ben W. Hooper, former governor Tennessee, to represent the public group.

OPERATED ON HEADS OF PATIENTS WITH CHISELS

NEW YORK, April 15.—Prehistoric Indians of South America had crude medicine men who removed splinters of arrow-heads and stone bludgeons from wounded warriors by cutting through the skull with knives of stone of obsidian and other simple instruments wrought from copper and bronze. Sometimes the patient lived; frequently he went to the happy hunting grounds.

These uncomfortable treatments of serious casualties from tribal skirmishes still continue in remote areas of Bolivia. Evidence of this has been gathered by field workers from the American Museum of Natural History.

Of nearly 1200 skulls collected in South America by the late Dr. Adolph Bandelier for exhibition in the museum, about five per cent has been operated upon. To surgeons the practice is known as trephining. It consists of removing a disk or button of bone from the skull with a saw called a trephine.

Complete fracture of the skull with depression of the bony plates must have been common occurrences during the ancient tribal wars when clubs headed with stone and copper along with slings, the "Bob" and the "Hint" were offensive weapons, said the reports of the museum's investigators.

A natural procedure, they opined with skull fractures must have been attempts to remove the splinters of bone that pricked the brain, or to cut out fragments pressing upon it.

Warlike clans fight intermittently even today in the wilds of Bolivia and skull fractures are common. Other heads are perforated now and then in the bacchanales and festivals whooped up occasionally with great quantities of intoxicants, the investigators reported. When the laughter and the free-for-alls quiet down, the medicine men get out their sharp pocket knives and make incisions into the injured skulls of the sufferers, frequently covering the aperture with gourd. During the operation they scrape around the wound with a chisel.

Modern anaesthetics are unknown to the medicine men. They put their patient into insensibility by constant use of the "coca" plant. This also is employed for healing purposes, and is commonly applied to wounds, bruises and contusions.

Mr. McMenimen has been active in the legislative department of the Brotherhood, and recently conferred with President Harding regarding the general railroad situation. He will succeed J. J. Forrester.

Mr. Hooper, a republican, succeeds Henry Hunt of Ohio, a democrat. Mr. Hooper is a lawyer and recently had been prominently under consideration for appointment as commissioner of internal revenue. His appointment places two Tennessee men on the board, the chairman, Judge Barton, being from that state.

Mr. Higgins succeeds W. L. Park of Chicago.

The new appointments are for five years. The three new members succeed men who were named for one year. The terms of three other members of the board will expire in another year and those of the remaining three members will expire two years hence. All new appointments, under the law, are to be for five years.

Boy Injured Week Ago Still on Dangerous List—Duprez Improving

Victor Balkus, aged 9 years, who is at St. John's hospital suffering from a fractured skull as a result of being struck by an auto in E. Merrimack st. near the railroad crossing a week ago today, is reported as resting comfortably. Although he is not yet out of danger, it was stated at the hospital today that his condition has greatly improved.

Alexandre Duprez of 230 Cheever st., who was struck by an automobile in Broadway Thursday afternoon and who is confined at the Lowell Corporation hospital, is improving, according to hospital officials. The man is suffering from abrasions about the body and a probable fracture of the skull.

The Appleton company is the only local cotton mill that will operate next Monday. This mill will shut down next Tuesday, Patriots' day and will resume operations on a full-time schedule, Wednesday.

The Tremont & Suffolk mill shut down last night until Wednesday morning and it was stated at the mill today that it is expected the mill will resume its full-time schedule a week from next Monday, in all departments.

The Merrimack Manufacturing company, which has been on a four-days-a-week schedule for several months, extended its operations this week to this noon at which time the plant shut down until next Wednesday morning.

The Boott mills shut down last night, the Hamilton Mfg. Co. suspended operations Thursday night and the Massachusetts was kept in operation until this noon. These three mills will resume operations Wednesday morning.

Employes of the United States Cartridge company were notified this morning that the entire plant would close this noon until Wednesday morning. The Saco-Lowell shops suspended operations last night until Wednesday morning. Some of the departments of the Lawrence Manufacturing company shut down Wednesday night, while others were kept busy until this noon. The plant will reopen again Wednesday morning.

CLEAN-UP-DAY IN CHELMSFORD

Chelmsford Centre is today undergoing its annual spring cleaning, and according to reports received at noon from the neighboring village, nothing is being spared to make that part of the town spotless. The "clean up" is being conducted under the auspices of the Chelmsford Centre Village Improvement association and everyone including men, women and children, is lending a helping hand.

Arrangements were made with officials of the town and during the entire day special teams were pressed into service to carry away the rubbish and other undesirable material and the gang of employes of the health department of the town were kept very busy. At noon the workers were entertained at dinner in Odd Fellows hall by the women of the association and at the close of the dinner a social hour was enjoyed, during which there was community singing under the direction of Albert Edmund Brown of this city.

Very Unusual Liquor Case

redolent of alcoholic odors. The only exhibit offered by the state was the empty receptacle which gave forth the moonshine scent at the time of Pinnette's arrest. Officer O'Sullivan, who first took the stand for the prosecution, described his entry into Pinnette's establishment, followed by the other members of the liquor squad. He declared that Pinnette, observing the invasion, hastened to the sink, poured forth with all speed the contents of a dipper, and turned on the water, which swept away any actual hooch, although it was not able to remove the telltale bouquet of booze. Officer O'Sullivan and his confreres all took turns smelling of sink and dipper, and then confiscated the latter. They arrested Pinnette on charges of unlawfully keeping liquor. Counsel for the defense asked Officer O'Sullivan if he saw any dishes in the sink, in process of washing. The officer had not seen any such articles. He could not say, however, whether there were in fact dishes there or not. Officer Winn took the stand and corroborated the foregoing testimony. "Did you see Pinnette run to the sink?" he was asked. "No," he replied. "But you just heard," continued counsel for the defense, "the testimony of Officer O'Sullivan, who says that the defendant did so run." "Well, O'Sullivan was in front of me. He entered the place first," was the reply. It was explained that the raiders went into the establishment Indian file, and that O'Sullivan discerned Pinnette while the latter was three or four feet from the sink and its fatal dipper reposing nearby. Pinnette was not slow, it seemed, to perceive the officers, for according to the testimony, the latter had hardly got "twelve inches" inside the door, when the odorous content of the receptacle had been deposited in the sink. The defense offered no testimony, appealed the sentence, and secured the release of Pinnette on bond to appear before the superior court.

raiders are not exactly hoodwinked by even the most elaborately prepared devices for evading the arm of justice. Officer Winn told the story of the raid early this afternoon. According to the statement of the officer, the near-beer resort was entered shortly before midday today.

The proprietor, with marvelous agility, seized a shaker, presumably of the sort known in days gone by as a "cocktail shaker," and poured the contents thereof precipitately into the sink. But, alas, he overlooked a vital factor in the matter. For, according to Officer Winn, the stopper of the sink had not been taken out. Leaping over the bar, with the devil-may-care ease of an Old King Brady, one of the officers, with rare presence of mind, filled a bottle with the water which was in the sink, and carefully corked it up, for future reference in connection with the state analyst. A search warrant was then submitted to the gaze of the proprietor, states Officer Winn, and as the result of a hunt which did not cease until fruitful of results, the mysterious hiding-place with its sliding panel was discovered. Three and one-half pints of spirits were unveiled, and these were duly taken to police headquarters along with the proprietor.

CLERGYMAN SENTENCED

Given 30 Days for Refusal to Send His Children to School

GREENFIELD, April 16.—For refusal to send his children to school, Rev. Walter Carroll of Leyden was today sentenced to jail for 30 days after he had declined an offer from relatives to pay a fine of $15. The clergyman who has supplied the pulpit of the Methodist church in Leyden during the past winter, is 29 years old and has six children, five of whom are of school age. He was haled into the district court by the school committee, who asserted that his objection to the teacher on the ground of alleged moral unfitness, was baseless. The committee testified that the teacher was well equipped morally and mentally, but Carroll in court persisted in his refusal to allow the children to attend the school and was found guilty.

AGED RECLUSE FOUND BRUTALLY MURDERED

HILL, N. H., April 16—George Brown, an aged recluse, living alone on a small farm on Borough road, about four miles north of here, was found brutally murdered yesterday when Neal Dolloff, a lumberman from a nearby lumber camp, stopped to see what Brown's team of horses were doing in the orchard.

Brown was lying face down in the yard between the barnhouse and the wagon shed. His head had been split open by an axe or some other sharp instrument. It is believed he had been lying there since last Saturday evening.

Robbery evidently was the motive, for the farmhouse had been ransacked from top to bottom, and although Brown was known to always carry a large sum of money in his pockets not a cent was found yesterday, and his pockets had been turned inside out.

Harry Turner who saw the man jump, dived from a bridge over the canal and reached Ivanovicz who by that time was struggling to save himself. With the aid of others, Turner got the man out and he was removed to a hospital unconscious where it was said he was likely to recover.

NATIONAL HOSPITAL DAY, MAY 12TH

CHICAGO, Ill., April 15.—In a letter to Matthew O. Foley, executive secretary of the National Hospital day committee, President Warren G. Harding has endorsed National Hospital day, May 12; when the 8000 hospitals throughout the country will make an organized effort to tell the public of the true scope of hospital service.

President Harding's letter follows:

"The White House, Washington.

"My dear Mr. Foley:

"It is especially a pleasure at this time to express my interest in the work of National Hospital day, which seeks to arouse the largest possible public interest in the work of the country's hospitals and similar institutions. You have most properly chosen May 12th, the anniversary of the birth of Florence Nightingale, as the day to be celebrated as National Hospital day. Just at this time those of us who are concerned in the administration of national affairs are having our attention forced to the very great need of expanded hospital facilities, by reason of the requirements of disabled soldiers. I can most heartily extend my good wishes for the most useful results from your efforts.

"Very truly yours,

"WARREN G. HARDING."

NEW YORK, April 16.—The short trading period on the stock exchange today was marked by a continuance in moderate measure of yesterday's sweeping recovery. Leaders of the oil, steel, equipment, copper and miscellaneous groups were 1 to 5 points higher at maximum levels, but gains were subjected to irregular revision, due to profit-taking in the later dealings. Rails were less prominent than yesterday but averaged one point gains, except Canadian Pacific which was under pressure. The closing was firm. Sales approximated 350,000 shares.

Britain Still Faces Great Coal Crisis

LONDON, April 16.—(By the Associated Press)—The sensational developments of yesterday in the industrial dispute, while relieving the country from the danger of a railway and transport strike, still leave the nation faced with a great coal crisis involving continuance of the stoppage of work in the mines until at least Friday next. The executive body of the miners conferred today concerning the situation arising from the breach in the triple alliance of the railwaymen, the transport workers and the miners, created by the railroad and transport men condemning the refusal of the miners to enter into new negotiations of their claims and abandoning the latter to fight the battle alone.

Williams was employment manager at the Alice mill in this city during recent years. He was a former commander of the Rhode Island division Sons of Veterans, and a prominent Mason.

Lawrence Builders for Open Shop

LAWRENCE, April 16.—The local building contractors at a meeting held today voted to inaugurate an open shop policy here in view of the fact that the 3000 building mechanics have refused to accept a 20 per cent reduction in wages, which became effective on April 1. Individual contractors will resume building operations here on Wednesday, April 20, at a wage scale of 85 cents an hour which is the same as was in effect in this vicinity prior to March 31, 1920.

PUSH ANTI-LIQUOR DRIVE

Officials Arrest 650 Alleged Bootleggers in New York—Jails Crowded

NEW YORK, April 16.—The police campaign to wean New York away from spirituous libations, as prescribed in the state's new bone-dry law, yesterday began to assume far-reaching ramifications.

Regardless of the fact that 650 arrests have been made within a week and that grand juries have returned only 40 indictments, resulting in clogged dockets and crowded jails, the police continued to bring in alleged violators of the liquor laws, rounded up in raids on barber shops, grocery stores, private homes and other places.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Unger announced his intention last night of asking for the appointment of two additional grand juries to devote their attention to liquor cases.

The state supreme court today held that search warrants might not be issued merely on the "information and belief" of a policeman that contraband liquor is on the premises he wishes to search.

Mr. Unger said last night that 25 cases were presented to the grand jury yesterday and 23 indictments returned. This, he said, is a new record for indictments, and brings the total to 70 for the week.

ITALIAN AMBASSADOR TO U. S. VISITS HARVARD

BOSTON, April 16.—Visits to Harvard university and to Lawrence occupied the time today of Vittorio Orlando Ricci, Italian ambassador to the United States, who is spending three days in Boston.

Accompanied by the Italian consul, Marquis A. Ferrante Ruffano, the ambassador went first to Cambridge, where in the absence of President Lowell he was met by a reception committee headed by Charles H. Haskins, dean of the graduate school of arts and science. University hall, the Widener library, and the law school were visited by the party, the ambassador who is himself a lawyer, showing particular interest in the special law library.

An informal luncheon at the Harvard union given by the Italian club of Harvard followed, after which Ambassador Ricci left for Lawrence for an inspection of the textile mills and to meet the Italian residents of the city.

CONGRESSMAN ROGERS WANTS BIG NAVY

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Representative Rogers of Massachusetts introduced in the house today a resolution calling for a declaration by congress that until a program for the reduction of armaments is agreed to by the leading nations of the world it shall be the policy of congress, that the United States shall have a navy second to none.

The resolution also urges the president to call an international congress to discuss disarmament, the nations to be invited to join being Great Britain, France, Japan and Italy and such others as the president shall see fit. An appropriation of $100,000 is provided for the expenses of the congress, the District of Columbia being designated as the meeting place.

PHILADELPHIA, April 16.—Government reorganization, elimination of waste, human and material from American industry; patent office reform, personnel of the interstate commerce commission, and the proposed St. Lawrence waterway, were subjects on the program for discussion at a meeting of the New American Engineering council of the Federated American Engineering council of the Federated American Engineering societies here today.

BRIEF BUT IMPORTANT WIRE DESPATCHES

BURLINGTON, Vt., April 16.—A sweeping measure to revise the salaries of about 700 Rutland railroad employes has been started according to an order issued by George T. Jarvis, vice president and general manager of the road.

ROME, April 15—Planks in the platform of the Fascisti, or extreme nationalist party, have been outlined in an appeal to the nation which has been published throughout Italy as a part of the partisan activities which are marking the bitter electoral campaign now in progress.

CHICAGO, April 16.—Officials of the Commonwealth Edison Co. today had the last word in the controversy over a game scheduled for Sunday between the Aristo Giants, a semi-professional baseball club of the Chicago league and the Black Sox, most of whom are dismissed members of the Chicago White Sox.

BIDDEFORD, Me., April 16.—A constitutional amendment proposing a union of the Maine and Eastern Maine conferences, offered at the business session of the Maine conference of the Methodist Episcopal church in session here, was lost today.

CLEVELAND, April 16.—The annual convention of the National League of Women Voters, which has been in session here since Monday, closes this afternoon with a meeting of the national board of the league and the state chairman.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Chairman Penrose today called a meeting of the senate finance committee for Monday to take up the emergency tariff and anti-dumping bill passed yesterday by the house.

HOOVER SAYS RATES MUST COME DOWN

WASHINGTON, April 16.—The whole rate structure needs consideration "as to its bearing on our future national life," Sec. Hoover declared yesterday, before the conference of the American Farm Bureau federation.

"Unless we can look forward to some drop in rates," he said, "we shall rewrite the whole industrial geography of the United States."

The present rate on a bushel of grain from Missouri points to New York is 30 cents a bushel, as against 10 cents from Argentine to New York, he said, and a continuation of this condition would change the granary base from the central states of the west to foreign shores.

America, he continued, should take a lesson from Europe, "where the conversion of agricultureal states into industrial centers because of the war is in some instances imperilling their national defense."

"We cannot have the United States dependent on overseas for its food supply," he declared. He added that it was of primary necessity for the nation to look after the protection of the agricultural interests and see that they develop along with industrial growth.

He welcomed the growth of the Co-operative Marketing associations as they would solve many of the present-day problems.

POLISH DIET VOTES TO RATIFY TREATMENT

WARSAW, April 16—(By the Associated Press)—Ratification of the treaty of peace between Poland, soviet Russia and Ukraine, has been voted by the Polish diet. This action, which took place yesterday, completes Poland's engagement to have the convention approved within 20 days after the pact was signed, on March 18. The Bolshevik government ratified it on March 22, but similar action on the part of Ukraine has not as yet been reported.

Under the terms of the convention soviet Russia ceded to Poland 3000 square kilometres near Minsk, and Russia and Ukraine turned over to Poland the district of Polesia, on the Ukrainian frontier. Russia and Ukraine agreed to pay to Poland within a year after ratification of the treaty 30,000,000 gold rubles and to release Poland from being liable for any share of the debts of the former Russian empire. Amnesty for political crimes was provided and all parties agreed to abstain from propaganda against one another.

The vote of the Diet in ratifying the treaty was unanimous.

LOWELL CHARTER BILL

The Lowell charter bill is still in the hands of the house committee on third reading and has been ordered reprinted. It is understood that owing to the number of changes which have been made in the document, it will have to go to the senate again for concurrence even though that body has previously ordered the original bill passed to be engrossed. Inasmuch as the legislature does not meet again until Wednesday, it is doubtful if final action on the bill will be reached next week.

THOUGHT THAT FIRE IS UNDER CONTROL

A fire that has been burning in an out-door coal pile in the yard of the Lowell Electric Light corporation on Perry street for about two weeks is believed to be under control. It is stated that the coal became ignited as a result of spontaneous combustion. A steam shovel has been at work removing the fuel from around the point in the coal pile where the fire is burning. The corporation had a similar fire that started about two years ago and burned for nearly a year, causing great financial loss and the sacrifice of one life.

FANS STILL DISCUSSING AVILA-GIBBS BOUT

"'Twas ever thus."

Boxing fans who failed to witness the Avila-Gibbs bout here the other night missed one of the rare treats of the season. But it invariably happens that when a great bout is pulled off, a small house is on hand. And "flivvers" generally occur when a packed gallery is looking on.

It falls to the lot of the boxing writers who "cover" the bouts to sit in at all shows and in that capacity the writer has seen many good, bad and indifferent numbers, but seldom has it been our good fortune to watch such a hectic combat as the Avila-Gibbs encounter.

Terrific hitting, scientific boxing, ring generalship, bewildering exchanges, remarkable assimilative qualities, fast and clever footwork, skillful dodging, ducking and blocking, dogged determination, furious and hurricane countering, and about everything else ever enacted in the ring, with the exception of stalling or the application of the kayo, were crowded into these ten rounds of never-to-be-forgotten fighting.

The bout has created more discussion round town than any held here in many a day. Those who witnessed it proclaim it one of the greatest ever, while those who were "among the missing" are regretting their action and hoping for a return engagement of the pair. Surely no better card appears on the local horizon.

GAELIC GAMES AT SPALDING PARK

Followers of the Irish national games will learn with great pleasure and gratification of the Gaelic football and hurling games that are planned for Spalding park on the afternoon of April 19, Patriots day, by the members of the Lowell Gaelic Athletic association.

The first attraction for the day will be a hurling game between the St. Enda's team of Lowell and the Clare men of Boston and as both teams are primed up for the meeting a good contest is expected. It is a long time since an old-fashioned hurling game was played by the exponents of Gaelic sports in Lowell and the old-timers will learn of the news with pleasure.

The second attraction, and one which promises a sterling contest, is the game planned between the St. Enda's football team of this city and the Tipperary team of Boston. The Lowell team in this department is comprised of some first class material and the followers of the sport are anxious to see them under pressure next Tuesday afternoon. Last Sunday the team met and defeated a group of Lawrence players and the members believe this a good omen for their opening game.

The introduction and revival of these hurling and Gaelic football games for the city of Lowell is the result of hard effort on the part of a group of young men who set out at the beginning of the year to bring the games back to Lowell on the plane that they should enjoy. The practice matches have attracted a large number of young men, mostly of Irish birth, and all departments of the sport have taken on a new lease of life. These Irish games will be a treat to the old-timers and will undoubtedly be a novelty to many who do not know what the Irish national game looks like. Special cars have been promised by Manager Leavitt of the local street railway.

POLICE STOPPED BOUT

Lowell, Mass., April 14.

Dear Sporting Editor—Will you kindly print to settle argument, did Jack Johnson put the K.O. on Tommy Burns, or did the police stop the bout to prevent further punishment of Burns? Yours truly,
JAMES CALLAHAN.

The record book shows that the police stopped the bout in the 14th round to save Burns from further punishment.

LISTON SURVIVES CUT IN B. C. BASEBALL SQUAD

Jimmy Liston of this city, who starred on the eastern championship B. C. football team, has survived the cut made by Coach Gildea, in the B. C. baseball squad, and his many Lowell friends and admirers look to see him make a big mark on the diamond this season as he made on the gridiron during the passed season.

Liston has been a prominent ball player for several years. When in the Lowell high school he starred in the catching department, and broke up many games by his fine hitting. He also worked behind the bat for the South Ends and other local teams, while he has also played the outfield many times.

He's a heady player, a fast and elusive runner, and a reliable hitter. These qualifications were evidently responsible for him being held by Coach Gildea, who has just made one of the most radical moves in the history of college sports.

Six veterans of last season's B.C. team have fallen victims of the swinging axe.

Swan and Gormley, veteran outfielders, considered to be good, were let go. Cody and Gallagher, veteran infielders, Cody considered to be a very classy player last year, were also dropped. Frank Morrissey, veteran utility man for three years past, was also ignominiously dumped.

Gildea's action has stirred up quite some talk on the Heights, to say the least. He had a bulky squad turned over to him by Veteran Tom McCarthy, and a plentitude of good players are in it. But some of the men he dropped would make good material for a strong college nine. Babe Ormsby, for instance, a recruit on the Heights, played ball at Georgetown and was thought to be a good infielder. Cody, one of the veteran infielders slashed, has been playing a fine game of ball for B.C. Swan and Gormley, outfielders, are clever gardeners and pretty good stickmen. Mooney, Foley, Mulligan and some of the other outfielders dropped were good fielders and batters.

Luke Urban was dropped from the catching department and is now lined up with the shortstops. This may be a wise move. But Gildea is going to find it hard getting a man to fill Urban's shoes behind the bat. Luke displaces Palmer at short. The catchers now on the squad are O'Regan, veteran of three seasons; Philips and Sullivan, both recruits. Fitzpatrick, Mullowney, Kelley, Roderick, Vargus and Lashaway are the pitchers retained.

Jocko Halligan and Len Morrissey are the first basemen retained, Halligan being a veteran. Dowd and McIntire are the second basemen left. Urban, Palmer and Haggerty are the shortstops, with a possibility of Palmer being shifted to third to fight it out with Comerford, veteran.

YOUNG MONTREAL BEATS HERMAN

BOSTON, April 16.—Over confidence in his own ability to score a victory with a kayo, coupled with the clever jabbing and footwork of Young Montreal of Providence, lost Pete Herman, former world's bantam champion, a win at the Boston Arena last night.

The verdict against the former titleholder was on a fairly narrow margin, nevertheless the award to Montreal was correct.

What's more, it was the unanimous ruling of the two judges and referee, two of these officials being veterans of the sport.

Many did not like the award and made a howl over it, they figuring that Herman's heavier blows had won him the fray. But, while his blows did appear to be heavier, he was jabbed and straight lefted to face and body two to one for more than half the way. In money, the thousands of dollars must have changed hands, as Herman was a big favorite and Montreal was strongly backed.

The battle itself was a good one, and also one of the fastest seen in a long time. The men were always busy, dancing, stepping, shooting lefts or rights, cleverly sidestepping or mixing at close quarters. They kept the fans cheering from the first bell until the battle closed, the crowd of more than 8500 making the rafters ring.

AWARDED TO WHITE SOX

CALGARY, Alberta, April 16.—Milton Steengrafe, star pitcher of last year's Calgary club, of the Western Canadian league, has been awarded to the Chicago White Sox, according to a telegram from Judge K. M. Landis, received here by President Birch of the local club.

The ruling probably will be appealed, it was stated, as Steengrafe when under 18 years of age, signed to play for the White Sox, while his mother signed the Calgary contract.

74 TO COMPETE IN BIG MARATHON RACE

BOSTON, April 16.—The American marathon, the country's leading road race, which will be run again over the 25 miles of hill and flat from Ashland to this city next Tuesday, will have an entry list almost as large and quite as representative as in the many runnings of other years. The list as announced today by the Boston Athletic association, sponsors for the event, contains 74 names. Among them are several previous winners of this and other long distance races.

IT WASN'T THAT KIND OF A JAG

While going through Central street last evening Federal Prohibition Officer O'Dea spotted a large automobile truck filled with barrels and cans, and suspecting that the receptacles might contain liquor, he immediately made an investigation. In the meantime, the chauffeur of the machine, who was eating supper in a restaurant, came out and explained that the load consisted of turpentine and hardware, consigned to a store in Manchester, N. H., but the explanation did not satisfy the federal officer and the chauffeur and truck were taken to the police station. There, however, matters were explained and the driver of the car was allowed to proceed on his trip. Officer O'Dea later telephoned the Manchester police giving them the description of the machine with orders to examine the shipment when it was unloaded.

IRISH RELIEF WARD CANVASS

Plan Adopted at Meeting of the Local Committee Last Night

Various Events on Program to End Drive by April 30

The local general committee in charge of the campaign to raise $45,000 for the relief of sufferers in Ireland at a most enthusiastic and largely attended meeting in Elks hall last evening voted to supplement the efforts of the various organizations of the city by a systematic ward canvass and the committee of ten appointed at a previous meeting to canvass the downtown section was empowered to select ward captains for each district of the city.

The meeting was one of the most encouraging held since the local drive opened and everybody present agreed that added stimulus must be given the campaign if the city's quota is to be reached by April 30. At the present time, less than one-ninth of the quota has been raised, or $4713.26, according to Treasurer Stephen Flynn.

It was found that while the organizations are doing excellent work, they alone would be taking on a very heavy burden if they essayed to raise the entire quota. The question of whether ward canvass should be resorted to was discussed at length and finally voted by a good majority.

A committee was appointed to cooperate with Paul Kittredge council of the American association of the Recognition of the Irish Republic in an endeavor to bring Rev. Fr. O'Connor of Cork, Ireland, who is now in Boston, to Lowell on May 8 to give a stereopticon lecture on conditions in Ireland at the Opera House. This action followed an explanation by a committee representing Paul Kittredge council, of Rev. Fr. Connor's work. It was stated that he is a missionary priest who has spent the last two years in Ireland and who was a classmate of President De Valera in Rockwell college, Tipperary.

The committee explained that Paul Kittredge council believed the undertaking a little too much for it to attempt alone and for that reason wanted the sanction and co-operation of the general relief committee. A committee consisting of Dr. John T. Donohue, Ed. J. Gallagher, Thomas McQuade, Michael J. Markham, Leo Beaulieu, Miss Dillon and Miss Roche was appointed to endeavor to secure Father O'Connor to lecture here. The reverend gentleman is not attached to any church in this country but is vouched for by Mgr. McGlinchey of Boston.

Representatives of various organizations reported encouraging progress. Fred H. Rourke, reporting for the Lowell lodge of Elks, said that a big concert is being planned at the Opera House for a week from Sunday, the receipts to be turned over to the drive. A representative of St. Columba's parish said that $60 had already been raised there and that $100 would be realized from a whist party to be held next week.

Manager Schaake of the Lowell Opera House said that he was willing to turn over 50 per cent of the receipts of the theatre on Monday, April 25. Ordinarily, this would mean in the neighborhood of $300 or $400, but he believed that if the committee got behind a movement to make that performance a special occasion so that capacity audiences might be attracted, a greater sum might be realized. It was voted to thank Mr. Schaake for his kind offer and a committee consisting of Miss Ryan, Miss Maria Markham, Fred H. Rourke, Joseph E. Lamoureux, John Barrett and Edward J. Gallagher was appointed to co-operate with Mr. Schaake making April 25 a banner day at the Opera House.

President Walsh of the Broadway Social and Athletic club said that his organization was planning a big cabaret and dance at the Kasino next Friday evening. The club would pay all the expenses of the affair out of its own treasury and turn the receipts over to the relief fund.

Mr. McNerney of the Oliver Plunkett council of the A.A.R.I.R. said that the council was planning to hold a dancing party in Lincoln hall for the aid of the fund and that tickets for the affair had been out for seven weeks. He was afraid that this might detract from the Broadway enterprise.

Mr. McNerney said that Div. 11 of the A.O.H. at this last meeting had voted to solicit funds from its members for the relief fund and a similar report was received from Mr. Barrett of Division 8. President Peter J. McKenna reported that Nathan Hale council was planning a big concert a week from Sunday.

It was voted to furnish collectors with proper credentials from Mr. Rourke, supervisor of the drive in northern Middlesex county, consisting of a card with a seal and Mr. Rourke's signature. Mr. Rourke said that he would have receipt books ready at once.

Chairman O'Sullivan said that Mr. Kelley, who was in charge of the big carnival to be held at the Kasino the last week in April, had reported everything progressing most favorably and there was every indication that a substantial sum would be realized from this affair.

Miss Alice T. Lee reported for the League of Catholic Women and said that plans for the big button day to be held April 30 were fast nearing completion. The city is to be divided into districts on that day, she said, with an office in each district and the league rooms in Central street serving as the main headquarters. She said the league would need automobiles for the occasion.

Mr. Daly reported progress on the White Cross tag day but also asked for volunteers. Leo Beaulieu, who has been added to the C.M.A.C. committee on the drive, spoke briefly and assured the general committee of the fullest co-operation from that organization. Mr. Rourke said that an effort had been made to stage a boxing carnival here, but owing to the large sums asked by the boxers, the project would be of little financial advantage to the drive.

Prior to the meeting of the general committee, the committee of ten appointed at the previous meeting to canvass the downtown district, organized as a flying squadron. It was decided that Mr. Rourke and Mr. McGilly should canvass Merrimack street from city hall to Prescott street and the northerly side of Middlesex street. Mr. O'Sullivan and McMcKenna will canvass Central street from Merrimack street to Towers corner, Prescott street and the southerly side of Middlesex st. Mr. Lamoureux will canvass Merrimack street from city hall to Pawtucket st. and Moody street from Merrimack to Pawtucket. Mr McGilly was delegated to secure a Greek collector for Market and Salem streets and Capt. W. C. MacBrayne will be asked to canvass Bridge street from the square to Sixth street.

Mrs. Helen De atvrestyde MHT MHT

Mrs. Helen Beatty served as secretary at last evening's meeting. The committee adjourned at 10.10 to meet next Wednesday evening at 7.30.
